Boyd Wolff and Mrs. Wolff (left) share the spotlight this week in the governor's office as Wolff was sworn in as Pennsylvania's new Agriculture Secretary. Administering the oath of office is James J. Haggerty, Secretary of State. Governor Robert Casey is on the right.

Wolff Sworn In As Ag Secretary

Boyd E. Wolff, a lifelong farmer from Westmoreland County, was sworn in as Pennsylvania's Secretary of Agriculture in ceremonies in the capital.

"We want to assure legislatures representating rural Pennsylvania that their voices will be heard," Governor Robert P. Casey said in remarks at the conclusion of the ceremony.

"We want to make it clear to people who live in rural areas that we care about them as individuals," Casey said. "These are the concerns of this administration and of Secretary Wolff."

As secretary, Wolff, 55, oversees the commonwealth leading industry–a source of more than $35 billion in economic activity and jobs for one out of every five Pennsylvanians.

"I expect agriculture to play an important roll in this administration revitalization of the state's economy," Wolff said after taking the oath of office from Secretary of State James Haggerty.

"It is an honor to serve in the Casey administration for an industry I know well and love," said Wolff, a full-time farmer and leader in the local and state

Snider, Sands Join Holstein Hall Of Fame Ranks

WILKES-BARRE — Two more Pennsylvania dairymen were named to the Holstein Hall of Fame here Thursday night as Ralph Sands of Wyoming and Obie Snider of Imler were honored for their contributions to the state's dairy industry.

Snider, owner-operator of Singing Brook Farms, is well-known in the dairy community as a successful Holstein breeder. He served as president of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association and as national HFA director for two terms.

Internationally known as a professional judge of registered Holsteins, Snider has served as president of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show since its establishment in 1963. He is also a member of the Pennsylvania Milk Promotion Board.

In 1958, Snider was designated Outstanding Pennsylvania Young Farmer and the following year he received Master Farmer recognition. He also was honored with the Progressive Breeders Registry Award for eight years.

A graduate of Penn State University, he continues his interest in his alma mater as president of the university's board of trustees. A firm supporter of the school's college of agriculture, Snider served as chairman of the Ag Arena Fund Campaign which raised $1.7 million for the new building.

Snider has served on the board of directors of the Chestnut Ridge School District for 28 years and is a founding member of the East Freedom Chapel where he serves as Sunday school teacher and elder.

Snider and his wife, Mary Ann, have recorded several albums of Christian music. The couple has four children and seven grandchildren.

Wyoming dairyman Ralph Sands is owner/operator of Sandsdale Farms. Sands and his wife, Marion, farm 206 acres (90 are rented) with a helping hand from daughter Harriet.

In February 1985 Sands sold the majority of his dairy herd to Laverne Herr of Gettysburg, but retained a few younger animals which he is using along with new stock to build another, smaller champion herd.

An active member of the Columbia-Luzerne Holstein Club, Sands is past and current president of the organization, a past state director and, for the past 15 years, has served as sales representative.

An official cattle judge, Sands has presided over shows in six states and has been helpful in selecting cattle for export both nationally and internationally.

A Holstein breeder for 38 years, Sands has raised numerous Excellent cows. In the local club, he bred high cow for type in 1983 and again in 1984. At the latest classification, his herd scored 106.5 BAA.

Sands has shown the grand champion Holstein at the Pennsylvania Farm Show several times, and took home the top honor from the State Black and White Show, and Bloomsburg and Hartford Fairs as well. He also earned several "All-PA" awards and several of his cows were nominated for "All-American."

Many of the bulls bred by Sands have been purchased by Western Cattle Breeders, Ontario, Hamilton Cattle Breeders, Ontario, Tri-State Breeders, Wisc., Eastern Cattle Breeders, Ithaca,

Tobacco Growers Eye Processing

BY JACK HUBLEY

LANCASTER — With the 1986 tobacco buying season coming to a close, Lancaster County farmers are finding themselves with a shed full of Maryland Type 609 tobacco and depressed prices.

Last year marked the first time in 40 years that Pennsylvania growers marketed their tobacco through an auction system, and prices averaged $1.15 a pound for 609, the tobacco commonly used in the manufacture of cigarettes. This year the top grades have been averaging about half of last year's prices, with outgrades selling in the 12-to-15-cent range.

Plummeting tobacco prices are generally blamed on a supply of processed burley tobacco being offered by the federal government. According to Ken Brubaker of Keystone Tobacco Marketing Group, a marketing company that represents the county's auctions, about 75 million pounds of

FUTURES MARKET TRENDS GRAIN AND LIVESTOCK

This market information provided by ACRES ACRES is a copyrighted market information service developed by the American Farm Bureau and available to Pennsylvania farmers on a daily basis through Pennsylvania Farmers' Association Farm Management Services. For additional market comments and trading service contact PFA Commodity Futures Service (717) 761-2740

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybean futures closed sharply lower at or near session lows...setting new contract lows again today. At midday, beans were mostly higher, with buying centered on the deferreds. Expectations that light delivery notices will be posted against March on Friday underpinned any gains in the nearby.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures closed mostly higher, with March posting a loss of 1/4 cent. This market was influenced mainly by bear spreading of May/Mar and scattered commercial selling on the news of a completed sale to wheat to Egypt. Deferred wheat maintained its advances throughout today's session on commission house and professional buying linked to ideas that yesterday's losses were overdone and the market was due for a technical correction.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle futures closed sharply lower in a deteriorating session again today. Aggressive selling stimulated when the noon dressed beef prices quoted were quoted $1.00 to $2.00 lower. Concerns about retail demand fueled selling pressuring both live cattle and feeder cattle futures. Bull spreaders liquidated positions today also adding weakness to the overall tone. The seasonal uptrend that lasts until Mid February is apparently over with for now.

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Live hog futures closed sharply lower and pork belly futures closed in a very weak mode today. The cash market started out steady to $ .50 lower with some quotes of $1.00 lower in early trading. The overall cash market has settled between $ 46.00 and $48.00 in today's trade. The first notice day for March pork bellies will be this coming Friday, so traders were rolling forward the long positions in March and placing them in May. Concerns over large daily slaughter continues to plague the market. Estimated slaughter today was 295,000 compared with 300,000 yesterday.

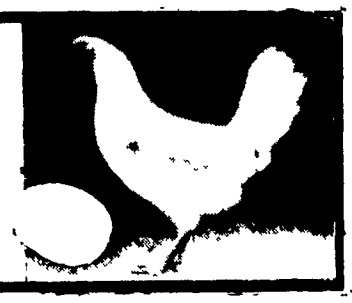
POULTRY MARKETS



Northeast Chicken Parts

Thursday, Feb. 26, 1987

Comment: Trading activity was very light in total as dealers have generally reported slow business all week, but most expect orders to pick up tomorrow. Cutlets were at least adequate and sellers, who bulked at 1.80 yesterday, were more than willing to take the 1.80 today. Breasts were increasingly available at current price levels with an occasional discount noted. Legs, leg quarters and particularly wings were ample and sellers were struggling to move product.

Breasts, skinned, boneless 1.80-1.85.
Rib-on-breasts .89-.90.
Line one breasts .87.
Legs .34-.35.
Leg quarters .26-.27.
Wings .38-.40.
Backs and necks .11-.12.
Livers .15.
Gizzards (hearts) .30.

Today's negotiated sales as of 11:30 a.m. prices paid per pound on ice packed part delivered in pool trucklot and trucklot quantities.

Delmarva Poultry

Thursday, Feb. 25, 1987

Market Comment: Demand for ready to cook whole birds and parts is light and unaggressive. Seller offerings are available on all items. Whole breasts were in best balance overall, but even here availability has increased and was at least adequate. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 49-55 cents but several sellers were more than willing to negotiate at lower levels in an effort to stimulate movement. Live supplies were at least moderately heavy. The undertone was barely steady to weak.

Estimated slaughter of broiler fryers in Delmarva:

Estimated 2/26 2,003,000; Actual 2/19 1,953,000.

Actual 2/24 2,029,000.

Average Weights 2/24 4.59, 2/17 4.47.

Ask the Old Farmer: I have recently been cleaning an old clock that has cast-iron weights and wooden works I observed that the cords that attach the weights to the winding mechanism will have to replaced soon What type of cord should I use and where can I get it? J W, Castroville, Calif You should use brass cord made for the purpose and you should be able to get it from a clock repair man in your area Be sure to use the same length as the old ones

Home Hints. Graft fruit trees around this time of year just before the buds swell

OPINION

With Diet Drinks You May Eat More, Not Less

You have diet this and diet that, a lot of them soft drinks. To hear the commercials, you'd think that to drink a diet drink would be the answer to all your overweight problems. At least the American consumer seems to believe it. In 1980 Americans drank an average of 55 diet soft drinks per year. By 1985 the consumption had nearly doubled to 103 diet soft drinks per person.

To satisfy our sweet tooth without adding pounds to our waist, by means of artificial sweeteners seems to be a commercial promise that's irresistable. But this irresistable promise may be more than these diet drinks can deliver. Scientists and nutritionists have long suspected that the affect of diet drinks don't really satisfy the body's craving for sweets at all.

Now Christina Stark, a registered dietitian and Extension associate at Cornell University's Division of Nutritional Sciences, says the assumption that artificial nonnutritive sweeteners keep people from being overweight is not true. "The increased use of artificial sweeteners has not had any effect on the amount or level of obesity. In fact, scientists comparing the effects of sweeteners on the amount of food consumed found that rats fed an artificially sweetened nonnutritive drink ate more, not less."

Mark Friedman and Michael Tordoff conducted research at the Monell Chemical Scenses Center in Philadelphia and found that rats fed a nonnnutritive sacran solution increased the amount they ate. While rats fed a nutritive glucose solution decreased the amount they ate to compensate for the calories.

In a study conducted in 1982 for the American Cancer Society and published in the Journal of Preventitive Medicine last March, Stephen Stellman and Lawrence Garfinkel found that women who used artificial sweeteners were more likely to gain weight than women who didn't. They also gained weight faster regardless of the weight they were to begin with. These researchers surveyed 78,694 women. "My conclusion is that casual use of artificial sweeteners is of no benefit at all in weight control," Stellman said. "People fool themselves thinking they are replacing calories with noncalorie by using artificial sweeteners. But in fact they over compensate. Artificial sweeteners become a mental crutch for consuming more calories when you think you're not. Now we are beginning to see evidence suggesting that artificial sweeteners may actual increase appetite and thirst."

This brings us back to what we've been saying all along. Whether it's "Real Seal", "America's Health Kick", "Less Than 4% Fat", "White Lite" or any other milk promotion slogan, as dairy farmers we can commercialize our products with confidence. If any one, children, teenagers, young adults or senior citizens are induced to buy more milk because of our advertising, we know they are buying something that's really good for them.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Attend Poultry Progress Day

The fifth annual Poultry Progress Day will be held Thursday, March 5, in the auditorium of the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster. The program will start at 9 a.m. and end at 3 p.m. Lunch will be available.

An excellent program has been developed by the Poultry Association Education Committee. Speakers will discuss "Recognizing Respiratory Diseases;" "Water Quality;" "Effects of the 1987 Tax Law on Your Poultry Operation;" "Right-To-Know/New Pesticide Law/Pesticide Disposal;" "Pesticide Recertification;" "Health Effects of Air Contaminants in Poultry Houses" and "All You Wanted to Know About Fluorescent Lighting." Nationally recognized speakers like Dr. Kelley Donham, professor preventive medicine, University of Iowa, and Dr. Michael Darre, agricultural engineer, University of Connecticut, are on the program.

We encourage poultry producers and people interested in the poultry industry to attend this important meeting.

To Use Caution Near Manure Pits

No doubt many barns, liquid manure pits and poultry houses will be cleaned in the near future. I would caution you to be very careful because of the poisonous and inflammable gases that develop in these pits. Some cleaning methods require the agitation of the liquid manure in the pit before pumping starts.

Good ventilation is needed over the pits at this time, otherwise animals, poultry and people can be suffocated. Also, smoking should be prohibited and all flames kept away. In addition, anyone going down into empty manure pits, should wear a gas mask. Don't take chances on the presence of toxic gases.

To Use Heat Lamps Safely

A portable heat lamp is a useful item around the home and farm during cold weather. The lamp's infra-red rays can be used to keep pigs from freezing, relax aching muscles, or warm crankcases of tractors and automobiles so they'll start easier. The heat lamp can also be used in brooders for small pigs or lambs, or baby chicks or at your workbench to give you quick heat.

But, I'd like to add a word of caution. A heat lamp can be dangerous because the lamp's rays can easily burn you, the same as a sunburn.

Also, if you are using the lamp continuously for a long period, use a porcelain socket. Most plastic sockets will not be able to stand the heat. Another thing... in a brooding area, use a wire or chain to support the lamp. Don't hang it by its cord; the cord was designed to carry the current and not the weight. Remember, a heat lamp can come in handy around the farm or home in cold weather. But handle it with care.

To Keep Good Pesticide Records

The arrival of March means the beginning of a new growing season and warmer weather. And, the use of various spray materials and chemicals will be a common pratice. They're all intended for a special purpose, if used correctly.

In order to protect the producer from the danger of having excess residues in food and feed crops, it is very important that accurate records be kept.

In case the producer is charged with excess residues, these written records may save your business. Don't rely on your memory or oral statements; they will not stand up at a hearing. Be sure records list the name of the material and the rate and date of application.

IF ONLY WE KNEW

March 1, 1987

Background Scripture: Luke 19:28-44

Devotional Reading: Jeremiah 14:7-10

There is a story told of a merchant and his wife in those dim years of the reign of King Alfred in ancient Britain. Late one night they were awakened by a loud knocking at their door downstairs. Fearing either robbers or someone wanting overnight lodging, they decided to ignore the knocking. When it continued for some time, however, the man grumpily tossed on a robe, lit a candle, and plodded down to the door. As he opened the door, he was prepared to give his caller a piece of his mind. But, when the door opened far enough to see the face of the caller, he recognized the visage of none other than King Alfred himself. Years later when he would recount this story, he would say, "Almost, I did not let in my king!"

Now Aware

It may or may not be a true story, but regardless there is a good deal of truth in it that we can recognize. The man almost lost an opportunity of a lifetime, because he wasn't really aware of what was going on beneath his window. One of the great tragedies of life is missed opportunities that we allow to pass us by because we are not cognizant of what they really are. We are often like the little girl whose parents were visited by a famous artist. He asked the little girl to give him her fan so that he could paint something on it. "You're not going to spoil my fan!" she snapped. If she had realized who and what he was, she could have had from his hand a beautiful treasure.

This is true, not only of outstanding opportunities, but also common everyday ones. In Thornton Wilder's play, OUR TOWN, Emily dies and from the graveyard she looks back upon the scenes of her life and realizes how many opportunities to love and be loved she had let slip by unnoticed: "O earth," she cries, "you're too wonderful for us to realize!"

Even Today!

This realization is the essence of Jesus's lament over Jerusalem. Looking over the city, he wept and said, "Would that even today you knew the things that make for peace! But now they are hid from your eyes." (Luke 19:42). Although God had sent numerous prophets to warn the people of Jerusalem, they had failed to realize the importance of these prophecies. And even now, when Jesus was before them dramatizing God's message to them, they were failing to get the message. Therefore, says Jesus, terrible things will befall Jerusalem, "because you did not know the time of your visitation" (19:44). If only they had known!

If only we did, too!

MARKETING KEYSTONE TOBACCO GROUP

NOTICE TOBACCO GROWERS

In the past week the tobacco market has caused you great confusion. New options have become available to you to sell your crop.

The Keystone Tobacco Marketing Group asks that you investigate all your options before making a decision. The past three weeks, the auctions have been stronger. The auctions will remain open until there is no demand.

Before committing to any other marketing option - be certain the auction market has ended. Know all your options prior to any commitments to sell your crop.

The Keystone Tobacco Marketing Group beleives in the auction system. The system has proved to be the best system for most farmers this year. The auction system may still be your best alternative.

We have checked with several companies about processing and have found a company that is willing to pay up front, a portion of the value of your tobacco. We hope to have something in motion very soon.

Make sure you understand processing terms before selecting any processing method.

Hutchinson returns to the podium to discuss new developments in mastitis control.

The program is expected to concluded by 2:45 p.m. on both days.

Over 300 farmers attended a dinner meeting celebrating Chemgro Fertilizer Company's 20th anniversary last Thursday at Good & Plenty Restaurant. Featured speakers were Dave Thompson, Pa. Dept. of Agriculture, Wayne Marz from Stauffer Chemical, Jim Bowersox, sales manager of Chemgro, Steve Fisher from FMC and Woody Funk, President of Chemgro.

Topics included weed control in corn and soybeans, corn soil insecticides, safe handling of pesticides and proper application methods.

Jim Bowersox covered Chemgro's expanding role in custom application and agronomic services. The economics of crop production was discussed with an emphasis on least cost per bushel.

Woody Funk recognized the staff of Chemgro including Don Hartzler and Ken Glick from the Union Mill Division in Belleville, PA., and the winners of the Chemgro Club 200 contest. He highlighted Chemgro's advances in the past 20 years and introduced Chemgro's new line of hybrid seed corn.

Economists Make 1987 Predictions At Hamilton Seminar

LANCASTER — A leading Philadelphia economist and investment counselor told farmers and agribusiness persons here Tuesday that there is no reason for a recession in 1987. Speaking at Hamilton Bank's Agri Education Seminar, James W. Weaver, port folio manager for Dearden, Maguire and Weaver, Inc., said that all the things that normally happen before a recession have not occurred--low umemployments rates, high capacity utilization, rising inflation and high levels of business inventories. None of these conditions exist," Weaver said. "However, because of the increased business activity during the last half of 1986 to beat the new tax reform laws, we'll have a rather weak economy in 1987," Weaver said. "But I think we will get through 1987 with real growth. Not great growth, but a total growth of about 1½ to 2 percent for the year."

Weaver sees interest rates stable to down a little. And inflation a little worse than 1986 (3½ to 4 percent at the consumer price level). But only because energy prices aren't going down any more.

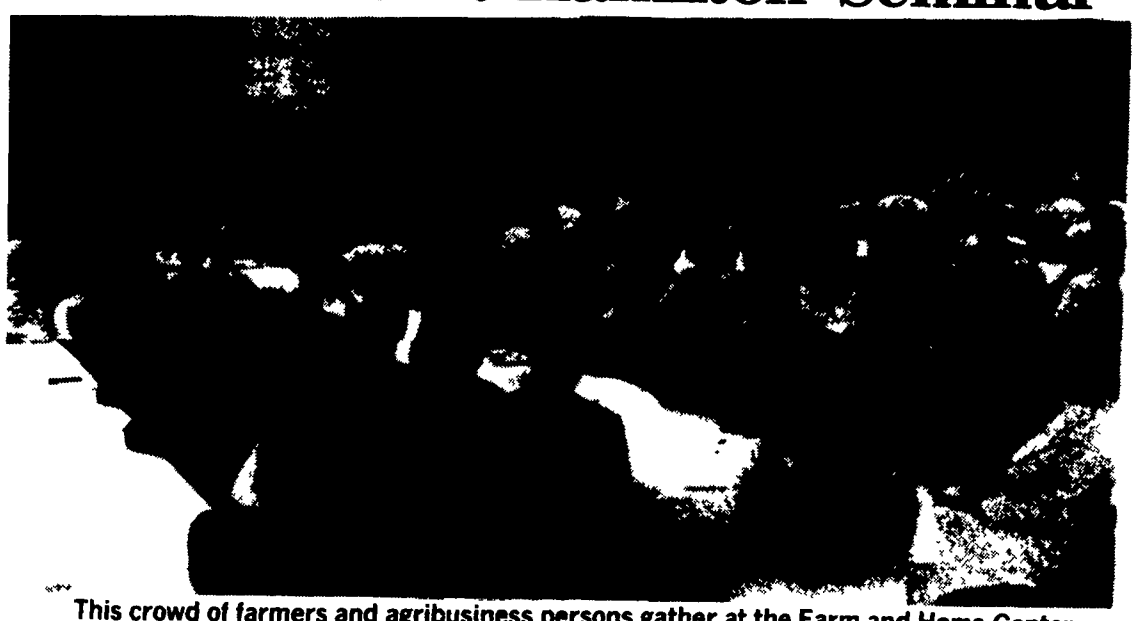
We still have several major problems in the U.S. according to Weaver, the budget deficit and the merchandise trade deficits. "Yet even though we are in the fifth year of expansion, the economy still looks rather bright," Weaver concluded.

H. Lewis Moore, Extension economist for Penn State University, said that large grain surpluses will effect commodity prices all year. Cheap grain equals cheap livestock and livestock products. Yet beef men should be able to make a little money in 1987. And the same factors are present in hog production.

Moore showed figures that indicated total red meat production may be down as much as 4 percent from last year. But that broilers and turkey production were up so that we have nearly as much meat total as we had last year.

Dairy production is down from last year. And replacement heifers are still down in the total U.S. picture. But Pennsylvania dairymen have begun the expansion of their replacement heifers.

Larry G. Jenkins, Extension economist at Penn State University, said that we have widened our base of taxation so that though the rates are not as high, yet the total tax dollars will be greater. "Some people will pay less taxes," he said. "And about $120 million was taken from the general public and assessed to businesses. We lost capital gains, and investment credit was repealed."



This crowd of farmers and agribusiness persons gather at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster for the Hamilton Bank Agri Education Seminar.

One thing that especially affects farmers, according to Jenkins, is the preproductive expenses. "Cash farm expenses typically have been deducted by farmers with no distinction between current operating expense and preproductive expense," Jenkins said. "Preproductive expenses are those cash expenses required on an annual basis to support assets that are not yet producing income. Examples are expenses of raising replacement breeding cattle and developing orchards."

David M. Kohl, associate professor Department of Agricultural Finance, Virginia Tech, gave some warning signs of a problem loan. "Historically agriculture has been considered a strong industry composed of borrowers who repay their loans on time," Kohl said. "But current economic and financial conditions have created payback difficulties for even the most conscientious and honest farm borrower." According to Kohl there are numerous indicators of loan servicing difficulty that lenders and borrowers can use as warning signs. "Among those listed are debt service ratio, farm operating expense-farm earnings ratio, increase in accounts payable, underestimated family living expenses, liquidity and solvency and increasing debt to asset ratio or percent equity can be a forerunner of potential problems," Kohl said.

The annual bank seminar was under the direction of the Hamilton Bank Agri Finance Department whose chairman is Darwin Boyd. Other department members include John Moose, Roger Rohrer, Jeffrey Troutman, Patricia Trout and Lisa Shelly. About 200 persons attended the ag seminar in the Farm and Home Center.

$15,000 To ... Holstein Cows Make Stage Debu...

WILKES-BARRE — Holsteins were centerstage at the F. M. Kirby Center Theater Wednesday night — literally. A 5-year-old Chief daughter stole the spotlight in her stage debut by selling for the top price of the 1987 Pennsylvania Holstein Convention Sale.

Escorted on to the stage by Wilkes-Barre Mayor Thomas McLaughlin, Joy-Wil Millie Glendell Padst sold for $15,000 to Donald Hostetter, Parkesburg.

Although Padst technically changed hands, she never really left the family. Consigned by Joy-Will Farm, owned by Barry Hostetter, Oxford, the Glendell Arlinda Chief daughter will move into Barry's first cousin's barn.

The sale topper's genetics and proximity of the two farms, aided Donald's decision to buy the EX-90 cow. "I saw that cow family develop and showed some of them. I know the cow family — there's a lot of longevity there," Donald explained. The granddam lived to be 20 years old before dying of a heart attack, he added.

"She walks on a great set of feet and legs," Horace Backus observed as Padst paraded across the stage with nary a trace of stagefright. Padst produced over 21,000 pounds of milk in her first two lactations in 365 days. Her highest, the 3-year-old record, stands at 23,342 pounds of milk and 920 pounds of fat. In her current lactation of 35 days, she produced 2,626 pounds of 5.1 testing milk.

Five of her maternal sisters classified Very Good at 2 years. Donald said another factor in his decision to bid was the Canadian AI interest in Padst. She freshened in early December and is ready to flush, Backus said.

Joy-Wil Millie Patsy-ET, Padst's dam, classified EX-93 2E and sold for $50,000 at the 1982 All-American Sale. Barry noted Patsy topped the 1982 sale. The Elevation daughter produced a top record of 23,926 pounds of milk and 971 pounds of fat in her best record. A full sister

Holstein Association Finances Are In The Black

WILKES-BARRE — The financial statement for the Pennsylvania Holstein Association improved dramatically from 1985, the association's treasurer reported Thursday at the association's annual meeting.

At the 1987 state convention held here at the Sheraton Crossgate, Walter Wurster stated that the association recorded a net income of $65,801.10 for fiscal year 1986. In 1985, the association tallied a $39,233.90 net loss. Wurster said the majority of the increase resulted from a "good sales year."

The association recorded a "significant turnaround" in a net increase in working capital of $28,581.35 in 1986. For 1985, the working capital netted a $25,737.91 decrease, Wurster noted.

"The expenses were up some last year. But the income was up substantially so the association came out ahead," the state treasurer said.

In the statement of income and expenses the largest increases were in the domestic and export sales. The domestic sales changed from a loss of $6,252.53 to a profit of $15,210.30. Wurster explained that export sales more than doubled from $81,967.51 in 1985 to $167,075.69 in 1986.

"Export sales is the area that is paying for other projects," Wurster commented.

Brazilians placed the most recent export order handled by the PHA. "In the last year we became involved in export orders to Brazil. Actually, PHA was implemented to act as a broker between the breeder and Brazilian buyer," association President Arthur Baxter said at the annual meeting.

PHA assembled 500 Holsteins at the association's barn in Middletown. The first planeload of animals departed from Harrisburg in December.

"The Brazilian order and the renewed interest through domestic orders gave Pennsylvania Holstein breeders a lift — a renewed interest and optimism in the merchandising of registered Holstein cattle. It acted as a stimulus," Baxter said.

"But now several months later, the problems we have found with the Brazilian export order seems to have stagnated our association. Brazilian government red tape, processing delays and other hurdles created pessimism, concern and in some cases anger amongst our members.

"As we gather here today, prospects for having the animals on planes to Brazil look good. Let us not allow what proved to be such a stimulus and uplifting opportunity bog us down now," Baxter continued.

Baxter noted in his speech the need for a strong member voice to the national Holstein association to change the HFA from the far left position to a more moderate center position.

"Anyone who finds fault with the indexing system is considered narrowminded. Yet, we see HFA eliminate staff members because their philosophy opposes HFA and they express their views in the open. Is this what HFA calls 'openmindedness?' HFA views itself as one of the most democratic organizations serving dairymen, yet, in practice it is their way or no way at all," the president said.

He continued, "HFA has told us they want feedback from its members. Yet, following a recent meeting in western Pennsylvania with our National Directors, Jim Pounds and Neil Hammerschmidt from Brattleboro, we all received a letter telling us of the dangers of allowing members a voice in how their organization is managed."

Baxter cautioned against breeding cows only by numbers. Breeders need to consider type, fat yield, calving efficiency, longevity and protein yield in addition to milk production. "Let's not concentrate so hard on the ones (cows) that have been earmarked as superior that we miss the ones which are truly superior," he said.

The youth program which boasts 1,800 members is an integral part of the future of the PHA, Baxter explained and encourage members to support youth programs. "We should be proud and supportive of our youth and consider any money PHA invests in the youth programs as money well-spent."

He also encouraged the membership to support the magazine Pennsylvania Profiles and programs of other agriculture organizations. "Together we can make the future brighter for our children and ourselves.

Two regional elections for executive committee members were held recently. In the Central region, Fred Strouse will replace retiring board member David Burket. In the Northeast region, Gordon Wood will replace retiring board member Gerald Parker.

Donald Seipt of Keystone Farm, Easton, will seek the vice presidency of the national Holstein association. He received the unanimous support of the membership at the annual meeting. Elections for this office will be held at the national convention this summer in Indianapolis.

Neil Hammerschmidt of the national office will replace James Pound as director of field services on July 1. "In Pennsylvania you have more opportunity to participate in the future of the breed due to the large cow population in the state," he said.

"Brattleboro is not the association. You people are going to direct the future of this organization," he added.

HFA finished the year slightly in the black, Thomas Kelly, national director, said. The revenues increased by 5 percent and expenses dropped 2.5 percent, he noted. Registrations increased by 17,000 and transters increased by 12,000, he said.

John Howard, Willow Street, Lancaster County, announced that the 1988 convention would be held in Lancaster County.

Awards

Barbara Houser and Walter "Rusty" Russell won the senior distinguished junior member awards at the awards breakfast on Thursday morning.

Barbara, the daughter of Jay and Mary Houser, Spring Mills, has been active in junior Holstein work for 11 years. She owns 11

Farm Philosophy

The Non-Virtue Of Hard Work

Grandma seemed to find a kind of virtue in scrubbing the kitchen floor on her knees, instead of using a mop. Clothes were cleaner if scrubbed by hand on a washboard. Water from the hand pump was fresher than "spigot water." The chickens liked the corn she shelled by hand better than the corn from the powered sheller (she thought). This source of "virtue" dried up when her arthritis got too bad.

Dad's major source of virtue was in setting the alarm for 4:30 a.m., and hitting the hay an hour after sundown, or at 8:30 p.m., whichever came first. All very appropriate for his life and time. He never owned a milking machine or even a tractor, and only a smattering of conveniences of any kind. To him, hard work was truly a virtuous necessity.

Invention has numerous "mothers." We humans find easier ways of getting things done, usually inspired by Profit, Time, Necessity, or just plain Laziness. I have a feeling that most progress is actually an evolutionary process, sparked first by a tired feeling, followed by the necessity to do the job faster, and ending up with making more profit.

We continue to extol the virtue of hard work. The difference between today's definition of work and Grandma's version, is the effect on different muscles. Her version produced lumbago and arthritis, while our modern version might end up producing a headache as well as sore muscles. I'm not sure which is worse.

Up to a point, machines take the pressure off the back, but beyond that point they begin to transfer the work to other parts of the body, particularly the soul and brain.

So the modern farmer, while doing the work of 10 men with his machines, must have a goodly supply of Brain power as well as lots of Brawn.

This evolution has produced a whole new breed of farmers. It is more painful than most evolutionary processes, in that it has taken place in only one or two generations. THE SKILLS THAT REQUIRE MOSTLY MUSCLE ARE EASIER TO ACQUIRE THAN SKILLS THAT REQUIRE BOTH BRAIN AND BRAWN.

It requires both to be a farm manager. Maybe a little more brain than brawn.

The giant leap that mankind made in the last generation has left some farm-bred youngsters stranded on the sidelines, with little hope of becoming what their parents or grandparents were. The muscle they inherited is in the wrong place. The brain is a kind of muscle, and must be trained and disciplined to develop and maintain its full potential.

Two generations of farmers conquered the monsters of steel and oil, but the Space-age technology and the computer chip issues a new challenge. That little monster is putting new pressure on the human brain to keep a healthy perspective on agriculture and farm life. It strains the powers of the soul and psyche, and either enhances the beauty of life or makes it unbearable.

Will there be a place for all of our farm-bred sons and daughters?

Why of course there will! Maybe they can't all become farm owners or operators, but, depending on where their strength and inclination lies, they can find happiness and useful employment in hundreds of farm-related fields.

Will those farm-bred sons and daughters find the same virtue their fathers found in hard work?

Hard work must be useful and rewarding work. There's nothing new in finding one's level of competence; we always have had to find it. The only difference is that the levels have constantly changed, making it a little harder to find the level that fits.

Maybe we'll have to find a new virtue in useful, productive, and soul-satisfying labor. Just plain "hard work" may lose some of its virtue and appeal for the new generation, when they discover the joy and satisfaction of a well trained and fully exercised mind, attuned to the world of silicon and space.

York Dairymen Learn To Recognize, Defuse Stress

BY JOYCE BUPP
York County Correspondent

YORK – Farm family members attending York's Dairy Day Feb. 19 had the opportunity to decide if they are working under high amounts of stress, and if so, learned some ways to deal with it.

Stress on the farm is inevitable, according to York Family Services counselor JoAnn Ramsey. Ramsey, who grew up on a farm in western Pennsylvania, urged farm families to learn to recognize signs of stress and take appropriate measures to relieve and control emotional drain before it becomes a physical problem.

Dairy Day participants were asked to evaluate a checklist of thirty typical farm life events that may or may not cause individuals emotional wear and tear. Each item carried a numerical value, so that participants could total their numerical points to see where they ranked on the Farm Life Stress Scale.

That scale originated from the Iowa State University, based on a 1979 survey of 250 Iowa farmers. Stress factors ranged from the highest stress valued event of machinery breakdown at critical time to a low stress value placed on entertaining unexpected guests.

Also included at various levels are such possibly stressful occurrences as major illness, loss of valuable animals, debt load increase, retirement, an unplanned trip for parts, and a whole gamut of other relatively common farm happenings.

While all farmers undoubtedly face some amount of stress problems, how farmers deal with those situations may make the difference between a healthy or sick individual and the stability of a marriage and/or the family.

"While the caveman could practice the 'fight or flight' method of dealing with problems, you cannot take flight from the weather, your spouse, or many of the other stressful problems you face," said Ramsey.

Physical changes which may occur in the body under stress include an increased heartbeat, raised blood pressure level, dilated eyes, perspiring or a gnawing in the stomach. Other physical symptoms might be headaches, fatigue, insomnia, colds, upset stomachs, teeth grinding, or the overuse of alcohol or drugs.

Prolonged periods of such physical pressure can lead to heart attacks and related cardiovascular problems, ulcers, cancer, and accidents, a frequent stress side effect being seen in agriculture.

While farmers recognize the need to practice preventive maintenance on their machinery, too often they neglect to take equal measures with their own bodies, Ramsey warned. Preventative maintenance for individuals includes regular physical checkups, exercise and relaxation.

Both adequate amounts of sleep and taking time to eat proper, nourishing meals can go a long way toward dealing with stress, she noted.

"Learn to deal with one day at a time. Take time to look around you, to appreciate what's around you, and what it was that drew you to the farm," urged the counselor and registered nurse, now working toward her master's degree in social work at the University of Maryland. "And don't forget to tell someone just how much you appreciate them."

However, she also advised that there is nothing wrong with feeling "down in the dumps" sometimes. But prolonged periods of being "down" is often a symptom of deeper, more serious, depression.

"You do have a right to a bad day occasionally," she told the dairy men and women attending.

daughter, classified VG-85 and produced three records over 25,000 pounds of milk.

Nine lots sold over the $5,000 mark.

The sale averaged $3,857 on 60 lots. Kenneth Raney, PHA director of membership service, noted prices were strong throughout the sale. The 1986 convention sale averaged $3,293. Eight embryo lots averaged an unofficial $4,288.

This year marked the first time the state convention sale was held in a theater. In previous years the sale was held in the host hotel's ballroom. The Holstein sale was sandwiched between appearances by Dr. Ruth Westheimer and Paul Anka at the Kirby Center.

Spectators and buyers viewed the sale from the plush, velvet seats in the newly renovated Center, adding a new touch of elegance to the sale.

To prepare the stage for the bovine performers, the sale crew first covered the stage with plastic, then tar paper and finally sawdust and the rest of the sale trappings.

Ralph Sands, sale chairman, noted the theatre was an ideal location for the sale and it progressed without a hitch or mix-up. The sale cows, housed across the public square at the parking garage of the Sheraton Crossgate Hotel, were trucked over one at a time as their turn in the spotlight came.

Backus Associates co-managed the sale with the Pennsylvania Holstein Association. Michael Weimer auctioneered the sale. Horace Backus read pedigrees. Serving as ringmen were William Nichol, Jeff Harding, Jay Howes, Jim Young and Howard Hammond.

Calf Raffle Winners

Mary Lou Wilcox, New Park, won first prize in the Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Association Calf Raffle. She had a choice of the June 1986 calf sired by Electra and out of Target-City Empire-ET VG-86 or $1,000. She selected the calf.

Second prize, $250, went to Coralie Stayduhar, Roaring Spring. Belmer Hitchcock, Russel, won the third prize of $100.

Extension Study Series Focuses On Smart Farm Management Decisions

BY JOYCE BUPP
York County Correspondent

YORK — Where are you headed for 1987 and the years beyond? And, what changes or adjustments will help you meet your family's needs?

Those are just some of the questions participants in a recent Penn State Extension study series on "smart" farm management were asked to consider in evaluating the financial status of their farming business. The three-session workshop, "Smart Farm Decisions in a Changing World," has been offered during the past few weeks in eight counties throughout southeastern Pennsylvania.

"There's a need out in the ag community that unfortunately is not expressed enough — to look at agriculture as a business," relates Roland Freund. Freund, extension farm management agent for the Southeast region, played a key role in the workshop preparations and presentations on analyzing farm businesses. Also assisting in planning and implementation of the course was Dauphin County agent Bruce Kreider.

"We hope to encourage people to look more closely at their farm records, and use it as an opportunity to plan and take control of the farm, rather than have the farm control them," Freund explains. "We want to try to help people understand financial statements they may need to fill out, to understand whose view point, such as a lender's or a farm analysts', those statements come from, and to learn to use those same statements for their own farm purposes of comparing, evaluating and planning."

Focus of the workshops was to take the specific details on such records as tax forms, inventory and balance sheets, and profit and loss statements to evaluate which enterprises in a farm are profitable and which may be showing financial drain.

Using a fictitious set of tax forms and records for a father-son family farm producing dairy, hog, and crop enterprises, workshop participants evaluated the profitability of the farm business. Income, expenses, depreciation, long and short term debt, capital sales and purchases, value of assets and liabilities, off-farm income, and equity in the business were examined and considered against the farm's operating viability.

"This was aimed at getting down to see the individual 'players' on a farm, and the various enterprises, to determine which were contributing the most or the least," says Freund.

Ultimately, the end purpose of the workshops was for participants to be able to similarly analyze their own records to make wise financial and farm management decisions.

Help in such analysis of a farm's records is available, by contacting local county extension agents, or farm management specialist Freund at his office at the York Extension Service, by calling 717-757-9657.

Penn State Extension economist James Pease suggests that farmers carefully evaluate their farm assets and sell any not absolutely necessary to the operation, such as excess pieces of equipment.

Farm Operates Efficiently After Partnership Dissolves

BY MARJORIE KEEN
Chester Co. Correspondent

PARKESBURG – The Chester County farm of National Dairy Herd Improvement Association Convention Chairman Nelson Stoltzfus will be one of the tour stops on Wednesday, March 11. The 70-cow, family-owned and operated dairy features a one-year-old, double-four milking parlor with low lines. The milk pumps have both a heat exchanger and an oil reclaimer and the cows are fed by computer.

Stoltzfus is eager to show dairymen from other parts of the country how an efficient average-size southeastern Pennsylvania family farm works. Nelson and Joyce Stoltzfus have been farming on their own since December 1985, when Stoltzfus and his brother dissolved their partnership and divided their dairy herd. "We've lived here since our marriage in 1969," Stoltzfus said, "but until a year ago all the cows were on the other farm."

The computer in his office not only controls the amount of grain each cow receives over a 24-hour period, it also records the exact amounts consumed. Additionally it calculates milk weights and butterfat contents. And it keeps track of breeding, heat and calving dates. Stoltzfus figures that the computer feeder saves him half an hour at each milking.

Training 70 cows to place their yellow transponder tags where the computer can read each one and allot the proper ration called for perserverance on Stoltzfus' part in the beginning. Now a new cow joining the herd soon learns from the others.

Approximately 50 acres are planted in corn and 25 in alfalfa on the 100 acre Stoltzfus farm.

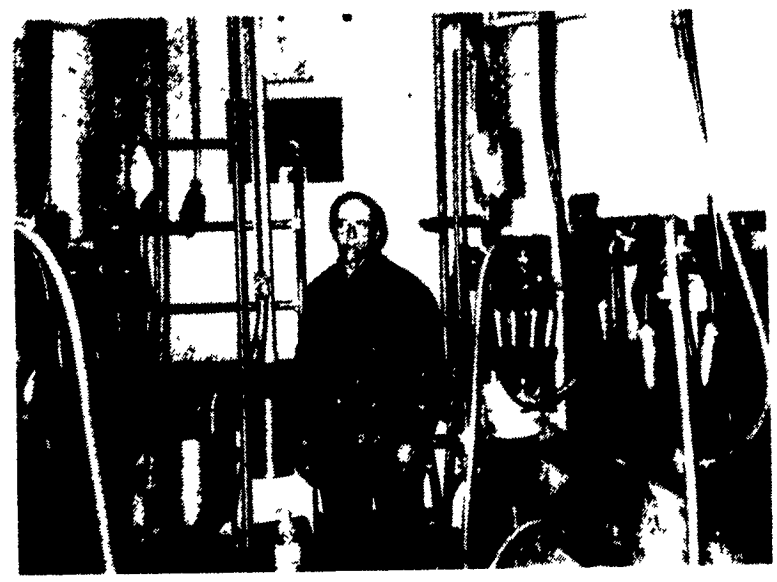
When school is out teen-age son Greg helps with field work. When his father's away on DHIA business Greg helps his mother with the milking. The other Stoltzfus children are Jeremy, 12, and Melanie, 7.

A registered dietician, Joyce works as a nursing home consultant several days each week. With her delegate husband, she has traveled to DHIA conventions in New York, Minnesota, Arizona and Georgia. Just inside the farmhouse door hangs a latch-hook rug with a big blue ribbon. Joyce's prize-winning design is of a Holstein cow. She credits Jeremy with helping to finish the rug in time for last year's Solanco Fair.

Convention-goers will visit the Nelson Stoltzfus farm located in Parkesburg as part of the Chester County tour.

Other stops on the Chester County tour are Maplebound Farms, New Bolton Center of the University of Pennsylvania Veterinary College and Marlboro Mushrooms. Why is a mushroom farm on a dairy convention tour?

Stoltzfus stated that visitors like to see what each area is noted for. In Georgia, for instance, DHIA conventioneers toured several antebellum mansions. Philadelphia was chosen for this year's national meeting because of the area's many historic sites and the accessibility of Philadelphia International Airport.



Stoltzfus installed a double-four milking parlor on the farm after a partnership with his brother dissolved in late 1985.

Convention Chairman Explains Meeting's Value

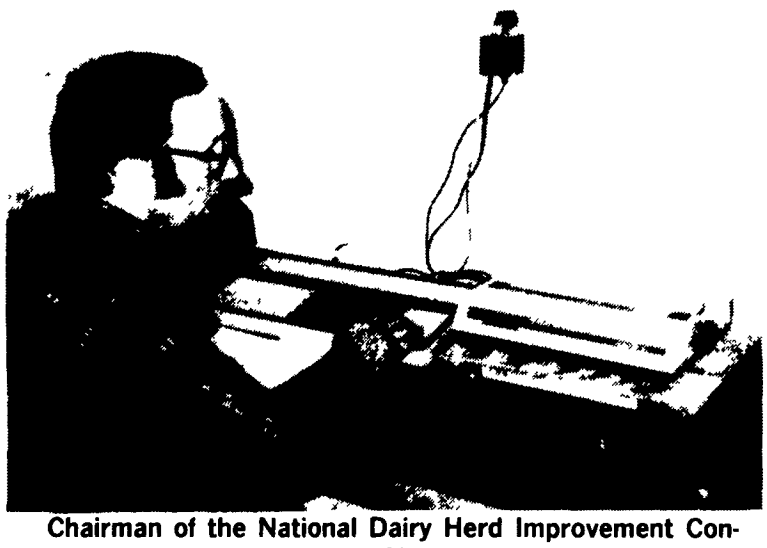
BY MARJORIE KEEN
Chester Co. Correspondent

PARKESBURG – An annual National Dairy Herd Improvement Association meeting is important for developing uniform policy across the country, according to this year's convention chairman, Nelson Stoltzfus of Parkesburg. Farmer input is vital for the association to work effectively, says Stoltzfus. He believes that the presence of farmers keeps management from losing sight of the goals.

Although there are no hot issues this year, Stoltzfus pointed to the Biotechnology Conference on Monday and Tuesday, March 9 and 10, with a full day's focus on bovine somatotropin. Everyone wants to know more about BST growth hormone, he says.

Stoltzfus believes that DHIA is good for farmers, especially in keeping them informed of new developments. Stoltzfus has served on DHIA's Chester County board of directors for the past 12 years. He's been on the state board and its executive committee for six years.

He credits the Pennsylvania DHIA staff and several convention committees with sharing the preparation responsibilities for the 22nd National DHIA Convention and Trade Show. Stoltzfus expects 400 to 500 visitors to the four day event at the Adams Mark Hotel in Philadelphia March 9 to 12.



Chairman of the National Dairy Herd Improvement Convention slated for Philadelphia March 9 to 13, Stoltzfus keeps track of his 70-cow herd with a computer.

PRICE FIXING PACT ACCOMPLISHED - The United States, Canada, France, Great Britain, Japan and West Germany agreed to a new effort to stop the drop of the dollar. Since the group reached an agreement to lower the value of the dollar in 1985, our currency has dropped 40 percent. Despite the weak dollar, the U.S. trade deficit last year was a record $170 billion while Japan enjoyed an $83 billion surplus and West Germany showed $62 billion surplus. This pact is designed to end the slide, stabilize currency values, cool protectionism in Congress and improve trade balances. The agreement also contains a commitment from both Japan and West Germany to stimulate their domestic economies.

WHEAT EXPORTS UP - U.S. wheat exports will be up 12-17 percent in 1986-87, thanks mainly to the export bonus program. Lower target prices alone would generate about a 3 percent gain, according to USDA's wheat outlook report. Demand for U.S. exports may be hampered by a record or near-record world harvest caused by increasing yields.

NO INTEREST IN REPAYING DEBTS - Brazil has declared a moratorium on foreign debt repayment. In communications from 6 17 the nation's finance minister to the 700 banks that hold $108 billion debt for the South American giant, Brazil said it would no longer pay interest on the principal it was no longer paying 07 and indicated the desire to arrange a line of credit for another $4 to $6 billion. A Brazilian government official said the only factor that could prevent the suspension would be if creditors made an emergency loan to allow Brazil to meet $2 billion in interest payments which fall due on or after March 15.

Although the wording changed from Portuguese to Spanish, Argentina is reading the same script. Argentina will not pay the interest on its $50 billion foreign debt if private lenders refuse to provide $2.15 billiion worth of credits.

York Potato Growers To Meet

York County potato growers will meet March 11 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Centre Presbyterian Church, Rt. 24, New Park.

All area potato growers are invited to attend the free meeting. Four pesticide recertification credits are available to farmers who attend the entire program. For more information and lunch reservations contact the York Extension Office by March 2.

The WILLOWLYN FARMS INC. PRODUCTION SALE held in Virginia averaged $1,134.13 on 52 cows, $793.18 on 22 bred heifers, and $582.81 on 32 open heifers.

A bred heifer carrying a embryo by Valiant and an Elevation dam topped the sale with a bid of $2,400.

Sired by Arlinda Successor, the bred heifer has a full sister classified EX-91 with a top record of 27,205 milk and 1,012 fat in 365 days. The dam of both animals produced a high record in 365 days of 20,690 milk and 840 fat with a 4.1 test.

Sired by Chairman, the second high lot sold for $2,000. This 3-year-old cow classified VG-85. She produced a top record of 16,670 milk and 613 fat in 361 days. Her dam, a Very Good Elevation daughter, produced a top record over 17,000 milk.

Owner Jimmy Eustace noted attendance was low due to inclement weather. He decided to hold the sale because of dwindling feed supplies and a need to reduce all age groups.

Ownby Auction Company managed the sale and Horace Backus read pedigrees.

The MIDROCK HOLSTEIN DISPERSAL held in Virginia averaged $1,200 on 219 head.

A bred heifer by Bova topped the sale by selling for $4,000. She is due to Mark in March.

Her dam, a VG-87 Valiant daughter, produced a top record of 23,600 milk and 850 fat. The next dam, from the John Howard Skyline farm in Pennsylvania, was purchased at the 1976 Pennsylvania Bred Heifer Sale, owner Bill Blose said.

The second highest animal sold for $3,000. This 3-year-old Mars Tony daughter freshened in early February with her second calf. In her first lactation she produced 16,500 pounds of milk and 565 pounds of fat. She is a full sister to Midrock Mars Magician.

Her dam, a VG-86 Glendale daughter, produced two records over 26,000 milk.

The next dam traces back to the Bransdale herd of Pennsylvania and was also purchased at the 1976 Pennsylvania Bred Heifer Sale.

Ownby Auction Company managed the sale. Dennis Ownby served as auctioneer and Horace Backus read pedigrees.

Animals were sold to buyers from eight states.

The ALAMO HOLSTEIN CLASSIC held in Texas averaged $2,555 on 35 head.

A 4-year-old daughter of Carlin M Ivanhoe Bell topped the sale with bid of $9,600. Fresh in late January, the VG-85 cow produced a first-calf record of 20,680 milk and 931 fat with a 4.5 test. She owns a Cow Index of plus 890 milk, plus 54 fat and plus $142.

Her dam, an EX-90 Valiant daughter, produced a top record of 22,210 milk and 1,125 fat with a 5 percent test.

The second highest price came on a bred heifer sired by Ijon. Due in April to Mark, the heifer is out of four generations of 1,000 plus fat dams.

Her closest dam, a VG-86 Arlinda Chief daughter, produced three records over 1,000 pounds of fat. She owns a lifetime milk record of 105,000 pounds. Her Cow Index stands at plus 783 milk and plus 56 fat.

The second dam classified EX-91 with 1,300 pounds of fat. The next dam scored VG-87 with 1,148 pounds of fat.

Jack Kay Sr. of the Texas Holstein Association, which managed the sale, reported a demand for cows and milk in the area has increased.

Gary Estes handled the auctioneering assignment.

New York Dairyman To Head Promotion Group

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Raymond Johnson, a dairy farmer from Schaghticoke, New York, has been re-elected president of the American Dairy Association and Dairy Council.

The election took place at the organization's 27th Annual Meeting, entitled "Progress Through Promotion," on Feb. 18 to 19. Serving his fourth term as president, he will chair the board of directors in setting policy for the ADADC's $11 million dairy promotion program.

Also elected officers of the ADADC board were Allen Ostrander, vice president, Theresa; David Hardie, second vice president, Lansing; Fred Epler, secretary, Lewisburg, Pa.; and Paul Fishel, treasurer, Ogdensburg.

In addition to the election, area dairy producers and industry representatives received an overview of their dairy promotion program for the coming year.

The highlight of the meeting was a review of dairy product and process research by Anthony Luksas, Ph.D., president of Dairy Research, Inc. Three products receiving considerable attention were high calcium milk, Butter-Lite, and carbonated, or "fizzy" milk. According to Luksas, the products should be on market shelves within the next two years.

Tobacco Growers Eye Processing As Alternative To Current Prices

processed tobacco was released before the beginning of the year, and another 100 million pounds followed. Brubaker said that prices for the burley were "well under a dollar."

Since the Maryland-type tobacco cannot be held into the next buying season without being processed, farmers are at the mercy of current market prices.

Parker Tobacco Company, a Maysville, Kentucky-based processing company came to Lancaster Tuesday evening to offer farmers an alternative to taking a licking in the current depressed market. At the request of Paradise Tobacco Sales, two Parker representatives met with several hundred growers at the Paradise warehouse and outlined a plan to take the tobacco south, process it at the company's Kentucky facility and put it out for bids on the world market.

According to Parker vice president Carl White, farmers would deliver their tobacco to the warehouse and Parker would pay them 20 cents a pound for their entire crop. The company would then ship the tobacco to Kentucky, process it and put it in containers in the same manner that it handles up to 16 million pounds of burley pool tobacco each year.

Parker would send out "offer memorandums to any possible buyer of your tobacco," White said. When the tobacco is finally sold, growers would receive whatever profit remains, minus the costs involved in the program. These costs would include shipping, processing, container and storage costs, insurance, interest on the up-front 20 cents per pound and a selling commission.

White said the up-front money will be coming from "an institution that has a great deal of credibility in the ag community," but he would not divulge the institution's name.

In addition to serving as the assembly point for tobacco, the auction house would form a committee of local growers and businessmen and an auction representative who would act as intermediaries between growers and Parker and decide whether or not to accept any bids that might be offered.

"There's no way anyone can tell you when this tobacco's going to sell," said Parker spokesman Jerry Ormes. "The '83 burley crop plays a big part in selling this tobacco up here. If the crop stays in the U.S., it makes it difficult to sell ours. If it goes out (through export) it'll make it easier."

Ormes said his company would be compensated only for the cost of processing, and that the costs would be recovered only after the tobacco sells. He said that if the plan is approved at a meeting in Kentucky on Tuesday, March 3, Parker would probably be able to receive tobacco within a week.

Paradise Tobacco Sales spokesman Eric Probst explained how the program might pencil out, assuming that the tobacco yields 56 percent, which, he noted, is a conservative figure, since the 609 grown here yields as high as 60 percent. In what Probst described as "normal" years, Pennsylvania's 609 is worth between $2 and $3.25 a pound in processed form. But for illustration purposes Probst used a hypothetical sale figure of $1 in light of this year's depressed prices. At 56 percent yield, the tobacco bringing $1 a pound would then be worth 56 cents to the farmer. Parker then deducts 22 cents a pound to cover the costs previously mentioned. This leaves the grower with 34 cents, 20 cents of which he had received in advance. He would thus receive a final payment of 14 cents a pound.

Using the same yield and

Tobacco Growers

processing figures, processed tobacco that sells for $2 a pound would net the farmer 90 cents, with 20 cents of this received in advance.

Another proposal to process the tobacco has been offered by the J.I. Miller Company of Wilson, N.C. According to Aaron Stauffer of General Tobacco Suppliers of Pa., located in Ephrata, the Miller firm has offered to take the tobacco on a consignment basis, offering no money in advance.

Miller will pick up and process the tobacco and assume all expenses for one year. After 12 months, if the tobacco is not sold, the grower must pay the expenses, or roughly 21 cents a pound on a green weight basis. Stauffer said the firm will accept processed tobacco as payment, offering 75 cents a pound, stripped weight. After the grower pays expenses Miller will store the tobacco indefinitely for one cent a pound, green weight, per year.

"It's not a salvation, but it is an alternative," Probst said of the recently hatched plans to process tobacco. Of the approximately 10 million pounds of 609 grown in Pennsylvania, Probst estimates that only about one-fourth of the crop has been sold this year. If buyers should fill orders before all the tobacco is sold, the processing route is the logical way for growers to at least minimize their losses.

Probst emphasized that the auctions plan to continue to sell tobacco as long as there is a market.

Ken Brubaker agrees that buyers should take advantage of the auction floor as long as the market holds up. The president of the Keystone Tobacco Marketing Group, Brubaker advises farmers to continue selling through auctions as long as the tobacco is bringing 50 cents a pound or higher. "Fifty cents today is better in your pocket than not knowing what the final price will be through a pool," he said. "The auction system is still working. Prices this past week were stronger than ever for the bulk of the tobacco," he summed up.

Probst calculated that farmers would have to receive $1.30 per pound of processed tobacco to equal 50 cents on the auction block.

"We care about your business!"

We Keep Production Lines Going.

Besides hard work, it takes management skill and good instincts to run a farm. The right amount of sunshine and rain doesn't hurt, either.

Yet, by and large, a farm runs on money. And between harvests, money has a way of running short.

Farm Credit helps farmers meet operating expenses with production loans. For everything from seed, fertilizer and chemicals to labor costs and tractor tires. Production loans can also stock the fish pond and feed the feeder pigs.

And because livestock and crops don't grow to suit a payment schedule, we adjust yours according to your cash flow.

Unlike some other lenders, Farm Credit is owned and controlled by the farmers who use its services. Which means we're always here for farmers. Not just when it suits our profit needs.

So if you're in line for a production loan, the most productive thing you could do is call us.

Sunbury Tinsmith Fashions Colonial Items, Miniatures

BY BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

SUNBURY — If the last hundred years were suddenly wiped away, it is certain Jack Heim would be found on the seat of a tin peddler's wagon, clamoring from town to town to sell his wares. And with his merry blue eyes, gift of gab, and fine workmanship, he would be doing a thriving business.

Jack, a Northumberland County tinsmith who creates colonial and miniature tinware, says, "I guess I belong to a slower generation when we had time to talk."

In reference to his loquaciousness and his fascination for old things including tinware, Jack says he thinks some of it "rubbed off" from his father. For reasons of ill health his father gave up his job at a paper mill and started a watch and clock repair business.

Fascinated by the antique clocks he repaired, his father often summoned Jack to witness such novelties as a 200-year-old clock whose balancing weights operated with the aid of 20 strands of braided human hair. Because his father loved fixing old clocks, he not infrequently, according to Jack, refused to charge what it actually cost him in time and material to repair the piece.

European salesmen who came to the shop loved to converse with Jack's father and often bemoaned the fact that "Most Americans have lost the art of conversation."

Doreen, Jack's wife, believes the art of conversation is very much alive and well in their household, however. She occasionally accompanies Jack on business trips to shops from Scranton to the State College area where he sells his products. "Sometimes when he goes in a shop I go shopping," she quips with a laugh.

But Jack says he likes to take time to explain his products and ascertain shopkeeper's needs.

"We used to have all mom and pop stores with a gas pump, now we have mom and pop stores with a gas pump owned by a corporation," he observes. "We've lost the 'personalizations.' I go for the personal touch. I like to see my customers. They know if something isn't quite right there's no problem."

Originally from the nearby Shamokin area, the Heims moved to Philadelphia, but returned with their five children to live in an old farmhouse near Sunbury about 15 years ago. Five years ago Jack's interest in tinsmithing was sparked by Jonathan Wenrick, a full-time tinsmith who showed Jack how tinware was made.

"I was fascinated," Jack recalls.

For the past two years Jack has worked at developing his tinsmithing into a full-time business. He now has 17 shops with which he periodically does business, attends craft shows, does some custom work such as making punched panel inserts for cupboards, and repairs tin items like old lanterns. Jack recently spent six weeks as an artist in residence at the Muncy School District, Muncy, demonstrating his craft to children and allowing them a hands-on-experience.

Since Jack makes chiefly replicas of colonial tinware, he uses tools like those employed by the early tinsmiths.

"I use machinery first developed for the trade in the history of tinware and it has not changed," he asserts.

Jack says he's seen antique pieces just like the hand cranked rotary forming machine he uses that has a patent going back to the early 1800's. The rotary forming machine "puts a lip" on the tin so there are no sharp edges, can be used to insert wire for reinforcing the tin where needed, such as at the bottom of a lantern, and crimps the edge of the tin. His only other tools are tin shears, punches and hammers. Occasionally, he uses a circle cutting machine belonging to a friend and he eventually wants to acquire a bending machine.

"Ninety percent of my work is done by hand," he states.

Jack creates a variety of items. One of his best sellers is a chamber lamp with a glass globe which he terms an "old and contemporary" piece that fits in with most any decor. He produces several kinds of punched wall sconces, lanterns, and candle holders that sell well Heart-shaped picture frames, dishes such as "apple baskets," Christmas ornaments, refrigerator magnets and doll house miniatures round out his stock.

Some of the more interesting pieces Jack makes are the Revere lanterns and ship lanterns. The Revere lantern which holds a candle is of punched tin 8 or 16 inches high with a glass windowed door in front. The ship's lantern is similar except constructed completely of tin to keep out any water, Jack says. Since they are of punched tin, both lanterns throw attractive light patterns on the wall when lighted.

The sliding or timing candle which is adjusted upward an inch at a time as it burns, was, according to legend, used by the early settlers to remind courting youths when it was time to go home. Each inch of candle burns for approximately one hour The fat lamp consists of a shallow "dish" on a candlestick which was filled with lard or oil to which was added a wick to make it burn.

The tin comes in 50 foot rolls 24 or 28 inches in width and about the same thickness as tin flashing, Jack says. He selects a pattern, transfers it to the tin, and cuts it out with a pair of tin shears.

"Most of my items start out as a square of tin," he notes.

If he needs a circle or a triangle, then the square is trimmed to size. If the piece is a punched piece he uses a punch to fashion the design and then may employ the rotary forming machine to edge the piece or reinforce it with wire as required. Some pieces are soldered. He uses all solid solder, 50 percent lead and 50 percent tin. And on pieces used as eating utensils, he said, it is a government requirement that they be soldered with pure tin.

Jack enjoys all aspects of tinsmithing, but it is when he speaks of doll house miniatures that his face becomes animated.

"The doll house miniatures allow me to be creative, to be an individual, and to have freedom of expression," he explains. "It's artistry as well as craftsmanship."

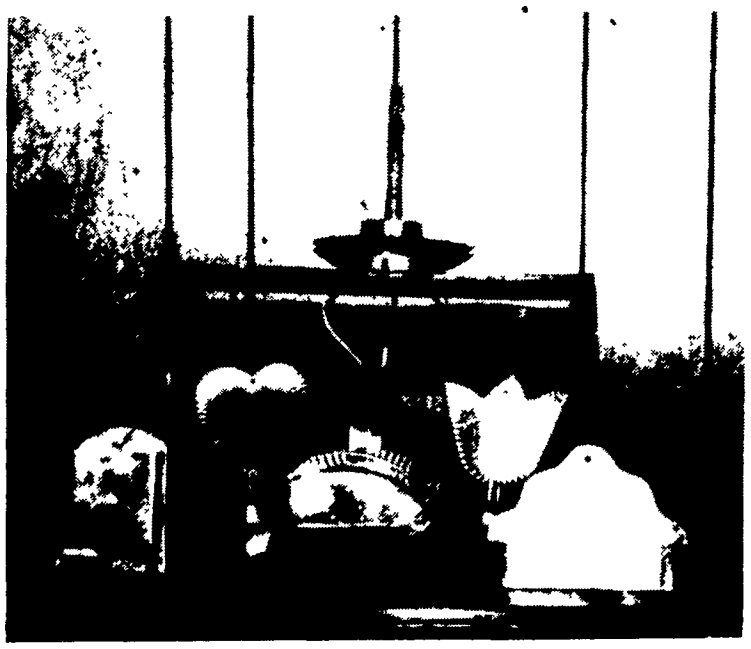
On a scale of one inch equals one foot he reproduces miniscule sconces, chandeliers, candle holders, funnels, and even cookie cutters that are all diminished by a human finger. Doreen fashions small candles one inch in length to fit the sconces and chandeliers by dipping a wick into wax no more than twice.

Like his father, Jack is fond of repairing antiques and notes that he once repaired a 1790 street lamp decorated with hand worked filigree made by one John Banner from Massachusetts. Like the tinsmiths of old, everything Jack makes is dated and signed.

Doreen, Jack says, is very supportive of his tinsmithing endeavor, helping him immensely with her encouragement. The Heims have been active in their church, serving as Sunday school teachers and working with the youth for a number of years. Of their five children only Brian, 23, and Mark, 22, remain at home.

Jack displays his tinware at Warrior Run Heritage Days near Watsontown in October and at New Berlin Heritage Days, New Berlin, in August.

Jack Heim shows a timing candle he fashioned from tin, while his wife, Doreen, displays a fat lamp. The multiple heart sconce in the foreground was Jack's valentine gift to Doreen.



Among the tin items Jack Heim produces are a chamber lamp with a glass globe (on top shelf), heart and tulip sconces, an old fashioned match box, an apple dish and a comb case.

Jack displays a century-old filagreed light he will repair. The 2-foot lamp, he says, was probably someone's personal light for their porch or yard. A candle or oil light was placed inside the glass and tin enclosure

Homestead Notes

Jack relies on a rotary forming machine to finish the edges of his tinware. Here, he crimps the edge on a piece.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Celebrations of long-term matrimony have been in the forefront of our extended family lately.

Way out ahead of the pack in years of wedded togetherness are beloved grandparents, whose recent 65th anniversary drew a widespread, congenial, chatty gathering of relatives from near and far. This is the same group which won my heart more than two decades ago, when I was first introduced to an almost overwhelming array of friendly future relatives in a home overflowing at the holiday season with small children and love.

On the heels of that assembly, an aunt and uncle were honored for 40 years. And, the farmer and I — part of the third of this five generation heritage — have bypassed another annual milemarker in our continuing journey as a twosome since a trip to the altar more than 20 years ago.

Long term marriages — if you would listen to some statistics — may indeed be something of an endangered species. In apparent response to this alarming trend, nearly every contemporary magazine I flip through lately offers advice on how to keep your marriage act together.

Like a good wife (I'll hear about that one), I read and ponder.

For a solid, long-term marriage, suggest the experts, develop mutual interests.

Would sharing the intimacy of milking a barnful of cows every evening together meet that recommendation, do you suppose?

Job sharing is another bit of advice often included in such improvement articles.

Delivering calves immediately comes to mind. There are probably few jobs in which we both find as much inspiration and emotional "recharge" as this one. The simple joy of helping to safely bring new life into the world temporarily wipes out whatever worries might have been bugging you before.

Then there's the job of putting down supplies for the heifers. Often, I'll handle this one myself, tossing down a pile of hay and straw from the upper levels of the bank barn to the feed alleyway below, and then stacking that pile where it's needed for the pens on the first level.

Lately, the farmer has been lending a hand, dropping down a stack of bales while I cart them away from the pileup on the floor under the hay-drop hole. One morning not long ago, in a blatant miscalculation of timing, he dropped a bale of leafy alfalfa down the hole in the hay mow floor just as I stooped to pick up another directly beneath and....

Let's just say that there are probably instances in which you can have too much togetherness.

Some couples, reportedly, share chores equally. On farms, at least in my experience, job splitting isn't that simple. So, I raise calves and he runs the intricate push-button feeding equipment. He doesn't ask me to haul out manure and I don't expect him to do laundry. But I do help with the morning dairy barn cleanup on occasion, and he's learned to both fill and empty the dishwasher.

Married couples are advised to nurture trust in each other. This may become apparent in a number of unexpected little ways.

For instance, a certain husband lying prone on the kitchen floor, repairing the dishwasher door hinge, displayed a great deal of trust when he found a long lost marble hiding under that appliance. Rolling it across the floor toward his wife working at the nearby desk, he casually inquired as to whether she might be losing her marbles.

His trust was apparent, when you further consider that within easy grabbing range was a hardcover copy of Webster's Dictionary.

Looking back, that happened before she was decked square on the noggin with a bale of alfalfa.

Marriage may indeed last longer with mutual trust. But don't push your luck when standing under hay holes.

Entries Sought For National Grange Sewing Contest

Entrants must use current Simplicity patterns (patterns from the November 1986 issue of the counter catalog through 1987 issues).

A person may enter any number of garments, but all must be entered through the same subordinate Grange. Professionals in the field of fashion may not participate. However, persons retired from such professions for five years or more may enter.

All entries must be outerwear garments. Coordinated separates must be limited to four pieces. Single items are eligible.

Contestants will compete in three classes: Class A — Adults: any type of garment made by a contestant 19 years of age or older for a person 13 years of age or older; Class B — Teens: any type of garment made by a contestant 13 to 18 years of age, for self of another person of the same age group; Class C — Children's garments: any type of garment made by an adult contestant for someone 12 years of age and under; Class D — Boys and Girls: any type of garment made by a contestant 12 years of age and under for anyone of the same age group. Cook Healthy With Rice

Today we want to plan meals that are easy to prepare and provide our families with healthy and nourishing foods. Research tells us that we should reduce the amount of fat and sodium in our diets for a more healthy lifestyle.

Rice fits perfectly with the changes we need to make for better health. It is rich in complex carbohydrates but not in calories: one-half cup of cooked rice contains only 82 calories.

Rice is virtually "sodium free" – only 8 mg. per uncooked cup. It is cholesterol free and contains only a trace of fat, making it a recommended food to help reduce the rick of cancer.

When cooking rice, follow the directions given on the package. When directions are not available, follow this easy method:

1 cup uncooked rice
2 cups liquid for regular-milled white rice
1 tablespoon unsalted polyunsaturated margarine

Combine ingredients in a 2-to-3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil; stir once or twice. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 15 minutes (20 to 25 minutes for parboiled rice; 45 minutes for brown rice), or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Makes 6 servings.

Looking for a new twist for an old favorite? Try the following recipe for "Rice Apple Crisp."

Rice Apple Crisp

2 cups cooked rice
4 apples, peeled, cored and sliced
4 teaspoons lemon juice
¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup all-purpose flour
6 tablespoons margarine
½ cup chopped nut meats

Combine rice, apples, lemon juice, ¼ cup sugar, and seasonings in a large bowl. Spoon into greased shallow 2-quart baking dish. Mix flour and remaining sugar. Cut in margarine until mixture is crumbly. Stir in nut meats. Sprinkle over rice mixture. Bake in 350 degree oven for 30 minutes, or until apples are tender. Serve warm. Makes 6 servings.

Economical Home Sewing

Sewing your own clothing can save you money. Read the following suggestions for cutting costs even more.

Use uncomplicated patterns. They usually require less fabric and fewer extras such as trims and notions. And they require less cutting and sewing time.

Select fabrics in wider widths whenever possible. They usually will allow more efficient use of fabric and less waste in cutting. Fabrics without nap or one-way designs are also more economical.

Select fashions and fabrics that do not require lining or underlining. If the fabric does require lining or underlining, select a less expensive fashion fabric which has the same properties regular lining fabrics do. Often you can find a woven polyester or rayon in last season's colors on sale. These will add color to your garment as well as cut the cost.

Do not sacrifice interfacings to save money. If the fabric is not too heavy or too translucent, use it as interfacing. If you cannot use it, buy a yard or so of the interfacing you use most frequently. This will cut down on waste and you will have it for your next project.

Eliminate special trims which add cost. Substitute self-fabric trims cut from leftover fabric or from leftovers from other projects. Bias bands, piping, ruffles, appliques, pleating and inserts all add a fashionable touch to a garment.

Other methods of trimming involve more time, but add a high fashion look. Crochet your own edging for collars, pockets and hemlines or create an original design and embroider it on a yoke, pocket, collar or around the hemline.

Pa. Farm Museum To Offer Antique Lecture Series

LANCASTER — The Pennsylvania Farm Museum of Landis Valley will offer a lecture series on antiques during March. The slide lecture series will be offered Wednesday evenings, March 4, 11, 18 and 25, at 8 p.m.

Vernon Gunnion, curator of collections at the Farm Museum, will speak on "New Discoveries in Pennsylvania Antique Furniture," March 4. His slides will show early furniture which has come to light in the past two years, including a c. 1780 Lancaster County painted architectural chest.

"A Look at the Collectables Market" will be the March 11 lecture by Harry Rinker, editor-in-chief for Warman Publishing Co. Author of numerous articles on antiques, he has appeared on national television and radio shows. Rinker will explain what's hot in today's collecting, from beer bottles to Barbie dolls.

On March 18, Pat Hornafius, expert craftsman, artist and teacher, will discuss "Hooked Rugs." A student of the subject for 10 years, she has had her rugs featured in numerous magazines, including "Early American Life," and in musuem exhibits. She is a native of Lancaster.

Joe Kindig III, an expert on 17th and 18th century American furniture, will explore the subject of "The Kentucky Rifle" as an artistic statement March 25. He will discuss the detailing on the rifle in relation to decorative elements in early silver, furniture and architecture. Kindig's family firm, specializing in period American furniture, has been in business for 63 years. In 1980 he was awarded the Governor's Pennsylvania Distinguished Citizen award for his cultural contributions.

Tickets for the series may be purchased in advance or the evening of each lecture.

The Pennsylvania Farm Museum is located four miles north of Lancaster on Route 272 (Oregon Pike). It is operated by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission which sponsors the Antique Lecture Series in cooperation with the Landis Valley Associates. Top Homebaked Cakes With Creamy Frostings

If your homebaked cakes escape the prongs of forks wielded by hungry husbands and children long enough to cool, you'll want to top them off with a creamy frosting made with fresh butter, milk, shortening, sugar and flavorings.

While every homemaker has at least one favorite old standby, the frosting variations on this page will give grandma's spice cake or Aunt Mary's chocolate cookies a taste lift.

While you're clipping, copying and filing the frosting recipes that most appeal to you, take a few minutes to pull out some of your favorite stir-fry and cake recipes to share with other Lancaster Farming readers.

When you've made your choice, just send a copy to: Home on the Range, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 366, Lititz, PA 17543. Thanks in advance for making Home on the Range a favorite feature for farm homemakers — and their families.

Kathy Hoff greeted guests touring her country home as part of the Maryland Holstein Association's ladies tour with this delicious crab dip. The tour, which encompassed three country homes, included a progressive luncheon.

Kathy's crab dip was the hit of the luncheon as many participants requested her recipe. The dip can be served cold or hot, but Kathy says, "It's best hot." Should any dip remain, it can be used as a sandwich spread, she suggested. For a story and photos of the tour, turn to the story in this section.

Grange Cookbook Celebrates Bicentennial Of U.S. Constitution

WASHINGTON, D.C. — One of the first efforts to promote the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution throughout rural America was launched recently by the country's first farm organization, the National Grange. The Grange has published a cookbook, "The Glory of Cooking," and dedicated it to the Bicentennial celebration.

Cookbook coordinator and information director for the Grange, Judy Massabny, said, "We felt a cookbook would be a particularly appropriate project for the Grange. It gives us the opportunity to promote both the Bicentennial and American agricultural products. The 304-page, full-color book has a patriotic look and all of the recipes call for real ingredients." The book has received official recognition by the Commission on the Bicentennial of the United States Constitution.

Publishing cookbooks is not new to the Grange. They have published two others which were best sellers and are no longer available. Massabny said, "What makes our cookbooks so good is that each recipe has been home tested by a Grange member or friend. This book contains all new recipes and features both classic American and Old World dishes. Since we are a nation of immigrants we felt a book dedicated to the Constitution should include a wide variety of ethnic recipes."

"The Glory of Cooking" may be obtained by contacting a local Grange chapter or by writing to National Grange Cookbook, 1616 H. St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20006. The cost is $8.00 per copy which includes postage

Indians Have Mixed Emotions For Mischievous Rhesus Monkeys

TIGHRI, India — People and rhesus monkeys usually get along fine in India, but occasionally things get out of hand.

"My mother-in-law was bitten by two monkeys and died from the bites," says Kamala Ramaker, who lives in this village just outside Delhi. "It's outrageous. They later came back and stole the laundry from my clothesline."

Ramaker's 15-year-old neighbor, Reena Bhatacharya, views the animals differently. "The monkeys are part of the neighborhood, and have done me no harm," she says. "I find them quite amusing and feel very lonely when they're not around."

Roam Around Everywhere

Such differences of opinion are common in India, where rhesus monkeys freely roam both countryside and town.

Even though the monkeys sometimes pilfer papers from offices, raid refrigerators, and ruin farm crops, few Indians would consider harming them.

Concern for rhesus monkeys seems just and wise, for the human race owes the rhesus a profound debt of gratitude, most scientists would agree.

"For all its contributions to medicine, the animal deserves the Nobel Prize," says Charles Southwick, a University of Colorado biologist who has spent years in India studying the monkeys.

As research animals, rhesus monkeys have prevented thousands of human tragedies, including birth defects, polio, and premature heart disease.

Tests involving the rhesus led to development of a reliable and safe polio vaccine in 1953. The thalidomide catastrophe that struck children in Europe in 1961 was averted in the United States when rhesus research showed that the tranquilizer caused birth defects.

In hematology, the primates saved lives by showing the way to treat Rh problems in newborn babies. The protein known as the Rh factor in some red blood cells gets its designation from the rhesus.

Renowned for a lot more than their contributions to science, monkeys have long played an important role in the culture and religion of India and much of Asia. In ancient Hindu texts, Hanuman, the monkey god, and his hosts are associated with the triumph of good over evil. So people often give bananas to monkeys as a goodwill gesture.

Handing Out Bananas

A field near Delhi comes alive with monkeys when Mehech Kumer, who works in a nearby cassette factory, hops out of his truck to distribute about 300 bananas. "My boss sent me," he explains. "Business is good, and he has a lot of faith in the monkeys."

Despite this relatively benign atmosphere, rhesus monkeys declined from 2 million in 1960 to about 180,000 in 1982, an alarming drop for an animal so hardy and adaptable. Alarmed by the steady decline and some methods of medical research, India, which had been exporting more than 100,000 rhesus monkeys annually, stopped the trade in 1978. The population has slowly increased to an estimated 270,000 today.

But trade wasn't the only problem, says Southwick. As he crisscrossed India, he found a rapidly expanding population rushing headlong into an age of high technology.

Rhesus monkeys freely roam both city and countryside. People worldwide owe them a huge debt of gratitude for their contributions to medical science. In India, offerings of food are often left for the animals and in parts of the country they have stopped living off the land. Things can get a little tense when the monkeys invade homes and sometimes bite the hands that feed them.

"While still an agrarian country, India is very much in the computer, nuclear, and space ages," says Southwick. "Millions of acres of forests have been converted into corporate farms, cities have grown, modern dams and vast irrigation projects have been built. There's less and less room for the rhesus."

Lack of a firm government policy is also part of the problem, according to rhesus expert Iqbal Malik, an assistant professor of zoology at Delhi University. "The monkeys we have should be looked after and managed properly so they don't get out of hand and turn people against them," she says.

Jaipur, capital of India's Rajesthan province, is a case in point. In the early-morning hours, monkeys swarm over rooftops and storefronts in the old section of the city, much to the annoyance of shopkeepers.

Accused Of Larceny

"They're thieves," says Surah Prakas, who runs a small food stand. "They steal my vegetable patties."

An estimated 3,500 monkeys live in the old section of the city, says Rajasthan University zoology professor Reena Mathur, who has been studying the monkeys. "Because of their increasing numbers, they are losing their sacred image. More and more people now regard them as pests."

Besides the day-to-day monkey business, there's also a health hazard. "Monkey bites send people to the hospital every week," says Ajay Lobo, a research scholar who is helping with the study.

Monkeys have set up their own visiting hours at a hospital in downtown Delhi. "I saw this big monkey in a corridor," a startled visitor recalls. "An orderly shouted to a couple of alarmed patients, 'Carry on, just walk around him. He's here all the time.'"

Maryland Holstein Association Ladies Tour Three Country Homes

BY SHARON SCHUSTER
Maryland Correspondent

WESTMINSTER, Md. – Ladies of the Maryland Holstein Association who attended the annual convention Feb. 20, enjoyed another aspect of farm living as they toured three beautiful country homes as part of a progressive luncheon.

The first stop on the tour was the home of Kathy and Marlin Hoff of New Windsor, Md. The 4,000 square feet of modern living space is situated in a secluded wooded area just down the road from the dairy barn. The facade of the home is cedar and stones that were collected from fields on the farm. Structurally, it resembles the shape of the barn. The home was built in 1975.

Kathy greeted the 70 women who entered through the double doors, then made a retreat to the kitchen to serve her delicious, warm-from-the-oven crab dip. (For recipe, turn to page B6.) Most of the visitors assembled in the focal point of the very modern home, the living room and entertainment center.

The two-story cathedral ceiling makes for an airy, light and inviting space. Each end of the large room, which runs front to back on one end of the house, has sliding glass doors with full one story windows above. Serving a dual purpose, the two-story windows and doors flood the large area with light, as well as provide a view of the adjacent woods. Like a life-sized painting that is ever-changing, the scene through the windows is seasonally beautiful.

The first floor of the Hoffs' home features all slate flooring. The large fireplace is also made of stones found on the farm. Kathy served hors d'oeurves and drinks over the bar which connects the open area to the traditional eat-in kitchen.

After bidding adieu to Kathy in her modern home, the ladies of the Holstein Association left Cold-springs Farm and made their way to the home of the Association president, Joe Schwartzbeck.

The tour proved to be a study in contrasts as the visitors made their way from the ultra-modern to the country charm of Joe and Nona Schwartzbeck's traditional log, brick and frame house. Unlike the Hoff home, Peace and Plenty's homestead is an integrated part of the farming area, with barns and silos just steps from the back door.

Nona served the main course of the progressive lunch, ham with imperial crab, salad, warm fruit compote and rolls.

The Schwartzbeck home supplied a feast for the eyes as well.

Joe and Nona Schwartzbeck's home is an integral part of the dairy operation at Peace and Plenty Farm.

Nona's dairy collectibles hang on every wall, sit on every shelf and even dangle from the ceiling. Her collections include the new and the old, all with a dairying theme.

Lunch was buffet style and served on some of Nona's fine collection of silver and glassware. The living room is full of family treasures including a writing desk that was custom made for Joe's great grandmother Dutrow. The small desk is inlaid with 2,076 blocks of wood, representing 365 different varieties of trees from all over the world.

The grandfather clock, which bears a likeness of the farm on the face, was constructed from a walnut log that Joe pulled out of the field when he was a teenager. Oldest son, Gus, made the oak corner cupboard.

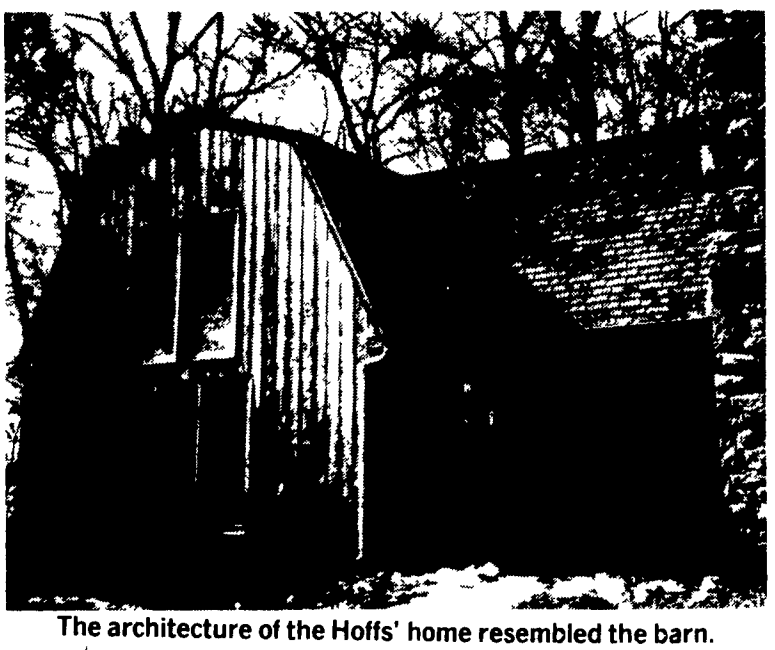
A collection of Bobbi Becker's original folk art paintings are displayed on one wall, and a large self-portrait of one of Nona's ancestors occupies most of another wall. The painting, called "The Beggarman," is a self-portrait of Eugene Poole completed in 1879 while he was studying at the Louvre in Paris.

After the delicious gourmet lunch, the tour then continued on to Taneytown, for the piece de resistance. The home of Louis and Karen Hobson was the end of the trail for the Holstein ladies' tour and luncheon.

The red brick home which dates to 1823, provided yet another contrast. The Hobson home is a beautifully renovated colonial home, decorated with exquisite Williamsburg furnishings and authentic period pieces.

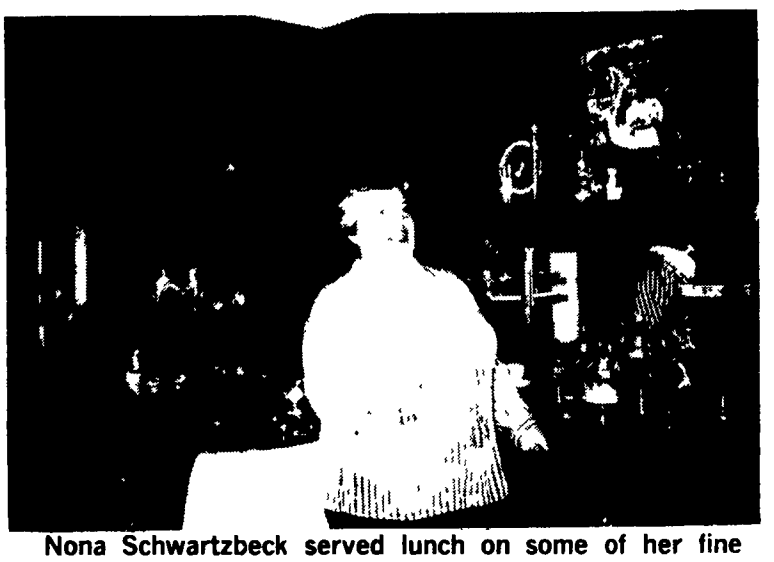
Blue is the theme that runs throughout the lovely home, from the Wedgewood blue velvet swag drapes that Karen made for the living room, to the federal blue

(Turn to Page B13)

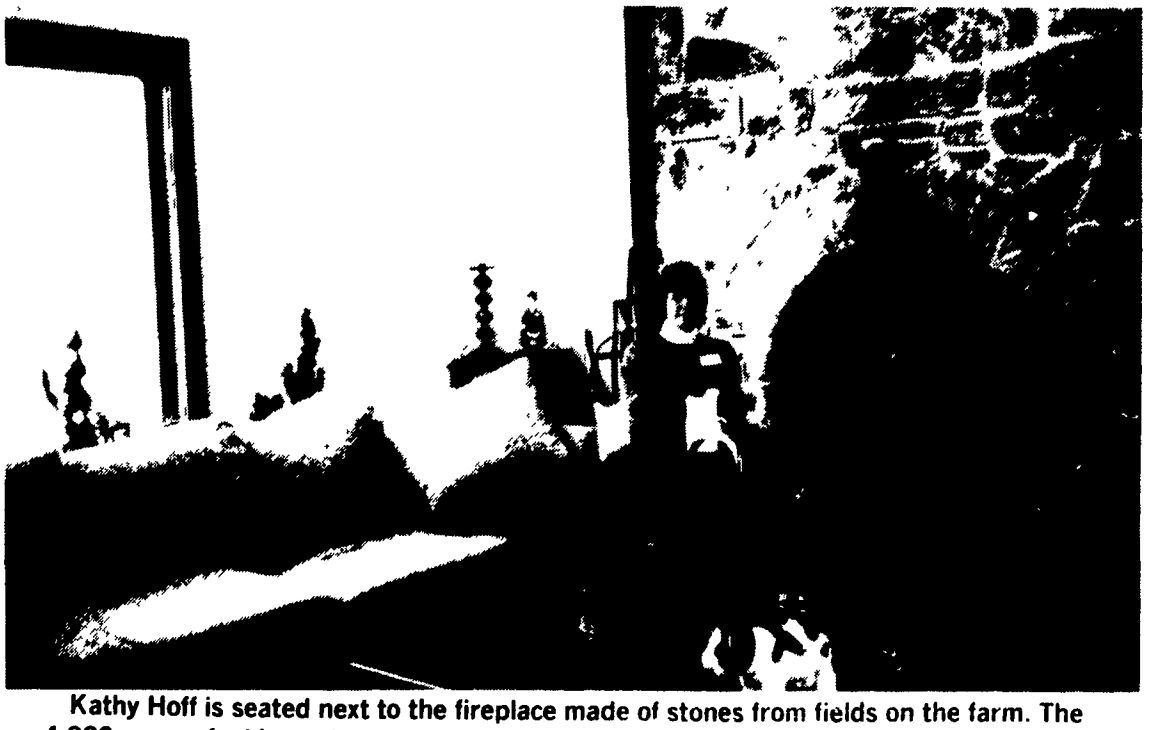


The architecture of the Hoffs' home resembled the barn.

Karen Hobson stenciled a pineapple border in the master bedroom. The bed was handcrafted.



Nona Schwartzbeck served lunch on some of her fine pieces of silver and glassware.



Kathy Hoff is seated next to the fireplace made of stones from fields on the farm. The 4,000 square foot home has a cathedral ceiling in the living room

Blue is the common thread which runs throughout the ...bson's home. Karen pauses for a moment in the formal living room

Women's Ag Forum To Examine International Trade

COLLEGE PARK, Md. – Since 1981, America's agricultural exports have plummeted more than 40 percent.

This overseas trade deficit has grim repercussions in Maryland, leaving farmers with bumper crops and dwindling markets.

A one-day conference on March 5 will examine the complex problems of international agricultural trade and explore new ways for Maryland farmers to recapture their competitive edge.

"International Trade: Its Impact on Maryland Agriculture" is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at The University of Maryland's Center of Adult Education in College Park.

The conference will address the future of agricultural trade, with a detailed look at the economic forecast for grain farmers.

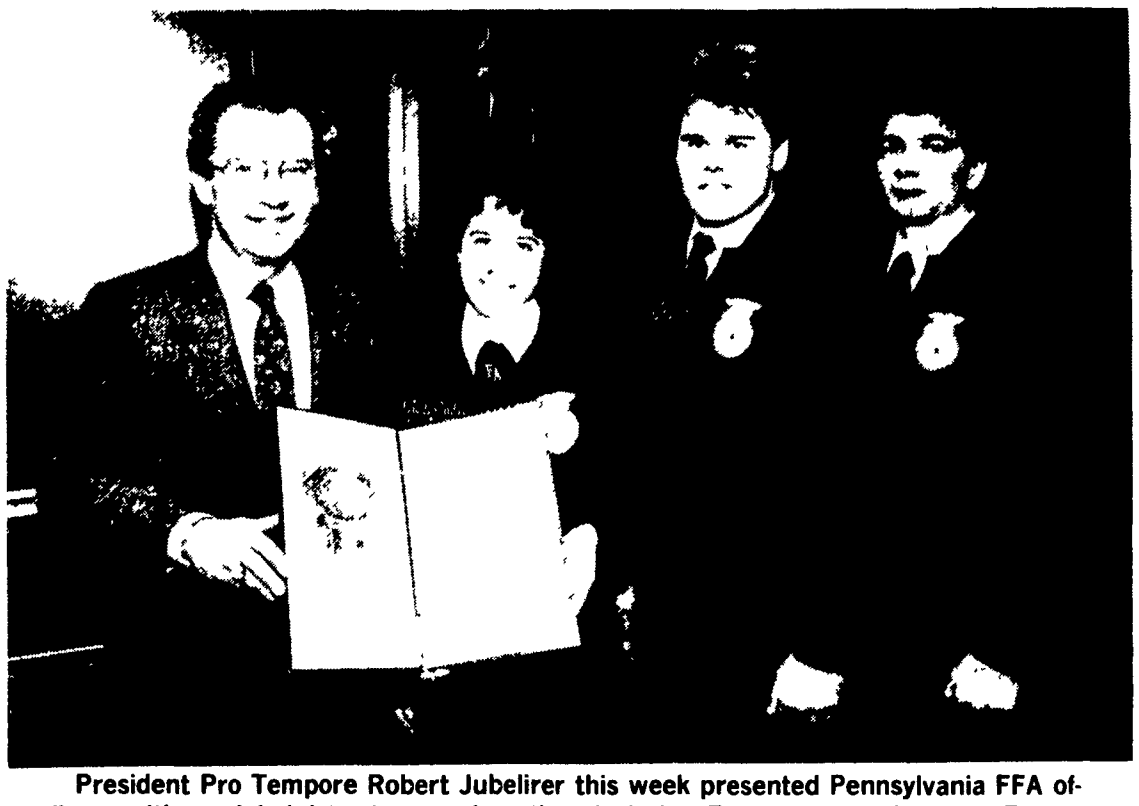
Bruno Julien, agricultural representative of the European Economic Community, will explain the importance of the Common Market for U.S. trade policy. And a representative from the Maryland Department of Agriculture will detail ways Maryland farmers can increase overseas exports.

Conference participants will also have the chance to try out a new video game on international trade developed by The University of Maryland.

Participants must pre-register for the conference. To do so, make out a check for $10 to the "March 5-Agricultural Forum." Mail the check to the Agricultural Forum, care of the Cooperative Extension Service, 600 S. Frederick Ave., Gaithersburg, Md. 20877.

For conference information, call (301) 948-6744 in Gaithersburg.

FFA Officers Receive FFA Week Proclamation



President Pro Tempore Robert Jubelirer this week presented Pennsylvania FFA officers with an Administration proclamation declaring Feb. 21 through 28 as Future Farmers of America Week. On hand for the presentation were, from left, Jubelirer, state FFA president Sheila Biddle of Blair County; FFA eastern region vice president George Metzler of Lancaster County, and FFA vice president Bill Blank of Chester County.

After receiving the proclamation, the officers attended the Senate session, where they were recognized by members of the Senate.

trim of the keeping room, to the light blue of the heirloom quilts that were draped across the second story railing.

The Hobsons have tried to preserve the original structure of the home that they purchased in 1971. Some of the furnishings were hand made by a friend and neighbor of the Hobsons, F. George Bower. He constructed the grandfather clock at the head of the stairs, the four-poster canopy bed, and he has been commissioned to constructed a highboy for Karen.

While they savored rich devils food cake, pecan pie and other desserts, guests oohed and aahed over every detail of the Hobson's exquisite home. A roaring fire crackled in the full-sized fireplace in the finished basement. An area that Karen said took seven years to complete, it also has a heated slate floor – a nice feature for those dairymen who come in out of the cold and drop their coveralls just inside the door.

Oriental rugs cover most of the floors, echoing the blues of each room. Karen stenciled a pineapple border in the master bedroom and made many of the quilts that were displayed. Karen decorated the rooms and crafted many details herself. Husband, Lou, hand-crafted the kitchen cabinets from the rough lumber of the wood grain bins in the barn.

After a day of warm country hospitality, and a very ample meal, the ladies of the Holstein Association were herded back to the convention. Billed as a "for women only" affair, the 70 women who paid $7 for the tour and lunch came away with many decorating ideas and renewed inspiration for renovating their own farm homes. One visitor commented, "Little do the husbands know what that $7 ticket is going to cost them."

Collectors attending the Cumberland County Farm Toy show take a close look at one of the tractor models offered.

Farm Toys: Not Just For Kids Anymore

BY KATHY E. GILL
Special to Lancaster Farming

CARLISLE — If you think toys are kids' stuff, then you haven't been to a farm toy show and auction.

More than 700 visitors bargained with 65 vendors at the second annual Cumberland Valley Farm Toy Show and Auction Saturday, Feb. 21, according to Brandon Weary, event coordinator.

Sponsored by the Cumberland Valley Tractor Pullers Association, this family-oriented event is a fundraiser for the group.

Farm toy collecting is a relatively new phenomenon, explained Dave Nolt, who is employed at a poultry processing plant in Lancaster County.

"Nationwide, farm toy collecting is about 15 years old. The concept was born in the mid-West, and then about 10 years ago we had our first Eastern show," he said.

"As recently as five yars ago, we had only one or two shows in the East. Today we have more than a dozen. The largest Eastern show is held in the fall in Lancaster County," Nolt continued.

Vendors at the Cumberland Valley event came primarily from the mid-Atlantic, although there were vendors from Wisconsin and Iowa, Weary said. Iowa is home to the National Farm Toy Show, Nolt said.

The hobby is truly a family affair. Youngsters can get into the act, purchasing toy tractors for as little as $2 or $3, Weary said. This price range covers the 1/64 scale models.

But the hobby is an adult endeavor as well. Nolt said some tractors at the show would sell for up to $400, noting that the price depends upon "condition, the machinery dealer and scarcity."

Nolt characterized the typical collector as some one with "ties to farming. You often find retired farmers, machinery dealers or even equipment manufacturers collecting farm toys," he said.

The serious collector is usually in his 30s or 40s, Nolt said, a reflection of the expense associated with the serious hobby. Collections are often valued at more than $10,000.

The Cumberland Valley show had its serious collectors as well. Elliott Burroughs, a Connecticut dairy farmer, has been collecting International Harvester tractors "since I was 6 years old. But I've only recently gotten serious about it."

His IH collection, valued at $4,500, is almost a complete IH exhibit from 1955 to today. "I need only four or five tractors to complete it as an exhibit," he said. His collection does not include cast iron tractors, and, as he notes, if he chooses to include Case tractors, he still has a way to go.

Farm toy enthusiast Elliott Burroughs displays part of his collection.

Burroughs said there are two primary suppliers of these model tractors, both domestic companies. These companies get permission from the equipment manufacturer to "copy" the equipment blueprints. John Deere was the first manufacturer to give a toy maker permission to copy its equipment.

Weary was pleased with the afternoon turnout. Following the sale, the group the group set up for a toy auction, with more than 300 toys scheduled for sale Nolt estimated that the toys ranged in value from $10 to $400.

Upcoming Pennsylvania events include a farm toy show and auction at the New Franklin Fire Hall March 21 in Chambersburg and at the Lebanon Fairgrounds, Friday evening and Saturday, May 15 and 16.

Those interested in publications related to toy collecting should contact the "Toy Collector Marketplace," published bimonthly by Sharpe Publications, 1550 Territorial Road, Benton Harbor, MI 49022 or "The Toy Tractor Times," published monthly at PO Box 156, Osage, IA 50461, 515-732-3530.

Gold Daughter Sells For $11,100 To Top Maryland Holstein Convention Sale

BY MARTHA J. GEHRINGER

WESTMINSTER, Md. — There's Gold in that there pedigree. Enough Gold to warrant a five-digit price tag for the Maryland Convention Sale topper.

Del-Myr Gold Holly proved to be the nugget prospectors were panning for. Prices jumped rapidly for the Tri-Day Valiant Gold daughter. When bidding ended, Pintail Point Farm, Queenstown, was the new owner of the GP-84 4 year old.

"Gold is a good investment now," Pintail Point herd manager Dan Vosburg said, explaining his selection. "We have been using a lot of Gold in the herd, but have no milking daughters yet," he said. Gold is a hot bull right now. This purchase will help bring interest into our herd and help in merchandizing her new herdmates, Vosburg commented.

Louis Schaefer, owner of Pintail Point, noted Holly's $4,000 AI contract and Cow Index of plus 1,281 milk, plus 34 fat, and plus $132 with a CTPI of plus 588 also attracted their interest. Schaefer confidently predicted Holly would improve on her classification and production records.

Holly produced a top record as a 3 year old of 25,880 pounds of milk and 867 pounds of fat in 365 days. She freshened on Dec. 19, 1986.

Her dam, Savage-Leigh Honor Suzette GP-80, completed a high record of 22,810 pounds of milk and 810 pounds of fat in 352 days. Suzette, a Rocby Apollo Fawn Honors daughter, owns a lifetime record of 111,710 pounds of milk in six lactations.

The next dam, Savage-Leigh Buttons Korndyke GP-83, produced a top record of 26,100 pounds of milk and 814 pounds of fat on a three times a day schedule in 305 days.

Holly's sale proved to be the icing on the cake for the general chairmen of the convention, Donna and Jason Myers, New Windsor. The Myers consigned the sale topper.

Gay-Ridge Starbuck Sara, was the second most popular cow in the sale, selling for $7,600 to C. Lee Chaney of Mount Airy. Consigned by Gay Ridge Holsteins, Ijamsville, the July 1986 calf was sired by Hanoverhill Starbuck.

Her dam, Gay-Ridge G V Star Sara EX-90, produced a top record of 26,620 pounds of milk and 1,022 pounds of fat in 336 days. Sired by Glen-Valley Star, she owns a Cow Index of plus 321 milk and plus 11 fat with a CTPI of plus 414.

The second dam, Gay-Ridge Great Sandy EX-90 EX-MS, produced two record over 20,000 pounds of milk with fat tests of 3.7 percent.

A 2 year old consigned by Marlin Hoff, New Windsor, garnered the third best price of the sale. Fresh in November 1986, Coldsprings Levi Ossa-ET is milking 85 pounds

Del-Myr Gold Holly sold for $11,100, the top price at the Maryland Holstein Convention Sale. She sold to Pintail Point Farm, represented by Dan Vosburg (second from right), Maureen Vosburg, Louis Schaefer and Jean Schaefer. Holly was consigned by the Myers family, represented by Roger (left) behind Krista and Kelli and Jason and Donna Myers. Also pictured are Denny Remsburg (left in box) and Norman Hill. Billy Heath holds the halter.

BY SUE CROW AND MARTHA J. GEHRINGER

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Carroll County Holstein Breeders hosted the 23rd annual Maryland Holstein Convention and Sale held here last weekend.

President Joseph Schwartzbeck's message to the crowd of over 150 people attending the annual business meeting was the importance of the youth in the state. With membership at 740, a drop from last year, our future is in the junior members, he said.

He announced that Curtis Day would replace Ed Standfield as vice president. Standfield was thanked for his contributions and dedication to the association.

Frank Walbert reported that Mary King would replace him on the All-Maryland Committee as the new chairman.

John Hall noted the increase in popularity of the state Futurity contest. Renominations are up and Futurity number six — 1989 has 785 entries by 127 different exhibitors. The purse was increased by $855 to a total of $3,950.

Donna Myers reported on the success of the juniors in the state. Mike Iager was selected as a National Distinguished Junior at the National Convention in Wisconsin. Kelli Savage, Chris Savage, Scott Stanford, Matt Iager and Sam Davis received 1986 Junior All-American nominations.

With the help and support from the state association, a junior association was formed. The results of the election of officers for the newly formed club are: Michael Iager, president; Nancy Powel, vice president; Lisa Davis, secretary; and Shane Schwartzbeck, treasurer.

Robert Knutsen announced that Roy Hetts from Wisconsin will judge the State Show and Paul King from Pennsylvania will be the official judge for the PDCA judging school.

National Holstein consultants for the area, Thomas Dum and Clarence Stauffer, presented the Progressive Breeder Awards to: C. Renn Remsburg, 25 years, Maple Lawn Farm Inc., 20 years, Marlin Hoff, six years, Schenning Brothers, six years, Carl Bender, four years, Del-Myr Farm, four years, Donald Wilcom, four years, Harmony Farm, three years, Dan Hollingsworth III, three years, and Ross E. Smith Jr. and Sons, one year.

Production awards, presented by Jack King and Marlin Hoff, went to Rose Croft Ltd., Parry Farms, Kimstead Farm, Maple Lawn Farm, Philip Beachy, Robert Meredith, Marlin Hoff, Grubby Neck Farm, Oren Bender and Firey Brothers.

Schwartzbeck announced the new board members filling vacancies are Doug King, Donald Wilcom, Donna Myers and Marlin Martin.

After the noon meal, Dr. Ronald Buffington gave an informative talk on "Holsteins and Future Choices." He presented challenging information on increasing profit opportunities through genetic development and expanded marketing opportunities.

A record crowd of 450 people attended the convention banquet at the Pleasant Valley Firehall, Westminster. At the evening's banquet awards were presented to junior members of the association.

The scholarship for the University of Delaware went to Kris Knutsen, Rising Sun. At the University Knutsen is studying ag business management and dairy science.

Rebecca Long, a senior in agricultural journalism at the University of Wisconsin, and Eric Schrader, an ag business management major in the Institute of Applied Ag at the University of Maryland rounded out the five scholarship winners.

per day in her first lactation. John and Vicki King of Ocean City purchased the Coldsprings Levi daughter for $5,500.

Ossa's dam, Hi-Fi-Farm Astro Truine EX-93, produced a top record of 31,967 pounds of milk and 1,135 pounds of fat in 365 days. She completed a second lactation over 30,000 pounds of milk and two additional lactations over 23,000 pounds of milk. Her lifetime record in 2,500 days stands at 164,599 pounds of milk and 6,020 pounds of fat.

Three other consignments sold over the $5,000 price level.

Denny Remsburg, auctioneer for the sale, said at the start of the sale, "This is the strongest catalogue we've ever put together for the convention. There isn't a weak link in the whole catalogue." The sale average of $3,120 on 53 lots supported his statement.

Prior to the start of the cattle auction, a wall hanging made and donated by Mrs. Sidney Lease sold for $650 to Maple Lawn Farm. The proceeds of the sale benefitted the newly formed Maryland Junior Holstein Club.

Remsburg Sale Service of Jefferson managed the sale. Jeff Myers and Gary Derr served as sale chairmen. The Maryland Holstein-Freisian Association sponsored the sale which was hosted by the Carroll County Holstein Club.

Shaffer To Represent Delaware At 4-H Leader Program

NEWARK, Del. – Larry P. Shaffer, New Castle County volunteer 4-H leader for 20 years, will represent Delaware at the fifth Salute to Excellence program at the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase, Md., March 14-21.

Shaffer, a Wilmington resident, will be one of 52 men and women selected nationally for the seven-day 4-H recognition and training program.

The Salute to Excellence program is supported by the National 4-H Council and the R. J. Reynolds Industries, Inc. After attending the meeting, Shaffer will submit a proposal for increasing volunteerism in the state. Attendance at the training program and the proposal will result in a $1,000 incentive grant to the state 4-H staff.

a data communications specialist with ICI Americas, Shaffer has served as co-leader of the Highlanders 4-H Club in Wilmington for two decades. The club, which has more than 30 members and five other volunteer leaders, has in recent years involved handicapped residents at the Mary Campbell Center in 4-H projects and delighted youngsters at the A. I. DuPont Institute with decorated Christmas trees.

Shaffer served for three years on the Delaware 4-H Foundation board of directors and is a member of New Castle County Links, an honorary service organization made up of former 4-H'ers and 4-H leaders. He currently serves as president of the New Castle County Extension Advisory Council.

"4-H should be considered continuing education," Shaffer says. "Projects such as public speaking, visual presentations, community involvement and the competition that 4-H represents help to mold the leader of tomorrow." He adds that this year four graduates of his club plan to pursue careers they first explored through 4-H projects.

While attending the Salute to Excellence program, Shaffer will participate in 4-H workshop sessions, attend a Congressional reception on Capitol Hill and take field trips to cultural and historic sites. The workshops will focus on such subjects as making design and photography work for 4-H; recruiting, training and using volunteers; working effectively with teens and adults; and using state and local resources to develop 4-H programs.

Salute to Excellence is conducted by the National 4-H Council in support of the 4-H youth program of the Cooperative Extension System.

Matt Hoff won the Peace and Plenty Farm award for lifetime production with Kitway Coldsprings Jaki-Twin. She produced a lifetime record, in 1,940 days of 165,189 milk and 6,303 fat with a FCM record of 173,650.

In the junior division record book winners included: Cindy Fell, Andrea Raber, Jenell Rinehart, Brian Ehrhardt, Brian Shaw and James Swift. Mark Iager garnered the award for first year book.

Senior record book winners honored at the evening's banquet were: Karen Knutsen, Karen Stonesifer, Charles Ehrhardt, Jack Kahler, Matt Iager and Susie Stonesifer, the overall winner.

Ron Buffington encouraged the evening's group to be positive and "learn to look at the 95 percent of the system that's right." He suggested the group "rally around American genetics." It may not be perfect, he said, but the rest of the world searches out this gene pool.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wilcom will be the general chairmen for the 1988 Maryland Holstein Convention. Donald announced tenative plans for the event to be held on Feb. 19 and 20 at the Sheraton in Frederick.

New Holland 4-H Baby Beef Club

The next meeting will be held March 17 at the home of Heather Yoder.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Keeping in touch with my own family can become a real chore. If I want some particular information from our children it may be weeks before I get it.

Recently one letter from the west coast took eleven days to arrive instead of the usual four and another Anniversary greeting took eight days to come from a southern state. I do know that I could use the telephone and call but that is definitely more expensive.

In the past 30 years our address has changed three times. And we have not moved from our original farm. The post office was changed from one small town to another one nearby. And then it was decided that no mail would be delivered unless a number and street address were used. I will agree that a number makes it easier for someone to be found rather than simply using a rural route number.

It seems that nowadays people move more often than they did several decades ago. My own sheet of addresses is crossed off over and over again as new ones appear. At the present time three of our six children are considering changing their addresses for various reasons.

But, I'm thinking that they will have a hard time to get me to move. I guess I simply like it where I am and cannot imagine moving the accumulation of a lifetime to another place. However, there is certainly no guarantee that I can spend the rest of my life here in this 175-year-old brick house along the bank of the Conestoga River where I can watch the ducks and geese swim on the black-looking water in the winter and the green-looking water in the summer.

American Angus Auxiliary Offers College Scholarships

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — College scholarships totaling $7,200 will be awarded this year to ten deserving high school graduating seniors. Five girls and five boys active in Angus projects, school, community, and church activities will be selected from each of the respective state applications. Entry deadline is June 25, 1987.

Scholarship money in each group will be $1,200 for first place, $900 for second place, $700 for third place, $500 for fourth place and $300 for fifth place.

The Miss American Angus contest will remain separate from the scholarship contest again this year. Alfalfa growers demand the best.

C. Richard Locke farms some of the gently rolling land found at the foot of Pennsylvania's Tuscarora Mountains near Mercersburg. Well drained soil found here, along the Franklin-Fulton County line, grows 100 acres of alfalfa used to feed Locke's herd of 100 cattle. Locke registered Holsteins often find their way to the top of the class at county and state shows. Richard picks the winners when it comes to cattle and alfalfa.

"I planted Cimarron alfalfa in spring 1985," he says. "I got 4 cuttings this year and this is the fifth cutting out here now. Cimarron really yielded for me even though it was dry in this area. It out-yielded every other variety I had on this farm - every cutting."

"You've got to feed cows and feed alfalfa if you expect them to produce," he relates, "and I won't cut the fifth cutting this year - it helps get the alfalfa thru the winter to get top production next spring. I feel this really pays."

"Cimarron's finer stems seem to dry down faster in the field than other varieties I've harvested over the years," according to Richard. "I'll be planting 25 more acres of Cimarron this fall."

That's the Cimarron story from Mercersburg, Pennsylvania.

THE MICRO WAY

LANI BLOOMER

Microwave Oven Safety

One day when I was demonstrating microwave ovens, a little old lady stopped by my demonstration table. She peered at the microwaves and then at me, and stated,

"You'll never ever get me near one of those things again! Why, about six months ago I looked in one that was running. That radiation got my eyes, and they still aren't right yet!"

Well, no amount of talking on my part could convince her that whatever was wrong with her eyes wasn't from looking in the microwave!

But this story is representative of the many misconceptions people have about microwave oven safety. Let's dispel some of these worries right now!

Radiation

Webster's dictionary defines radiation as sending out energy in the form of waves, such as rays of heat, light, electricity or sound. Without getting into a lot of physics and complex definitions, some radiation is harmful to us and some is not.

Whether the radiation is harmful to people, depends on the wavelength or its frequency. Radiation that is harmful is called "ionizing," and has a very high frequency and very short wavelength. X Rays and gamma rays are. examples of ionizing radiation that may damage cells in our bodies.

Non-ionizing radiation includes some light rays and the frequencies used for radar detectors, microwaves, televisions and radios. These lower frequencies have much longer wavelengths, and cannot harm us.

So, even if your microwave should leak some radiation, it will not harm you. As a matter of fact, microwave heaters are currently being tested as a way to warm people in their homes!

Microwave ovens are one of the safest kitchen appliances, according to the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. They report that no one has ever been harmed by microwave energy from a microwave oven. Microwave radiation, then, is an imaginary safety problem!

Can I Look In The Window While It's Running?

If you could see a microwave, it would be 4 to 5 inches long and travel in a zig-zag, or wave pattern about as thick as a pencil. This thick zig-zag pattern is why the microwaves can't get past the door seals on your oven, or out those tiny holes in the screen in the door window! So yes, of course you can look in the window.

When Is The Food Safe To Eat?

When microwaves enter food, they cause the food particles to vibrate; the friction of the vibration creates heat.

As soon as microwaves come in contact with the food, their energy is converted to heat and they are gone.

The microwaves are no longer there! Standing time is not needed to let the microwaves get out! And you won't get throat cancer from swallowing the microwaves in your food. They aren't there; just the heat is left! It's safe to eat your food as soon as it's cooked enough — just be careful you don't get burned.

Can I Stir The Food While It's Cooking?

People also want to know if it is safe to open the door while the oven is running. Many are afraid the microwaves will get their hand or metal spoon.

If you try opening the door while the oven is running, you will discover on most ovens that the power is instantly stopped. (Some ovens require you to push the STOP button before the door latch will release). Since microwaves travel at the speed of light, any radiation in the oven when you open the door will be used up heating the food long before your hand gets into the oven.

So, yes, you can open the door and stir your food. Just as it is perfectly safe to taste the spaghetti sauce for seasoning, just like you might on the range.

Pacemakers

Many people ask about the safety of a microwave with pacemakers. In the early 1970's there was a problem with the "demand" pacemakers, that worked in response to signals from the heart. Occasionally other signals (from automobile ignition systems, some radio or television emissions, or leaky microwave ovens) would interfere with them.

To solve the problem, shielding was developed for the pacemakers. Pacemakers are usually replaced after about seven years, so it is unlikely that any of the unshielded ones are left in use today. Therefore, people with pacemakers can use microwave ovens! If you are in doubt, check with your doctor.

Radiation and pacemakers are imaginary problems with microwave ovens. There are, however, other safety problems with microwaves that are not imaginary. These are simple, everyday matters of burns, steam vapor, and accidential fires that you encounter with every form of cooking. Watch for The Micro Way next week, for tips to avoid these safety problems.

Quick Tip:

For several years, a dentist at the University of Oklahoma has been using microwaves to sterlize his plastic denture material! Use your microwave to make your kitchen safer by killing bacteria on your dishcloth, sponge, etc. Here's how:

Fill the sponge or dishcloth with warm soapy water and don't wring it out. Set it on a plate (so you can get it out without burning your hand when it's hot). Put it in the microwave and microwave on high for 2 to 3 minutes until steam forms on the window. Just be careful removing it, and don't try to wring it out before it cools!

Robert Kilgore spoke to the group about giving and caring.

The next meeting will be March 2 at the 4-H Center. The program will be Richard Beck, Jr., a former 4-H member in York County. He is now an associate at the American Angus Hall of Fame in Smithville, Mo. New members and parents are welcome.

Pests Attack Stored Food

MEDIA – Many kinds of cereal products and other grain foods that are stored in the home may become infested with insects. These pests not only destroy food or make it worthless for human consumption; they also become annoying as the adult insects crawl or fly about the house.

Control by carefully examining all susceptible foods and dispose of infested materials. Remove all foods and kitchen utensils from the area to be treated. Wash cabinets and storage spaces with soap and water. Spray or brush on a household solution of pyrethrin, Malathion or Methoxychlor (household formulation only) on all shelves and corners. When completely dry, apply new shelving paper and replace contents. Products that show no evidence of contamination but have been near infested food can be put in a shallow pan and heated to 150° for 20 minutes to kill any stages of insects that may be in them. Purchase foods in small quantities to eliminate long storage periods or place food in glass or metal containers with tight-fitting lids

Landscape With Architecture In Mind

YORK — Dressing up your yard with plants is similar to outfitting yourself with new clothes and accessories — it's a matter of taste, style and coordination.

Proper selection and placement of plants in your landscape design can make or break the total effect of your landscape. Landscapes that contain a balance of trees, shrubs and groundcovers are generally more attractive and functional. For example, trees can serve as a roof, smaller trees and shrubs become the walls and ground covers create a textured surface below.

Optimum plant use involves an appreciation of plant qualities and site limitations. The interaction between these two components determines the success of a plant design.

Plants contribute to a landscape design in many ways. Each tree, shrub or ground cover plant has unique characteristics that set it apart from all others. Size is a major factor; a landscape with plants pruned to a single size presents a dull and boring picture.

Trees offer the largest mass in a planting. In the right location, shade trees can grow 100 feet tall. Small, flowering trees generally reach heights of 15 to 25 feet. Plants classed as shrubs probably offer the greatest range of sizes from less than 3 feet to 15 feet in height.

The leaves of evergreens and deciduous plants add a seasonal pattern to a landscape. It's important for a design to change aesthetic qualities over the seasons. With different forms of trees, shrubs and ground covers, evergreens and deciduous plants create a constantly changing picture in the landscape.

Evergreen plants add stability to a design. Their seasonal variation is limited, but it's possible to obtain short periods of flower color among selected broadleaf evergreens like the rhododendrons. Leaf size, texture and color are welcome variations among the broadleaf group. Narrowleaf evergreens tend to vary less, but color changes on the newly developing foliage each spring are interesting.

Deciduous plants make great contributions to a landscape because they constantly change over the seasons. Gardeners frequently select plants for their flowering properties, but overlook features with a greater, longer aesthetic value. Foliage color, bark quality, fragrance, fruit type and even thorns can all add to the variation and create an interesting landscape design. Many of these plant characteristics persist longer than flowers. Selecting plants for their flowers alone often results in a one-sided display of color.

Home Architecture

Lastly, the architecture of your home is important before you select shrubs that accent and play up that style. Certain shrubs are good with certain styles of architecture. Well pruned hedges and evergreen plants are excellent with the colonial styles. For a modern or contemporary home, the informal viburnums are the best plant choices.

Cumberland Valley Cooperative Reports Drop In Sales Volume

BY KATHY GILL
Special to Lancaster Farming

SHIPPENSBURG — About 600 member-owners and guests attended the 57th annual meeting of Cumberland Valley Cooperative, held here at Shippensburg High School Feb. 21. During the meeting General Manager Henry Zajac reported that sales volume for the cooperative had dropped.

Zajac said sales dropped from $7.1 million in 1985 to $6.6 million in 1986. Sales reflected lower fertilizer prices as well as the fact that the cooperative did not sell corn in the fall for future delivery.

The combination of lower sales and relatively stable costs meant that CVC showed a net loss of $366,000 for fiscal (calendar) 1986.

Zajac outlined several steps that the board and management had taken to respond to the financial pressure. First, the cooperative sold its Mechanicsburg fuel oil business. Estimates indicated that the organization would have needed to increase sales five times to operate profitably.

Second, the cooperative sold its farm equipment and machinery line at the Shippensburg branch. The building was remodeled as a Farm and Home Center, recognizing the changing market for equipment and the needs of the local community.

Third, the board directed management to consolidate services where possible and add profitable services when possible. As a result, grinding and delivery at Longsdorf has been transferred to other locations. Moreover, fertilizer spreader trucks are being better utilized by the sale and spreading of a damp, high magnesium limestone.

In other business, president Wayne Craig recognized Floyd Mains for his contributions to CVC, both as manager and as a director. Dr. Walter Kenneth from Central Soya briefed the audience on CVC's relationship with Central Soya and their Master Mix brand.

Cumberland Valley Cooperative general manager Henry Zajac reports on the co-op's progress in 1986.

He also outlined activities at the company's research facility in Indiana.

The meeting closed with entertainment provided by Debi and Chris Peterson of Huntingdon, who performed Broadway favorites accompanied by a pianist.

CVC Elects Directors

SHIPPENSBURG — Four new directors and two incumbents have been elected to the board of directors of Cumberland Valley Cooperative.

Ron Allison, Chambersburg, and R. Craig Fulton, Shippensburg, were re-elected to three-year terms. Allison is a dairy farmer in partnership with his brother, milking 175 cows. Fulton farms with his son and milks 90 cows.

Elected to their first three-year terms were Paul Hoch, Shippensburg; Lester E. Martin, Chambersburg; J. Robert Meyers, Jr., St. Thomas; and Frank J. Yost, Newville.

Hoch milks 150 cows with his brother; Martin has 180 dairy cows; Meyers farms with his brother, which consists of 160 dairy cows; and Yost milks 60 cows.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of ca[illegible] The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximate[illegible] 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as b[illegible]re. It is near enough to the surface to give your co[illegible] full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to r[illegible] effec[illegible]e for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Stake Bodies
by OMAHA STANDARD

Full time hauling demands equipment that withstands the punishment of rigorous work, day in and day out.

Omaha Standard Stake Bodies are engineered to meet tough hauling needs, regardless of cargo. Steel or wood racks, both feature heavy duty steel stakes.

Full width 96" platforms with swaged (indented) lights for better light protection and appearance. Spring-loaded rack connectors and automatic hold downs that keep racks in place and help reduce noise. Swing-out rack sections are optional. Stake racks fit both heavy duty standard and medium duty "Metro" platforms. Steel bulkheads with full width mesh windows are available.

There's no better stake body on the market Ask someone who owns one, or better yet, compare us one-on-one with the others.

ERA®

EXTRAZINE® 90 DF™ THE GROWERS' CHOICE FOR AN EARLY START.

Growers who use EXTRAZINE® 90DF™ herbicide early preplant (EPP), 2-4 weeks before planting, report the head start ends weed problems and saves money. No longer do they face later potential problems with preemergence (PE) treatments (soil too wet to work, too dry to activate herbicide, weeds too tall for foliar kill.) They also see EXTRAZINE EPP burn down weeds, ending the need for costly contact treatments.

By applying EXTRAZINE EPP, growers take full advantage of earlier spring rains to activate EXTRAZINE, unleashing its highly effective weed killing action on both grasses and broadleaves. Meanwhile, on untreated fields at this time, problem weeds can be emerging and flourishing everywhere. And the rains are preventing those growers from entering their corn fields.

Planting Day! The effective weed kill of EXTRAZINE EPP lets growers plant into a clean seedbed. But other growers are in trouble, because the early rains have produced heavy weed growth. Now they're busy either discing or applying a costly contact and preemerge treatment—hoping to get some burndown and rain to activate their traditional PE treatment.

Weeks after the treatment of EXTRAZINE EPP, growers watch their young corn thriving in a weed-free field. On other planted fields, growers are still waiting for rain, while new weeds are emerging and competing for moisture. No wonder growers are switching to EXTRAZINE EPP. Backed by a performance agreement, EXTRAZINE assures commercially acceptable weed control. See your participating dealer for details.

M-W Price Drops 18 Cents

Production, Cow Numbers Continue Downward Trend

UNIVERSITY PARK — Milk production and prices in January 1987 proved to be a mixed bag for dairymen. While prices and utiliztion continued the upward trend, the Minnesota-Wisconsin price dropped from December 1986 and a second decrease is expected in February. The drop of the M-W price will impact farmers' prices in the coming months.

Penn State dairy marketing specialist Dr. Jack Kirkland remains optimistic about the dairy industry. "Things look good — real good," he said in a phone interview this week. "The average effective price for milk in Pennsylvania, after assesments, is 93 cents higher than is was a year ago," he continued.

He attributed the January M-W price drop of 18 cents from December's level of $11.88 as a reflection of the support price drop on Jan. 1. "Some people are predicting another major drop in the M-W price in February," Kirkland said.

The January 1987 M-W price for 3.5 fat remains 5.2 higher than the $11.12 price of January 1986. This figure hovers well above the support price of $11.07, Kirkland noted, indicating farmers are still better off than they were a year ago.

The number of milk cows in the 21 major dairy states fell by 5.3 percent from January 1986 to January 1987 compared to a decline of 1.6 percent for Pennsylvania, Kirkland reported.

In the 21 states there were 9.3 million cows in January 1986 and 8.8 million in January 1987. In Pennsylvania, 741,000 cows were tallied in January 1986 compared to 729,000 for the same period in 1987.

Milk production per cow increased in Pennsylvania from 1,155 from January 1986 to 1,170 in January 1987. In December 1986 production per cow stood at 1,150. The national level registered a similar gain, Kirkland noted, from 1,106 in January 1986 to 1,123 in January 1987. In December 1986 production per cow stood at 1,099.

Total milk production declined in both markets. The national level recorded a substantial drop of 3.8 percent from January 1986 to January 1987. Pennsylvania, however, recorded a slight reduction of .4 percent for the same period.

The number of replacement heifers over 6 months of age decreased by 9 percent from 4.8 million in January 1986 to 4.3 million in January 1987. However, in Pennsylvania the number of replacements increased from 290,000 in January 1986 to 294,000 in January 1987, Kirkland said.

When the replacement herd decreases along with the number of milk cows, the capacity to expand greatly diminishes, Kirkland explained. This pattern presently exists on the national level. However, in Pennsylvania the trend reverses.

Items are present in the Pennsylvania dairy industry that the state's dairymen can expand, Kirkland explained. Those farmers not in the Dairy Termination Program seems to have plans and the ability to expand, he commented. The DTP has not had as great of an influence in Pennsylvania as the it has in the rest of the country, the Penn State marketing specialist noted.

"The bottom line to me is that the dairy industry looks good in Pennsylvania," Kirkland said.

Milk prices in the three Federal Orders serving Pennsylvania increased in January 1987 compared to the same period last year and last month.

In Federal Order 2 Class 1 prices registered an increase of $1.02 per hundredweight from January 1986 to $14.46 (before assesments) in January 1987. The December 1986 price stood at $14.24. Class 2 milk sold for $11.73 in January 1987 and $11.15 in January 1986. The Blend price for the order stood at $11.92 last year and $12.76 this year.

Producers in the Mid-Atlantic marketing area received $13.95 per hundredweight for Class 1 milk in January 1986 and $14.92 in January 1987. In December 1986 Class 1 milk sold for $14.72. Class 2 milk netted an increase of 58 cents from January 1986 to January 1987. The Blend price of Order 4 changed from $12.53 in January 1986 to $13.42 in January 1987.

A similar gain in prices was posted in Federal Order 36. Class 1 milk was priced at 13.04 per hundredweight in January 1986 and $13.91 in January 1987. In December 1986 the price was $13.64. Class 2 registered an 80 cent increase in price from last year to this year. Producers in the eastern Ohio-western Pennsylvania area received $11.12 for milk in January 1986 and $11.70 in January 1987 for Class 3 milk. The Blend price advanced 88 cents in the same period.

Class 1 milk utilization rose in the three Federal Orders. In Order 2 the consumption increased from 40.8 percent in January 1986 to 43.6 percent in January 1987. Order 4 registered a 4 percent gain compared to a 5.8 percent increase in Order 36 for the same period.

The Pennsylvania all-milk wholesale price netted a 9.4 percent jump from January 1986 to January 1987, Kirkland reported.

Another good figure for dairymen, he added, was the lowered cost of a 16 percent dairy ration. He said the price drop from $174 per ton in 1986 to $155 per ton in 1987 was a reflection of the lowered grain prices.

The lower feed costs and increased milk prices combined to create a favorable milk-feed price ratio, Kirkland said. In January 1986 the ratio stood at 1.49. For the same time in 1987 the ratio figured out to 1.83 for a 22.8 percent increase, he said. This number indicates the relative profitability of dairy farms, he noted. Kirkland explained, the higher the number the greater the profits of the dairy industry.

Cull cows sold for $37.80 per hundredweight in January 1987 compared to $33.80 per hundredweight in January 1986, the Penn State specialist reported. Replacement cow costs rose from $840 to $880 per cow for the same period, he said.

CCC purchases dropped 50 percent for the week of Feb. 9 to 13, 1987 compared to the same week in 1986. For the year to date in 1987, CCC purchases declined 40 percent compared to the same time frame last year, Kirkland said. If CCC purchases continue to decrease at the present rate, the purchases will be close to the 5 billion pounds level needed to prevent a support price drop on Jan. 1, 1988, he predicted.

He noted prices should remain good for the first half of 1987. What happens in the first half of this year will influence prices for the second half. While he predicted prices will drop slightly in the second half, the degree depends on farmers not in the DTP restraining production.

Kirkland said that while production numbers are still high, he feels that without the buyout program the numbers would be gloomy.

"I'm very optimistic about the dairy industry and I think it has the potential to get better," he said.

New Jersey Holstein Association Plans Seminar

RUTGERS, N.J. — The New Jersey Holstein Association will sponsor a breed improvement seminar entitled "Sire Selection — The Next Generation" on Friday evening March 6 at 8 p.m. and again on Saturday morning March 7 at 10:30 a.m. The evening seminar will be held at the Tranquility Church Hall in Allamuchy and the morning session at the Dutch Inn in Gibbstown.

The program, a panel format with questions following, will feature three outstanding speakers: Robert Miller, Dr. Dennis Funk and Edwin R. Fry.

Miller, of Dundee, Ill., the best known of the three, gained notoriety recently by being elected president of the Breeders Majority, a national organization of Holstein breeders challenging the current method of compiling cow indexes and bull proofs. His well-known "Roxy" cow, who has 20 daughters that average over 90 points in classification score and over 24,000 milk and 1,000 fat actual production, was recently named "Queen of the Breed" for the first 100 years of registered Holsteins in America.

Funk, of Brattleboro, Vt., currently serves as Director of Research and Development of the Holstein Association of America. In his position, he directs the computation of Holstein type summaries and cow indexes. He also serves as project manager for a new computer mating program scheduled for introduction in 1987. In the training and educational aspects of his job, Funk has made genetic presentations to a wide range of audiences at sire analysts meetings, World Dairy Expo, breeders workshops and at the International Conference on Dairy Cattle in Mexico City.

Fry, of Chestertown, Md., is a partner in the well-known Fair Hills Farms, a large dairy and cash crop farm on Maryland's Eastern Shore. He has played a major role in the development of Fair Hills' 500-cow commercial dairy, as well as its select herd of registered Holsteins. The registered herd is well represented by a number of bulls with AI studs, has marketed embryos and otherwise pursues a vigorous merchandising program. Fry has served as a director of National DHIA for a number of years and currently serves as its treasurer.

All dairymen and interested persons from New Jersey and surrounding states are cordially invited to attend. While admission is free to both programs, the morning program will run through lunch, for which there will be a $9 charge. Lunch reservations must be made by March 2 through Diane Jones at (609) 267-5246 or 267-0198.

Maple Sugar Festival Set For March 14

WEST CHESTER — Learn the techniques of backyard maple sugaring at Chester County's Hibernia Park during the seventh annual Maple Sugar Festival on Saturday, March 14 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Maple syrup will be made from tree sap for interested onlookers, and tree identification and tapping demonstrations will take place.

Those who are interested in the maple sugaring process and want to try it at home are welcome to attend. Take-home brochures will outline the procedures step by step. Equipment catalogs and collections of recipes substituting maple syrup for sugar will be distributed.

A special festival breakfast will be served all day, beginning at 9 a.m. Pancakes, sausage, orange juice, and a choice of coffee or cocoa will be available for $2.50; pancakes, orange juice, coffee, or cocoa will cost $2; extra orange juice, coffee, or cocoa will be 40 cents each. Linsey Woolsey, a live bluegrass band from West Chester, will entertain under the pavilion where the breakfast is served.

Pure Pennsylvania maple syrup will be sold in various size containers by the half-gallon, quart, pint, half-pint, and quarter-pint, along with maple cream and bags of maple candy. Tree taps will be available for purchase by those who would like to tap their own trees. Visitors may also tour historic Hibernia Mansion, or take a hayride through the park meadows and woodlands.

Hibernia Park is located approximately four miles north of Coatesville in central Chester County. From the Route 30 bypass, follow Route 82 north two miles, turn left on Cedar Knoll Road and travel one and one-quarter miles to the park entrance on the left. The rain date is Saturday, March 28. For more information, call the Hibernia Park office at (215) 384-0290.

Sheep Numbers Up 12 percent in 1986

HARRISBURG — The number of sheep and lambs on Pennsylvania's 4,700 sheep farms was 104,000 on Jan. 1, up 12 percent over a year earlier, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

The PASS report placed the inventory value of the state's sheep and lambs at $7.85 million, one-half percent above the previous year. However, the average value per head during the period dropped $8.50 to $75.50 per head.

The 104,000 total included 73,000 ewes one year old and older, 6,000 rams and wethers one year and older, 18,000 ewe lambs and 7,000 ram and wether lambs.

PASS listed Pennsylvania's 1986 lamb crop at 79,000 head, 5 percent above 1985. There were 68,000 breeding ewes one year old and older, compared with 67,000 a year ago. Lambs saved per 100 ewes one year old and older was 116 in 1986, compared with 112 in 1985.

Nationally, the total inventory of sheep and lambs was estimated at 10.3 million head, a 3 percent rise over the 9.98 million reported a year earlier and making the first increase since 1982. The value of all sheep and lambs on Jan. 1 totaled $782 million, up 16 percent from a year ago. The average value of $75.70 was $8.30 higher than the 1986 figure.

Stock sheep inventory increased to 8.82 million head nationally, up 4 percent from a record low on Jan. 1, 1986. The 6.84 million ewes one year old and older represented an increase of less than one-half percent from a year earlier. Ewe lambs increased 24 percent to 1.3 million, and the number of wether and ram lambs was 15 percent more than last year.

The U.S. lamb crop of 7.35 million in 1986 was down 1 percent from the 1985 crop. Breeding ewes one year and older on Jan. 1 were down 6 percent from the previous year. The 1986 lambing rate was 108 lambs per 100 ewes one year and older, compared with 103 in 1985 and 99 in 1984.

30 YEARS AGO

THIS WEEK

— The Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission announced Thursday that a previously unannounced pricing order effective Feb. 1 will maintain the 25 cent a quart retail milk price in the Philadelphia milkshed.

It is estimated that this will add nearly $3½ million to the farm income this year.

— The herd having the highest monthly butterfat average in January in the Red Rose Dairy Herd Improvement Assn. was that of Harry H. Ranck, R1 Ronks. The herd averaged 1,912 lbs. of milk and 75.5 lbs. of butterfat.

— The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced that its first market-promotion display of United States agricultural products at international trade fairs in 1957 will be an exhibit of livestock feed at the International Fair in Verona, Italy, March 10-19.

— The U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced that honey will be supported during the 1957 marketing season, which starts April 1, at a national average price of 9.7 cents a pound. This is 70 percent of the current parity price adjusted the 60-pound container level. For the 1956 crop of honey the national average support level also was 9.7 cents per pound, equal to 70 percent of parity.

– Indian River Poultry Farm, Inc., has acquired the breeding program of Shenk Hatchery, Harrisonburg, VA. This includes the birds in pedigree pens, the supply flocks, and growing stock

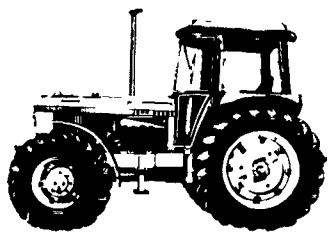
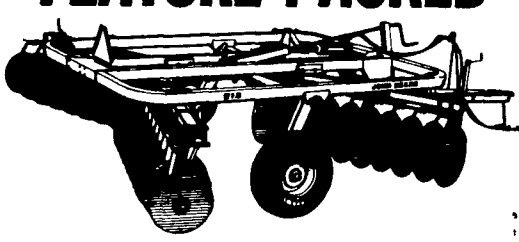
A NEW 95-HP ALL-PURPOSE TRACTOR



- A 6-cylinder, 359-cubic-inch, naturally aspirated engine lets the new 3150 produce 95 PTO hp*.
- Compared to the "classic" 4020 Tractor, factory tests indicate the 3150 is about 5 percent more fuel efficient and has more torque reserve.
- Features for the 3150 include 16-speed top-shaft synchronized Hi Lo transmission for no-clutch, power shifting on the go. Caster/Action™ MFWD offers terrific traction and tight turning.

*Horsepower measured at the PTO at 2400 rpm in factory tests

NEW LOW PRICE, FEATURE PACKED



- The new John Deere 215 Standard Disk is packed with quality and features at a new low price. Look what you'll get:
- Level-Action™ design for smooth disking. Dura-Flex® bearings for long-lasting performance. Strong, rigid scrapers to work in a variety of field conditions. A choice of blades on 9-inch spacings.
- Crank-adjust fore-and-aft leveling. And John Deere's double-offset design lets all the gangs work as a team for level disking performance.

GEHL®

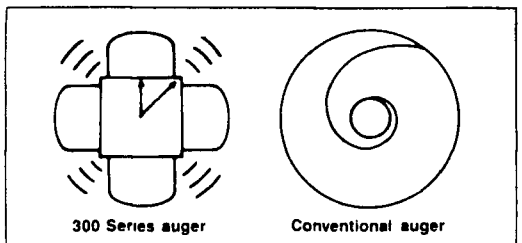
THE ONE SPREADER FOR A TWO-SPREADER FARM

THE NEW 300 SERIES GEHL LINE OF QUALITY SCAVENGER SPREADERS

From Liquid To Stable Manure To Make Hauling A Pleasure

HANDLES ALL KINDS OF MANURE — LIQUID, SEMI-SOLID, PEN PACKED, EVEN FROZEN

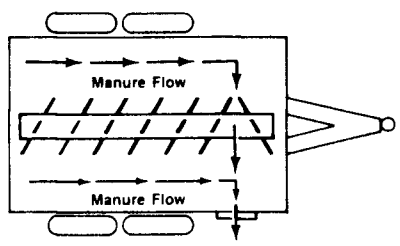
The Big Difference: A Square Auger



300 Series auger — Conventional auger

The right pitch is important because round augers with unusually large pitches often move manure too quickly to the front of the spreader where it overflows before the discharge is able to spread it

Hydraulic power helps the auger solve two of your biggest spreading problems. Move the auger up and down to chop through bridging. And in winter, park the auger in the up position, then power down to slice through frozen material



Fewer Moving Parts, Fewer Breakdowns

Let's face it...no one likes to handle manure. Or worse, struggle with broken-down manure handling equipment.

A Gehl "300" is a simple spreader. One with no unreliable flails. No leaky endgates. No brittle apron chains. A solid, durable spreader. With sealed, welded Unibody construction. Ruggedly built to give you top performance... year after year.

With a full 10-year warranty against rust-through on the tank.

A Gehl "300" is what every ordinary spreader is trying to be... the most machine for your money.

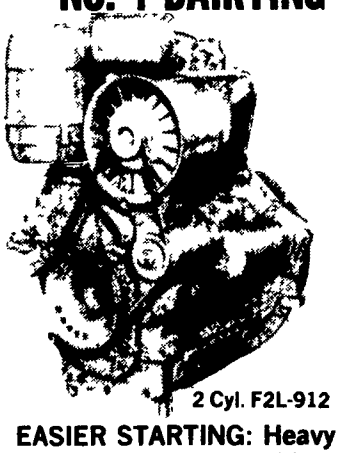
NO. 1 DAIRYING DIESEL



2 Cyl. F2L-912

KHD DEUTZ

Since 1968 F2L-912 diesels have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel. Don't settle for less.

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting. No electric heater plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

New Rating
26.5 HP @ 1800 RPM
20.0 HP @ 1500 RPM

Fewer repair parts than comparable three-cylinder diesels - cheaper to overhaul.

It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

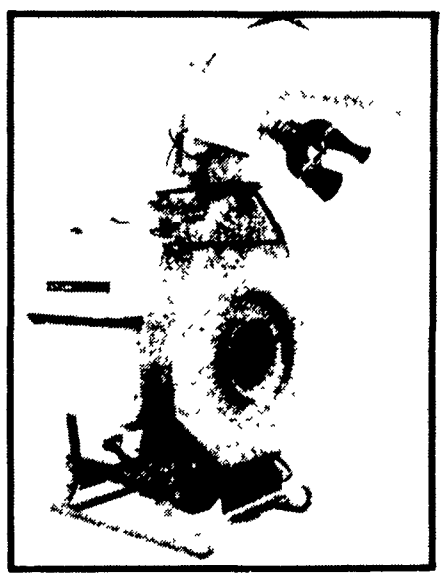
MODEL C-400 "CANNON"

Versatile Sprayer For Many Different Applications Of Insecticides And Fungicides!



Aerodynamic Design Of The "Cannon" Head Delivers

MORE AIR!

39" fan produces 280 MPH air speed. Allows you to cover 100-130 feet which means fewer trips thru the fields, fewer drive roads and more crop per acre.

MORE PENETRATION!

Design gives a well-defined, easily controlled mist, yet small cannon covers crop close to tractor. High air velocity produces a finer mist which penetrates short dense growth or tall crops such as sweet corn. Also allows smaller volumes of water with excellent coverage and fewer trips to the water tank.

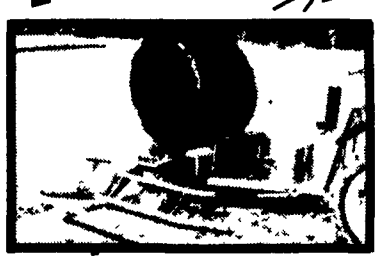
THE NEW ROUND BALE WRAPPER
Round Bale Wrapping — An Economical Efficient Method Of Making Silage



This is the Silawrap system:

- The lift-arm places the bale on the turn table.
- Silawrap film is then attached to one of the bale strings.
- As the turn table is rotating, the rollers will slowly turn the bale.
- The Silawrap film is stretched around the bale overlapping 2-3-4 or 5 times according to the setting of the gears.
- The film is cut, film end secured and bale tipped off.

Cattlemen Discuss Future Of Beef At Annual Conference

BY JACK HUBLEY

BOILING SPRINGS – Colorado cattleman Richard Farr isn't pleased about beef's image, and he's quick to point out that the nation's cattlemen are at least partially to blame.

Farr, the executive vice president of Farr Feeders, Inc., came to Pensylvania last weekend to talk beef at the Pennsylvania Beef Cattle Conference held at the Allenberry Resort in Boiling Springs. He is the fourth generation to head up the 35,000-head Farr Feeders operation.

"We've somewhat created the health concerns," Farr said in an interview following his presentation on the subject of feeding cattle. "While fed cattle numbers have gone down, tonnage (of beef) has accelerated," Farr said, noting that over-finished beef animals are out of sync with consumer demand for leaner beef. "We've fed cattle too long hoping for a better market," he said. "We all live under the thought that it's going to be better next year."

At the same time, said Farr, cattlemen have had little economic incentive to produce leaner beef. "The better cattle should be six to seven dollars (a hundredweight) higher, but we're still in a world of averages," he pointed out.

Farr spoke out in favor of vertical integration as a means of obtaining a quality product at a competitive price. He pointed to the poultry industry as an example of the success possible through a coordinated production and marketing effort.

The cattleman estimated that about 18 companies control 80 percent of the poultry business in the nation. "Those 18 control the chicken from conception to the consumer," he said. "They can see ideas through from beginning to end."

By contrast, "there are 600 large cattle feeding companies that produce 75 percent of the fed beef in the United States," he said. "And their supply comes from thousands of producers." Farr added that many types of contractual arrangements other than outright ownership could provide the benefits afforded by vertical integration.

But producing quality beef at competitive prices won't be enough if that product has no identity, in the form of a brand name, said the cattleman. "You just can't sell a commodity," he stressed.

Farr, whose firm will contribute $85,000 annually to the $1-per-head beef checkoff, expressed his support for the program. "I'm one thousand percent for the dollar checkoff," he said, pointing out that the beef industry-and all of agriculture-is still production oriented and needs to learn how to market its product.

"At the same time, part of those checkoff funds will be spent on research," he said. "For the first time we'll have the money to do some basic nutritional research." Richard Farr was one of nearly 20 industry, government and university experts invited to address the two-day conference. The event also featured the presentation of PCA's industry service, seedstock producer and commercial cattleman awards, as well as the crowning of the 1987 Cattlemen's Queen, included elsewhere in this week's edition.

Cattlemen's Awards

Recipient of this year's Seedstock Producer Award was Leon Falk, Jr., owner of Falklands Farm, the well-known Polled Hereford operation near Schellsburg, Bedford County.

The 1800-acre Falklands purebred operation is home to 250 brood cows as well as a number of nationally recognized herd sires. On the show circuit, Falklands has campaigned one national champion bull and two champion females.

Leon Falk served as director of the National Polled Hereford Association from 1967 until 1971 and was elected chairman of the board in 1970. He was president of the Livestock and Allied Industries Association from 1958 until 1967.

The 1987 Commercial Cattlepersons Award was presented to the husband-wife team of Norman and Marie Painter of Elkland, Tioga County. The couple, along with their children, Becky, Dorotha, Amy and Charlie, operate an integrated beef, dairy and meats enterprise. The Painters own a 40-cow purebred Polled Hereford herd, a 55-cow Holstein dairy herd and operate a slaughtering and meat marketing business.

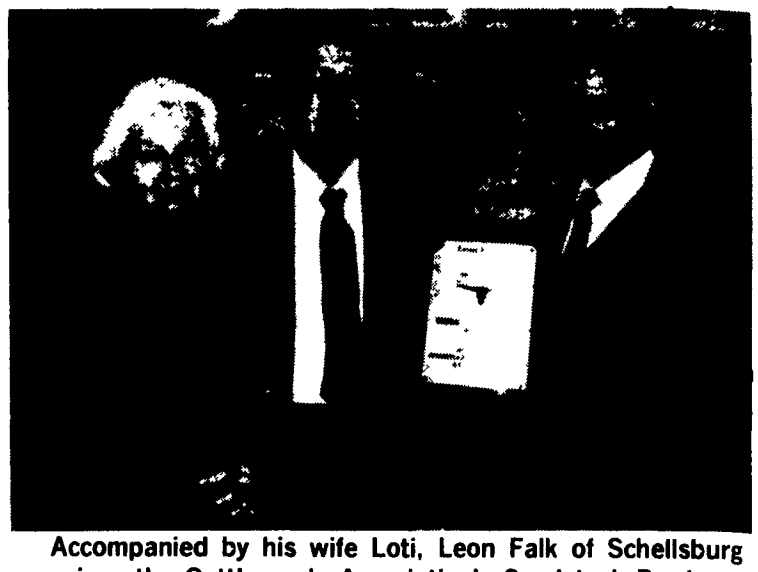
Norman has served as president and board director of the Pennsylvania Meat Processors Association and the couple was named the Tioga County Livestock Family in 1981 in recognition of their support for youth programs.

Marie serves on the Pennsylvania Farmers Association's Livestock Committee and has worked as secretary for the Northern Tier Beef Cattlemen's Association. Norman currently serves as president of NTBCA.

Accepting the Industry Service Award on behalf of his brother Don and himself was Walt Keister of Keister's Middleburg Auction. The brothers purchased the facility in 1974. Don serves as president and Walt is secretary.

In the interest of their industry, the Keisters began participating in the 25-cent-per-head voluntary beef checkoff in 1982. The percentage of their customers checking off was higher than at any other auction in the state.

The Keisters began hosting their annual Ag Day at the Middleburg facility three years ago. Aimed at promoting every phase of Pennsylvania agriculture, Ag Day attracts nearly 40,000 people each June.



Accompanied by his wife Loti, Leon Falk of Schellsburg receives the Cattlemen's Association's Seedstock Producer award from PCA president Conrad Grove.

Norman and Marie Painter, Elkland, received the Commercial Cattlepersons award.

Walt Keister (right) of Keister's Middleburg Livestock Auction was the recipient of the Industry Service award.

Baby Pig Management

Baby pig management is a joint venture between the sow and the producer. The sow has the major responsibility. But unless you manage the farrowing house properly she'll never meet her potential for raising a large litter.

The first rule of baby pig management is to keep the pigs warm and dry. The newborn pig is not much different than a cold-blooded animal. His body temperature will be close to the temperature of the surroundings. When born into an environment that's less than 90 to 95 degrees, a pig will have to burn extra energy to keep warm. So at best he'll stop growing. At worst, his fat and glycogen stores will be quickly depleted and put him into a life threatening situation.

The second rule of baby pig management is to be sure that every pig gets colostrum. Colostrum contains a high level of immune globulins that are absorbed directly by the pig during the early hours of life. Since the pig's immune system doesn't develop fully until three or four weeks of age, colostrum is his only protection until then. Two things to remember about colostrum: 1) It will provide immunity only against diseases that the sow has been exposed to. 2) The pigs ability to absorb colostrum diminished quickly with time and as he consumes liquids.

Ensuring Equal Colostrum Intake

Some producers remove baby pigs immediately after birth and place them in a heated box or creep area until all pigs have been born. This has several advantages: It prevents chilling of the pigs. It allows equal access to the udder by the entire litter so the last pigs born aren't at a disadvantage. It's easier for the manager to help the pigs establish nursing order and prevent pigs from fighting for the same nipple. And finally, it ensures that the manager be present to help or prevent problems.

Equalizing Litter Size

Cross-fostering pigs is a good management practice and can be successful when done properly. Sows with small litters can nurse additional pigs from large litters, so that overall survival is improved. The pigs being transferred ideally should be no more than three days of age. But more important – the recipient sow should be no more than 24 hours into lactation.

Baby Pig Processing

Each manager has his own schedule for processing litters. It's important to find a schedule that's successful for your operation and stick to it. Here's a suggested routine:

Day 1: Clipping teeth, an important practice for preventing baby pigs from injuring each other, should be done during the first 24 hours of life. Clip about half of the tooth. That will get rid of the sharp points without risking gum injury.

Other procedures that are best done on the first day include ear notching and antibiotic shots.

Day 3: I prefer the third day for iron shots since it's one less stress for the first day, the pigs are a little larger, and you'll usually have less leakage. Many producers inject into the neck muscle to prevent potential staining of the ham. I much prefer the ham and have personally never seen any staining when the shots are given at this young age. Note that 100 mg of iron dextran is sufficient. And a single shot is adequate until the pig begins consuming creep feed.

Days 7 to 14: This is the ideal age for castration. For vaccinations follow the directions given on the label.

Conference To Focus On Growing Turkey Industry

UNIVERSITY PARK – The turkey industry in Pennsylvania continues to grow. Per capita consumption of turkey has increased from 1.3 pounds per American annually in 1931, to 13 pounds annually today. Along with this increase in Americans eating turkey, the number of turkeys produced in Pennsylvania has increased sixfold. A Turkey Conference is scheduled to aid this development.

The 1987 Turkey Conference will be held on Mar. 10 at the Sheraton Inn, Business Route 15 South of Gettysburg. Programs can be obtained from county extension offices or by writing to Linda Houtz, 213 W.L. Henning Building, Penn State University, University Park, PA 16802.

Program topics will include a panel of management and flock performance, the future of further processing, selling turkeys retail, surveillance and diagnostic work, as well as other topics related to genetics, environment, nutrition, health and behavior.

Creep Feeding

Creep feeding can begin at about 10-14 days of age. Remember that at this age, the pig's stomach is very small and is usually full of milk so he won't eat much solid feed. Your objective is to introduce him to feed, not to replace the sow's milk supply.

Feed each litter a handful at a time. Feed on the floor or in a shallow pan. Raising the pan a few inches helps prevent wastage. Use self-feeders with caution. Many producers have a tendency to fill them and forget them. The result is a feeder full of stale, caky feed and a low rate of consumption.

One point to remember is that the sow can meet the pig's growth requirements until about day 21. After this, the pig's growth potential will be greater than the sow's milk output. So if weaning is several days after the third week, creep feed composition is important.

Expected Weights By Age

To evaluate sow performance and your management ability, pigs should be weighed at birth and at weaning. Listed below are the expected weights at several ages.

Birth 2-4 pounds (84% will fall in this range); 3 weeks 2-13 pounds; 4 weeks 14-15 pounds; 5 weeks 18-20 pounds; 6 weeks 25-28 pounds; 9 weeks 45-50 pounds.

Pigs should occasionally be weighed again at 2 weeks post weaning. If you're practicing early weaning, then pigs should average .5 pound per day during this 2-week period. If they don't gain that fast, it's a good indication that you're weaning too early.

Artificial Rearing

Most producers make no effort in raising surplus pigs, or pigs that lost the battle for a place at the dinner table. But the bottom line is that if the pig is average or better in size, raising him in a small pen will probably pay for itself.

For artificial rearing to work, it's best to remove the pigs just as soon as they have had colostrum. Provide clean fresh milk replacer. When using commercial milk replacers, follow directions to the letter. Use clean equipment. Keep the feeding area dry. Feed in such a way that the pigs don't get wet while drinking. And finally don't overfeed the milk replacer — you're far better off to keep the pigs a little hungry.

MPPA Introduced To 'The Other White Meat'

BY SHARON SCHUSTER
Maryland Correspondent

WESTMINSTER, Md. – The Maryland Pork Producers Association wants more people to "eat high on the hog." Larry Heidebrecht, representative of the National Pork Producers Council, presented marketing techniques for "The Other White Meat," at MPPA's annual banquet on Feb. 20 in Westminster, Maryland.

Heidebrecht showed a film which addressed marketing concerns. A report from the National Pork Producers Council, the film declared that the council has become "a tougher more aggressive competitor. Marketing is what we're all about."

NPPC claims to be the "largest, best organized commodity group in the nation. Generating the highest possible returns on your pork check-off investment is our top priority," announced the film's narrator.

Heidebrecht reported that the NPPC has a "four-pronged approach in targeting retailers, wholesalers, packers and processors to help spend more money in advertising and merchandising." Peggy Fleming will be the new spokesperson for the NPPC. She will be featured in 20 pork campaigns during the year. Heidebrecht said she is being paid "somewhere between $150,000 and $175,000."

A 10-week concentrated campaign is planned for Baltimore, at an estimated cost of $104,000. "We have a regional approach in merchandising," he explained. "We're pushing for a revolution in the way pork is merchandised at the meat case." Some new items may include case-ready and precooked pork.

"Positioning is really what we're trying to do in marketing the product," said Heidebrecht. "With the wave of consumerism going toward eating more light, white nutritious meat, as in the perception of the consumer, we're trying to change away from being a red meat, as being perceived as having the positive connotations as white meat. But the catcher on that is that we taste better."

Heidebrecht encouraged pork producers to follow a three part plan as the equation to success. The first third of the equation is to make production costs the lowest possible and by looking for alternatives for marketing hogs. "Be in the top third of marketers in your area." The next third is leadership, and finally, "enthusiasm for your own state and your industry."

"It's not easy out there. What we're trying to do is take the farms to the public. That's what we're all about – promotion of your product," said Heidebrecht.

New Maryland Pork Queen

The Maryland Association also selected a Pork Queen from three contestants. Second runner-up was Jeanne Lockard. First runner-up was Kathy Bower, and the new Pork Queen for Maryland is Jennifer Langenfelder.

Among the award winners at the Maryland Pork Producers Banquet were Dr. Ed Young (left); Cheryl Pinkerton accepting for her father Walter Roan; and Frank Feeser.

In her address to the members, Jennifer outlined nutrition facts about pork. "The public needs to be made aware of the great qualities of today's pork, and that's where our checkoff dollars are put to work." Jennifer suggested that promotion should be extended to the local level to include booths at county fairs. "As individuals, we as pork producers can promote our own product in our own homes. This is a modest but effective way to teach people how nutritious and delicious pork really is."

Jennifer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dutch Langenfelder. Judges for the event were Martha Clark of Howard County, and Tom Wagner of Mount Airy Locker Plant.

MPPA Awards

Awards were also distributed at the meeting. For excellence in feeder pig production, Walter Roan received the Jim Ferguson Memorial Award.

Dr. Ed Young received the Roy Porter Memorial award. Young was responsible for processing all the data from the Maryland test station.

Frank Feeser received the carcass contest trophy, and Donald Morrison was presented with a $150 gift certificate in appreciation for services rendered.

Ford New Holland Buys Versatile

WINNIPEG, Can. — Versatile Corporation has agreed to sell its farm equipment business to Ford New Holland, Inc., a subsidiary of Ford Motor Company.

The Versatile Farm Equipment Company, based in Winnipeg, manufactures large four-wheel-drive agricultural tractors ranging up to more than 400 horsepower, an innovative bi-directional four-wheel-drive-tractor, and two lines of harvesting machinery.

Ford New Holland sells a full range of two-wheel-drive agricultural and industrial tractors and harvesting and haying equipment. It also builds diesel engines for agricultural and truck use.

"The Versatile products complement our existing lines perfectly," said H. G. (Mac) McCarty, Ford New Holland vice president and president of New Holland Inc., the subsidiary to which Versatile will report.

"Equally important, the acquisition helps us toward our goal of keeping our dealer organization increasingly competitive, and improving our market penetration in areas where we would like to be stronger," he continued.

McCarty said bringing Versatile into the Ford New Holland family "makes this a full-line company with high-quality products in all segments of the market — from lawn and garden products up to the largest farm tractors built in North America."

The transaction is subject to clearances by agencies of the Canadian and United States governments, and final agreement by the parties on the terms of the sale.

The purchase price is approximately $180 million (Canadian), which includes wholesale and retail receivables and the assumption of certain liabilities.

McCarty noted the key role the Canadian government played in the negotiations and in providing a loan of $45.5 million (Canadian) to Ford New Holland to help relaunch the operation.

"The Canadian government's commitment to Versatile, its employees, dealers and customers very much parallels Ford New Holland's," McCarty said. "We envision a long-term use of the Winnipeg operation for the design and manufacture of Versatile products. We see its potential as a center for the design and manufacture of new products. We are particularly interested in the bi-directional tractor and its highly innovative technology."

McCarty said Versatile management hopes to begin calling back some workers to the Winnipeg plant as soon as possible. The plant has been closed since last July because of poor market demand. "We anticipate production will begin in July," he added.

Ford New Holland products are distributed by about 2,600 dealers in North America. Versatile has about 335 dealers, located primarily in the grain-growing regions of western Canada and the northern plains states.

In an earlier move to broaden and strengthen its position in the agricultural equipment industry, Ford Motor Company acquired the New Holland business from Sperry Corporation last year. Ford Tractor Operations and New Holland were consolidated into a single operating entity Jan. 1, under the new name of Ford New Holland, Inc.

Ford New Holland had sales revenues of more than $2 billion dollars in 1986. It has 18,000 employees worldwide, manufacturing facilities on four continents, and conducts business in well over 100 countries.

Dale Martin, (left) manager of Farmer Boy Ag, Lebanon, presented the firm's first-place swine production award to Kevin and Jay Rohrer, Hidden Acres Hog Farm, at Pork Congress on Feb. 19. The father-son team averaged 23.4 pigs per sow last year, and weaned 9.31 pigs per litter. Their farrowing rate was 90.31 percent.

Earning Farmer Boy's second-place production award was Joel Martin (right) of Pork Chop Farm, New Holland. Martin posted an annual production average of 22.7 pigs per sow, 10.5 pigs weaned per litter, and a farrowing rate of 91.6 percent.

Stauffer Joins White Oak Mills

ELIZABETHTOWN — H. Glenn Stauffer has joined White Oak Mills as a sales and service representative for dairy, swine and beef customers in western Lancaster County and York County.

Stauffer has spent nearly 40 years in the livestock industry. His career began in 1949 as a dairy herdsman for the Brethren Home in Lititz. In 1965, he moved into sales and service with Leola Feed and Grain.

From 1975 to 1979, he represented the Grubb Supply Co. of Elizabethtown. His father-in-law, Paris Good, was a Grubb Supply sales and service representative from 1953 until his retirement in 1975. Grubb Supply was bought by White Oak Mills several years ago, so Stauffer, in a sense, is returning to a former employer.

For the past 12 years, Stauffer has worked extensively with the Master Mix research program, participating in a number of training seminars at the Master Mix Decatur, Ill., facility.

Mexico Buys Surplus Dairy Products

WASHINGTON — A sale of $43 million worth of U.S. nonfat dry milk to Mexico was announced by Acting Under Secretary of Agriculture Richard W. Goldberg.

The sale was made by the Commodity Credit Corporation to Conasupo, the Mexican government's food purchasing agency.

The sale is for 110.2 million pounds. The nonfat dry milk, part of the surplus inventory acquired under the CCC dairy price support program, was sold for $860 per ton free-on-board railcar at U.S.-Mexican border points.

Deliveries will be made through December 1987, with payment in U.S. dollars. CCC extended Conasupo three-year deferred payment arrangements at commerical rates of interest, Goldberg said.

As of Jan. 30, CCC's total uncommitted inventory of nonfat dry milk was 231.5 million pounds.

Pork Promotion

Ben Olewine (left) of Olewine's Inc., was recently cited for outstanding pork sales promotion. The Harrisburg-based food service distributor increased its sale of pork products by 76 percent last October. Gene Wingert, a National Pork Producers Council director, presented the award at Keystone Pork Congress on Feb. 19.

Farm Credit Banks Reflect Strong Regional Ag Economy

BALTIMORE, Md. — The Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, the area's leading agricultural lender, today issued 1986 year-end operating data that reflected the continued soundness of the mid-Atlantic region's agricultural economy, which contrasted sharply with the industry's financial stress nationally.

Earnings were up 13 percent from 1985 levels to approximately $30 million for the Baltimore Farm Credit Banks and its affiliated local Federal Land Bank Associations and Production Credit Associations. However, following loss sharing contributions to financially troubled Farm Credit Banks in the mid-West, a net loss of approximately $59 million resulted.

The Baltimore Banks and its affiliated Associations contributed over $88 million in financial assistance during 1986. After the 1986 loss sharing contribution, the Baltimore District's surplus accounts stood at approximately $228 million.

President of the Banks, Gene L. Swackhamer, commented, "Operating results for 1986 in this District are gratifying. We increased income 13 percent, before loss sharing, during what many have called the worst drought in this century. Additionally, during the year we reduced our interest rates to levels that our customers haven't enjoyed since the late 1970's."

Year-end operating reports included loan delinquency data which substantiated the sound financial position of the region's farmers. The delinquency rate for FLB farm loans was 4.3 percent of loan numbers and 4 percent of PCA loan numbers. These figures compare favorably with 1985 year-end percentages of 5.4 percent and 3.9 percent for the FLB and PCAs, respectively.

The number of FLB foreclosure cases numbered 157 at year-end 1986, down from 193 reported in December 1985. PCA foreclosure cases numbered 60, down from 71 a year ago. FLB net loan charge-offs reported for year-end 1986 were $300,000, down from the 1985 figure of 4.6 million. Combined FICB/PCA net loan charge-offs were $1.7 million, comparing favorably with year end 1985 levels of $4.2 million.

Complete financial information will be available in the Banks' 1986 Annual Report which will be released in mid-March.

The Farm Credit Banks of Baltimore, comprised of the Federal Land Bank of Baltimore, the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Baltimore and the Baltimore Bank for Cooperatives, are currently lending some $2.7 billion to over 56,000 farmers and farm cooperatives in the states of Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

BEAUTIFUL FARMSTEADS... A POSITIVE STORY

If You Have A Nice Looking Dairy Farm Send This Application in Now!

Dairy of Distinction
Dairy Farm Beautification Program

The Northeast is rightfully proud of its dairy industry. Agriculture is our number one industry, with milk its major commodity. Realizing dairying's importance to the area's economy, the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program (NEDFBP) was incorporated November 1983 to honor attractive dairy farms with the Dairy of Distinction Award.

The award program is based on the concept that these attractive farmsteads will enhance consumer confidence in the wholesomeness of milk, stimulate milk sales and encourage public support for the industry.

Beautiful dairy farms can be found in almost every non-urban county of the Northeast, from the Niagara frontier of New York State, to the mountains of Pennsylvania and New England and the shores of the Atlantic Coast.

The NEDFBP has divided the Northeast into regions, with approximately the same number of farms per district. Each district is under the jurisdiction of a local committee responsible for organizing the judging, awarding the Dairy of Distinction signs and publicity. The program also operates on the regional level through the NEDFBP Board of Directors, which oversee and provide support and guidance to the local committees.

All active dairy farms in New York State, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Maine are eligible to apply for a Dairy of Distinction award. Applications, available from the program's executive secretary, the local committees and other sources such as agricultural publications, must be submitted by April 15 of each year.

Farm judging takes place in the month of May and is based on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds and surroundings. Winning farms receive a colorful, aluminum 18 x 24 inch Dairy of Distinction sign to be placed on the farmstead near the roadside so passers-by can recognize the farm as a Dairy of Distinction.

Dairy of Distinction farms will be judged every year to ensure they maintain the excellent standards required for the award.

This exciting program promotes agriculture at its best. Broad public awareness of the program is vital to its success and the impact will increase as more consumers see Dairy of Distinction farms and associate them with dairy products sold in stores.

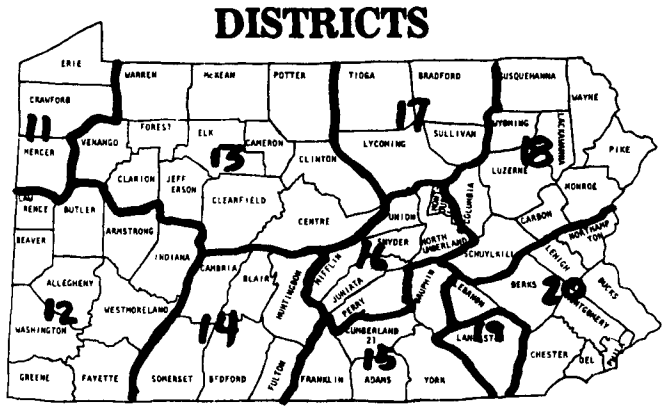
The Dairy of Distinction program is a cooperative, widespread industry effort. Sponsors include cooperative extension, agricultural cooperatives, State Departments of Agriculture, the Grange, Farm Bureau, producer groups and agribusinesses. Dairy of Distinction is a product of people who care about the Northeast dairy industry.

The NEDFBP extends an invitation to anyone interested in promoting beautiful dairy farms. Dairy of Distinction depends on people – particularly farmers who are proud of their farms and want to help the product they produce.

The program needs dedicated people who want to identify the best in our industry – and tell the public about it. It takes leaders who can motivate, educate and stimulate pride in dairy farming, pride in their region and a positive attitude among consumers of dairy products.

We love the Northeast – its lakes, hills, valleys, mountains, cities . . . and the beautiful Dairies of Distinction!

DAIRY OF DISTINCTION DISTRICTS



Pennsylvania Is Divided Into These Districts. Approximately 10 Dairy Of Distinction Awards will be made each year in each district. There is no cost to you. You receive a nice metal sign to put at the end of your lane and a certificate. In addition Lancaster Farming will present this year's winners from Pennsylvania with a color photograph made from a color slide. If your farm is a winner be sure you or your district committee takes a slide of your farm and sends it to Lancaster Farming in time for the awards ceremony.

Brubaker Agronomic Holds 8th Annual Banquet

LEOLA — Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service recognized its customers for outstanding yields at the firm's annual banquet/meeting at the Leola Family Restaurant on Jan. 30.

Taking blue ribbon honors for corn yields were Sam Keens, Lititz, 197 bushels per acre; Glenn Hershey, Kinzers, 198 bushels; Omar Fisher, Ronks, 198 bushels; John J. Landis, Leola, 201 bushels; Loren Zimmerman, East Earl, 207 bushels; Arthur Hess, Leola, 208 bushels; and Aaron R. Stoltzfoos, Gap, 216 bushels. Stoltzfoos planted Pioneer 3358 at a population of 25,300 plants per acre to obtain his top yield.

The evening's guest speaker was Alan P. Loss, a certified financial planner and agricultural economist who encouraged growers to fine-tune their farm business management practices by planning for the future.

Mike Brubaker, owner of Brubaker Agronomic, concluded the program with an update on private pesticide applicator regulations and the results of the firm's 1986 field experiments.

Sponsors for the program included American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, FMC Corp., Hoffman Seeds, Lancaster Farm Credit, Martin's Water Conditioning, Master Farmer Fertilizer, Monsanto, Paradise Tobacco Sales and Stanford Seeds.

Yield award winners at Brubaker Agronomic's recent banquet were (left) Loren Zimmerman, Samuel Keens, John J. Landis and Arthur Hess.

Farmers Benefit From Placing Seed Orders Early

MOUNT JOY — Although it comes at a time when many people don't think about spring planting, early seed orders can benefit farmers.

One benefit is savings on the purchase, says John Weidman, area sales manager for Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc.

"Many companies offer some form of discount for early orders. On a total seed purchase, these savings can be significant," he says.

Assuring adequate seed selection and supply are also advantages to getting an order placed with the company early.

"In areas where few varieties or hybrids are in big demand, purchasing seed early helps ensure a grower gets the seed he wants," Weidman adds.

If a sales representative is already sold out of a particular hybrid or variety, early ordering gives him the time to make contacts within the sales network to locate the requested seed before planting time.

"Having the right seed is crucial to successful crop production. Early seed purchases can help relieve some of the worry and risk -- and provide farmers with a savings at the same time," Weidman says.

Delmarva Poultry Begins $340,000 Drive

GEORGETOWN, Del. – Dr. Keith Rinehart, first vice president and fund drive chairman of the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. has announced that the goal for the 1987 DPI Fund Drive is $340,000. Nearly 200 volunteer workers from throughout the Delmarva broiler area attended the recent fund drive kick-off meeting.

Senator Lewis R. Riley (center) provided the keynote address at a recent fund drive kickoff meeting sponsored by the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. With him are fund drive chairman Keith Rinehart (left) and DPI first vice president David VanHoose.

DPI is the 4,000 member, non-profit trade association representing all phases of the more than one billion poultry industry on the Delmarva Peninsula.

Maryland State Senator Lewis R. Riley of Wicomico County was the featured speaker for the evening. Riley pointed out the importance of the broiler industry to the Delmarva Peninsula, saying "If ever growing chickens has been the salvation of the agricultural economy, it has been in 1987. Many farmers, myself included, would have been out of business had it not been for the healthy economy generated by the industry in recent years."

Riley, a poultry producer, told the fund drive workers the poultry industry receives no government assistance and he said the industry should be proud of that.

Rinehart, vice president for technical services at Perdue Farms, Inc., reported a total of $194,716.03 in cash and pledges had been collected. The campaign continues until the reporting deadline of Mar. 24.

NEWARK, Del. – Cost-of-production worksheets for 15 commercial crops most often grown in Delaware are now available from the Cooperative Extension System. The worksheets offer information on yield and price under the best, expected and worst conditions.

Worksheets are offered for alfalfa (established and new crop), watermelons, cantaloupes, strawberries, cauliflower, cucumbers, harvest pickles, corn (dryland and irrigated), barley, wheat, soybeans (full season and double cropped), sweet corn (fresh market or processing), peas, lima beans and cherry peppers.

To obtain a copy of any of these worksheets or to request a complete computer analysis of cropping alternatives, contact your county extension agricultural agent in Newark (451-2506), Dover (697-4000) or Georgetown (856-7303).

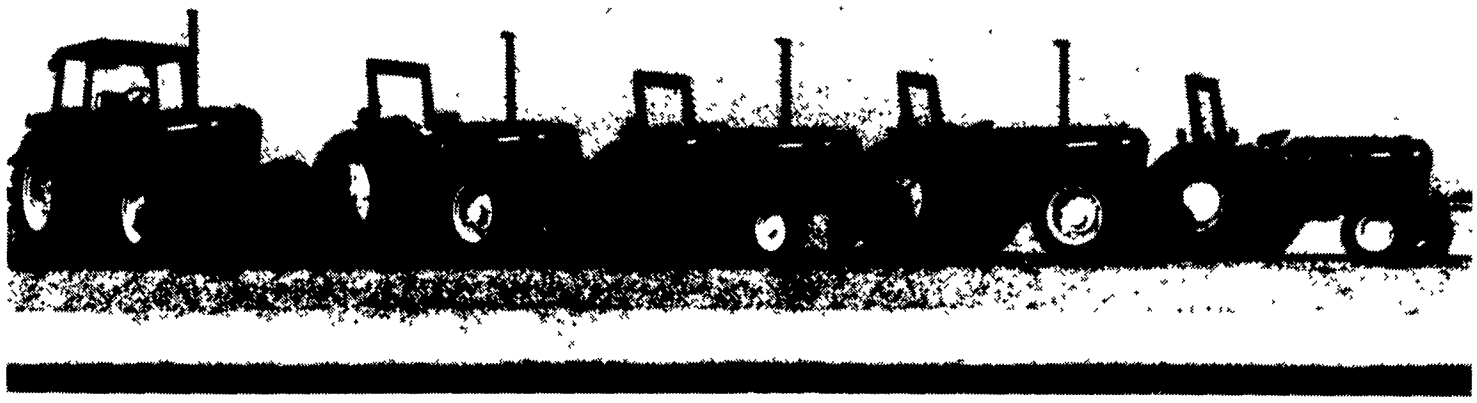
New Deere 55-Series Tractors Offer 45 To 85 HP

MOLINE, Ill. — John Deere has introduced 13 tractor models from 45 to 85 horsepower for broad agricultural, specialty and general purpose uses. The new 55-series utility tractors are designed for high reliability, greater fuel economy, increased comfort and efficiency, and more convenient servicing.

There are five agricultural tractors, the 2155 (45 hp), 2355 (55 hp), 2555 (65 hp), 2755 (75 hp), and 2955 (85 hp). A line of four specialty tractors includes the 2355N (55 hp) and 2855N (80 hp) compact models designed especially for orchard and vineyard operations, and the 2755 (75 hp) and 2955 (85 hp) high clearance models for use in other specialty crops.



John Deere's 55-Series line includes five tractors for agricultural applications and four models for orchard and vineyard operations and high-clearance work.

The 55-series models combine exceptional lugging ability with fuel economy — up to 10 percent greater fuel efficiency, even in hard working conditions. The steep torque rise of these engines permits drawbar pull increases up to 20 percent at 80 percent of rated engine speed with no downshifting.

Low-friction pistons reduce wear and develop more power, and higher ring placement helps prevent compression loss. A new thermo-start heater element preheats air in the manifold for more trouble-free starts in cold weather.

A top-shaft-synchronized (TSS) transmission is standard on the 2755 and 2955 models and is available as an option on the 2155, 2355 and 2555. The standard transmission for the three smaller models is a non-synchronized collarshift. Synchronized shifting adds to efficiency, especially with rolling loads.

TSS models operate at a slower engine speed of 2300 rpm for longer life, improved fuel economy and quieter operation. The TSS transmission case has three divided chambers for different oil levels. The gears are only partly immersed in filtered oil, so the transmission absorbs less horsepower and therefore runs more efficiently.

Both transmission types feature helical-cut gears, which provide greater contact area for the gear teeth so the transmission can withstand higher loads and operate more quietly.

All models offer an independent rear 540 rpm PTO. In the fall of 1987, a new 1000 rpm front PTO will be available for 2355 through 2955 model tractors equipped with a Sound-Gard body. With an optional front hitch, the front PTO permits simultaneous operation of both front- and rear-mounted implements. For example, a front-mounted sprayer and a seedbed finishing tool could be used together. Front- and rear-mounted mowers could also be combined for fewer field passes.

A draft-sensing rear hitch adjusts to implements, soil and terrain. Lower-link sensing automatically adjusts for rough field spots.

Power steering is standard on open-station 2155 through 2755 tractors with two-wheel drive. Hydrostatic power steering is standard on the 2955 and on models with mechanical front-wheel drive and Sound-Gard body. This gives extra steering capacity for tight maneuvering in places such as feedlots when a front loader is being used.

Hydraulic oil-cooled brakes are self-adjusting and self-equalizing. Brake piston retraction springs ensure consistent brake pedal travel and eliminate brake drag for increased fuel efficiency.

Economist Predicts Brighter Outlook For Beef, Pork Producers

PRESCOTT — Beef and pork producers can expect a brighter future compared to the last several years due to declining inventories. However, red meat prices will not respond accordingly due to increased broiler and turkey production, a Penn State economist explained.

H. Louis Moore explained what has been developing in the beef and pork industries at the recent agriculture seminar hosted by Lebanon Valley National Bank at the the Prescott Firehall.

"At this point for the livestock industry it appears there is a light at the end of the tunnel because grain will remain relatively cheap," Moore said. For Pennsylvania agriculture this is good news since Pennsylvania ranks as the eighth most important livestock state according to USDA figures. Moore explained that the Keystone state ranks high because of the large dairy, poultry and hog industries in the state.

The number of cattle on the farms has dropped steadily since 1975, the economist noted. In 1987 cattle inventories are expected to total 102 million head, the lowest inventory since 1962, Moore said.

"So cattle inventories continue to go down. Although there was some disappointment when this number came out that it hadn't declined as much as people thought it would. So people said the price wouldn't increase as much as they had hoped," he added.

"The beef herd continues to decline and is likely to continue to decline for another year," Moore predicted.

Beef production is expected to mirror the inventory decline. Production in 1986 totaled 23.9 billion pounds. In 1987 production is expected to reach 22.3 billion pounds. The drop equates to fairly good news for beef producers, Moore noted, since there will be less beef on the market.

The net margin for beef producers in January and February of 1987 has improved compared to the last three years. In these months beef feeders made a couple of cents and in March they should make some money, Moore speculated. There are 5 percent fewer cattle on feed and marketings have increased by 3 percent, he noted.

Optimism prevails among the producers as they are holding more heifers on the feedlots compared to a year ago, Moore said. The supply has dropped by 3 percent and futures prices are higher than a year ago, adding to the optimism in the ranks, he explained. Moore hinted that the unusually high slaughter rate in 1986 was a result of the Dairy Termination Program.

"The net effect for cattle producers is somewhat brighter than it has been in recent years."

Hogs

Hogs are a quick changing business, but Moore said he was "flabbergasted" at what has been happening in recent years.

The number of hog operations has increased and the trend is toward bigger producers. He noted that 7.1 percent of all the operations contained over 500 hogs and accounted for 56.4 percent of all the hogs produced. This trend will put pressure on the smaller producers and force them out of business, Moore explained.

"When the pig crop report came out in September it indicated inventory dropped 5 percent. When the December inventory came out the number of hogs in inventory dropped 3 percent," Moore said. The breeding hog, market hog, and farrowing inventories also slowed number declines compared to a year ago, he reported.

"So we see expansion in the hog business already taking place," he explained. While the national inventory has decline, Pennsylvania's total inventories increased 15 to 18 percent, Moore said.

Last May producers made $2.49 per hundredweight. In July the amount increased to $11.48 per hundredweight on the average. However, in December the price dropped slightly, he reported. "So we see that business is changing somewhat but it still looks relatively attractive," Moore commented.

Beef, pork and lamb meat production is expected to drop or remain static for 1987. Yet, this will not necessarily equate to higher prices, Moore explained. Broiler and turkey producers are competing for the same market, he noted, and poultry production is expected to increase in 1987.

Complicating matters for the red meat producers will be grain producers attempting to utilize their product and net a profit, he said. Cheap grain equals cheap livestock and products, Moore said, explaining a forecast formula. However, this equation doe not work in the short run, he added.

Moore predicted prices for corn will not increase since carryover totals are projected at 5.9 billion bushels, nearly a year's supply. Future prices and the export market have declined steadily, he noted.

NACD Accuses President Of Abandoning Soil Conservation

LEAGUE CITY, Tx. – In response to President Reagan's budget proposal, the National Association of Conservation Districts has accused the administration of abandoning its pledge to support a strong soil and water conservation agenda. In a letter to the President, NACD President Clarence Durban said he was deeply disturbed that the President had not sought to adequately fund the conservation provisions of the 1985 Farm Bill that he signed into law and supported.

The President's fiscal 1988 budget for the Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is drastically cut from fiscal year 1987 appropriations–$609 million compared to the President's '88 proposal of $476 million. NACD noted that several long-standing conservation programs had been cut entirely under the administration's proposal. Based on previous proposals and experience, the association predicted the plan would run into strong opposition on Capitol Hill.

"The farm bill's Sodbuster, Swampbuster, Conservation Compliance, and Conservation Reserve Programs are the most far-reaching conservation programs we've had in a long time," Durban said. "Rather than lose what we've already gained, we need a supplemental appropriations that will support the federal technical assistance needed to fully implement the conservation provisions of the farm bill," he added.

Durban pointed out the unique and highly successful partnership that exists between local conservation districts, state soil and water conservation agencies, and the Soil Conservation Service. "This partnership is in jeopardy," Durban said. "While state and local governments have substantially increased their financial investments in soil and water conservation, your proposed budget diminishes the federal commitment and, in fact, fails to support the mandate of the American people and their Congress, which you yourself so vigorously endorsed," Durban told the Pesident.

A nationwide NACD survey indicated that an additional 2,900 SCS technical employees at the field level are needed to fully implement the conservation provisions of the farm bill required to be completed by 1990. To fund those needs, the association is seeking a $95 million emergency supplemental appropriations from Congress.

The non-profit, non-governmental national conservation organization represents 3,000 local conservation districts nationwide.

Chesapeake Bay Awards Honors Given

By Jay Reiff
Special Report

WASHINGTON, D.C.–Farmers, environmentalists, representatives of industry and local government and a trade association were heralded tonight as "heroes" of the Chesapeake Bay for "their tireless efforts to help protect America's most precious waterway."

The recognition came at the second annual Chesapeake Bay Awards ceremony, co-sponsored by the Izaak Walton League of America and the DuPont Company and hosted at the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of Natural History in Washington, D.C.

Said Jack Lorenz, Executive Director of the Izaak Walton League, "The Chesapeake has many invaluable marine resources, but its greatest resource is the people living on its shores and tributaries who strive daily to restore the Bay's health. Thus, it is the Bay's human resources we honor tonight."

Lee M. Thomas, Administrator, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, congratulated the award recipients for their "exemplary efforts on behalf of one of America's most endangered environments."

Said Thomas, "The battle to save the Bay is being won by people like you. All Americans owe you a great deal of thanks."

The 1986-87 Chesapeake Bay Conservation Award winners are as follows:

James Michener, the famed author, honored for the great impact his book, "Chesapeake", and other related work have had on raising the public's awareness and appreciation of the Bay.

Don Spickler, a Clear Spring, Md., dairy farmer, conservationist and civic leader, recognized as a highly respected spokesman for agricultural conservation. Spickler has dealt with the challenges and changes in the soil conservation arena in a manner that has enhanced agricultural participation in the Chesapeake Bay restoration effort, and has heightened public perception of farmers as active conservationists through various local and state committees he's served on.

Barbara O'Neill, an environmental activist from Port Deposit, Md., received an award for her tireless dedication to the Chesapeake Bay restoration effort. Actively serving on the Coastal Resource Advisory Committee, the State Water Quality Committee and Maryland's Critical Area Commission and personally challenging development projects in her home county has enabled Ms. O'Neill to help safeguard the health of the bay.

Al Myers, Manager of the Governmental Relations Division of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, from Camp Hill, recognized as a key individual in the creation and shaping of Pennsylvania's Chesapeake Bay Program. By serving on the Bay Advisory Committe to Pennsylvania's State Conservation Commission, and the Chesapeake Bay Citizen's Advisory Committee, Myers has been responsible for garnering the strong support of the agricultural community for the state's Chesapeake Bay Program.

The Skipjack Award was given to Bruce Reid, staff writer for the Newport News - Daily Press, of Newport News, Va. for his in-depth investigation and series of articles on tributlytin paint, its uses and potential effects on the Bay and tributary waters. Reid has translated complex economic and scientific information into terms more readily understood by citizens of the Bay region.

Dr. William Eberhardt, Environmental Manager for Procter and Gamble's Mehoopany Plant, received an award for his development and guidance of the innovative pollution control technologies the plant employs. Under Eberhardt's direction, the plant has minimized its impact on the Susquehanna River and has set an example for industry to follow.

Potomac Supply Corp., a family-owned and operated lumberyard located in Kinsale, Va., was recognized for its innovative environmental advances in the treatment and storage of lumber. By developing a no-discharge system for handling chemicals, and by covering their extensive lumberyard to prevent leaching and runoff, the company has attained minimal environmental impact on the Yeocomico River, a tributary of the Potomac River.

The Lancaster County Conservation District, recognized for serving as a model and prototype for other counties in the state concerning (Pennsylvania's Chesapeake Bay Non-point Source Abatement Program). The conservation district is helping to accomplish the goals of the State's Chesapeake Bay restoration program in one of Pennsylvania's most heavily agricultural regions, while maintaining the cooperation of the farm community.

John Gottschalk, counsel for the International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies and president of the Citizen's Program for the Chesapeake Bay, Inc. recognized for his leading role in marshalling public support for governmental efforts to restore the Chesapeake Bay.

The Marine Trades Association of Maryland, a coalition of marine interests located in Annapolis, Md., received this award for their support of Bay restoration efforts. Through various educational activities and public relations efforts, the association has created a positive attitude within the maritime business community towards Bay environmental concerns.

Conservation Tillage Remains Popular With Farmers

HARRISBURG — Last spring, 45 percent of the field crops planted in Pennsylvania were planted by some form of conservation tillage, representing a 3 percent increase over 1985.

John Spitzer, agronomist with the USDA Soil Conservation Service in Harrisburg, predicted a similar growth for 1987. "Conservation tillage will continue to grow in usage primarily because farmers can lower operation costs, stated Spitzer. Farmers must lower costs to maintain their profit margin. Reduction of soil erosion is a side benefit," added Spitzer.

Various forms of conservation tillage such as chisel plowing and no-till planting can reduce soil erosion on gentle slopes by up to 90 percent. On steeper or longer slopes, other conservation practices such as contour farming, strip cropping, terraces and/or waterways, are used to achieve good soil and water management.

According to the report issued by Spitzer, 996,000 out of 2,196,910 acres planted last Spring were prepared with some form of conservation tillage. This included 866,000 acres of full season corn, 65,434 acres of small grain and 62,490 acres of full season soybeans.

Spitzer added that other plantings which use conservation tillage, such as double crop soybeans, pasture reseeding, fall grains and vegetables will be made.

American Polled Hereford Association Elects Directors

KANSAS CITY, Mo.--Polled hereford breeder James Bennett of Knoll Crest Farm, red House, Va., has been elected chairman of the American Polled Hereford Association board of directors. Filling the role of vice chairman of the board will be Irvin "Tuffy" Torgerson of Pettibone, N.D.

They were elected during the 64th National Polled Hereford Convention Show-Sale held during the Dixie National Livestock Show, Feb. 16-19, in Jackson, Miss. New directors assuming positions on the board are Warren Cornelius, Longmont, Colo.; Bill Yowell, Killeen, Texas; and Gary Hedrick, Columbus, Miss.

Bennett and his sons own and manage Knoll Crest Farm, their purebred Polled Hereford operation. Bennett also owns and operates the Red House Bull Evaluation Center.

Through local and state organizations, he has been a strong supporter of Virginia agriculture. A charter member of the Virginia PHA, Bennett has since served as president and vice president of the association, was editor of the PHA newsletter and served two terms on the board of directors.

He is also past president of the National Beef Improvement Federation (BIF) board and past president of the Virginia Beef Cattle Improvement Association board. He was appointed by the Virginia governor to a second term, that he is now serving, on the Virginia Board of Agriculture and Consumer Service.

Bennett has received many awards honoring his service to agriculture, including being named the BIF Seed Stock Producer of the Year, the Virginia BCIA Seed Stock Producer of the Year, and recognition by Progressive Farmer magazine as Man of the Year in Service to Virginia Agriculture.

Bennett and his wiffe, Barbara, have one daughter, Beth, and four sons, Paul, Jim, Brian and Jonathan.

Torgerson operates his ranch in central North Dakota and has been raising Polled Hereford cattle since the 1950s.

For many years the North Dakota Polled Hereford Association has benefitted from Torgerson's involvement with the breed. He served the group fro 17 years as secretary and sale manager. Torgerson has been a member of the North Dakota Winter Livestock Show committee for 13 years and also served on the Farmers Home Administration board.

In 1978 Torgerson was honored with the North Dakota Polled Hereford Association's Man of the Year Award. Two years earlier the North Dakota State University Alumni Association chose Torgerson for their agriculturist award.

Gehl's new 1000-rpm direct drive forage blower can fill the tallest silos.

Gehl Introduces New Forage Blower

WEST BEND, Wisc. – The new Model FB1560 1000-rpm direct drive forage blower is designed to fill the tallest silos.

"The 1560 has a 42-inch fan and shares the design features that have made Gehl forage blowers the performance leader," according to Terry LeFever, Gehl Forage Machinery Product Manager. "The twin spinner delivery system rifles material into the blower fan at nearly 35 miles-per-hour. There the twin sided fan, with paddles on each side, blows it up the pipe with ease. It's like getting two blowers in one."

All Gehl blowers feature split rim sheets with a special replaceable inner liner that's made from higher carbon steel for longer life. Other features include an adjustable left tire for fast and easy setup at the silo. And there's a swing-away blower outlet for easy checking of fan paddle/rim sheet clearances.

"In addition to the new Model 1560," says LeFever, "Gehl's lineup includes the 540-rpm direct drive Model 1540 and the Model 1580 which can be used with either 540 or 1000-rpm tractors."

Innovation...The Cutting Edge' Is Corn Conference Theme

UNIVERSITY PARK – An update on news from Washington affecting corn producers will be a major topic at the Second Annual Pennsylvania Corn Conference, scheduled for March 3 at Embers Restaurant, Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

Al Tank, vice president of the National Corn Growers Association and Washington, D.C. representative for farm and government programs, will discuss this important issue. Tank's presentation will set the tone for the one-day conference planned around the theme "Innovation . . . The Cutting Edge."

A representative from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Markets will discuss a potential initiation of a corn checkoff in Pennsylvania.

Participants can choose from four afternoon workshops including: Innovative Heat Reclaimers for Corn, Dollars and Sense - Reducing Your Input Costs for Your 1988 Corn Crop, Nitrogen Management Techniques, and Managing Weeds With Emphasis on Triazine Resistant Weed Problems. Speakers include faculty from the Pennsylvania State University and the University of Maryland.

Exhibitors also will be featured at the conference, which is sponsored by Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers' Association, Allied Industries, and the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service. For information, a registration form and tickets, contact your county extension agent.

Farmers Can Cut Seed Costs For Conservation Reserve

WASHINGTON – Erosion-conscious farmers who sow less grass per acre on idle land and spray a weed killer right away could reap a bumper crop of savings for themselves and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, a USDA scientist reports.

If farmers joining the Conservation Reserve Program apply research findings on just 6.5 million of the 45 million acres of highly erodible cropland USDA hopes to enroll, savings of $18 an acre, or more than $100 million could be realized, the scientist conservatively estimates.

Farmers joining the program could cut seed costs by sowing two native warm-season grasses – switchgrass and big bluestem – at half or even a fourth of maximum recommended rates and spraying atrazine before the grasses emerge, said Kenneth P. Vogel of USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Farmers would split their savings with USDA, which pays half the cost of grass seed or trees for reserve lands, said Vogel, an agronomist at the agency's forage and range research laboratory in Lincoln, Neb. USDA also pays an annual rental fee to participating farmers, who in exchange agree not to crop the land for 10 years.

The reserve program, authorized by the Food Security Act of 1985, has so far enrolled nearly 9 million acres of its 45-million-acre goal, said Vincent E. Grimes of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

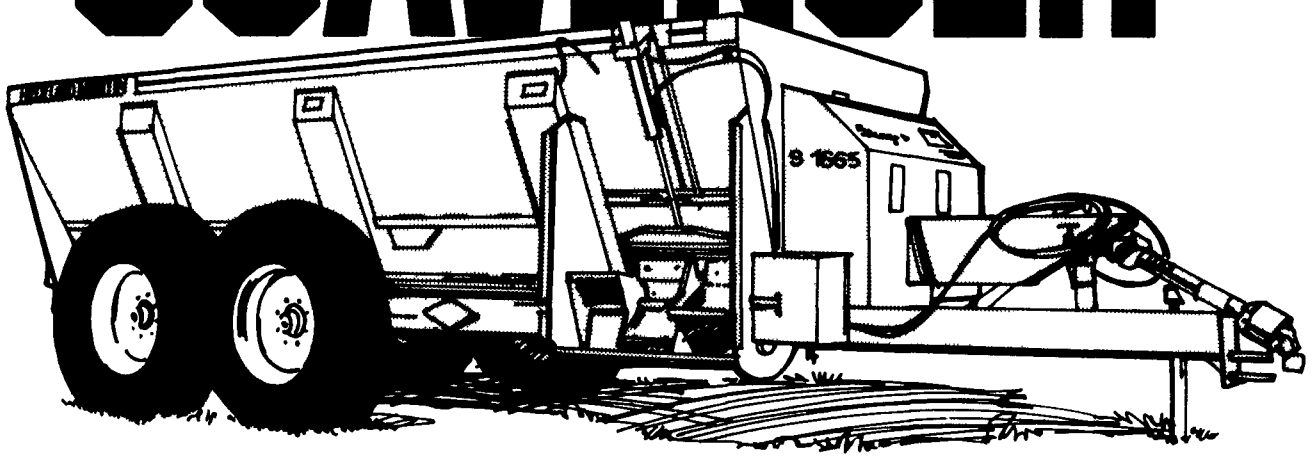
"The findings –from several research studies – are ready to be applied, and atrazine is cleared for this use," said Vogel, who noted that the grasses would still control erosion at the lower seeding rates.

High demand for native grasses has sent some seed prices skyrocketing in the Nebraska-Kansas-Missouri area. Vogel said the price for certified native switchgrass – "if you can find someone with any left to sell" – has more than doubled, from $3 or $4 a pound two years ago to $10 today. Some varieties of big bluestem have jumped from $8 and $12 to more than $15 a pound.

Farmers already use atrazine to protect new seedings of the two grasses, which aren't harmed by the chemical, said Vogel. And if atrazine is used and seeding is done properly, he said the chance of successfully establishing the grasses is usually more than 90 percent.

Other grasses and grass mixtures containing big bluestem and switchgrass will be used in the conservation program, but only these two can tolerate atrazine, said Vogel.

SCAVENGER™



What every ordinary spreader is trying to be.

Years ago, Hedlund/Martin introduced a revolutionary new concept—the Scavenger spreader. It was the first spreader specifically manufactured to let you take advantage of today's modern farming practices.

And while some other spreaders now claim to give you the same versatility and capabilities you get from Scavenger, in the field—where it counts—they just don't perform like Scavenger.

At Hedlund/Martin, we've been building Scavengers for years Prior to introduction, Scavenger spent even more time in research and development Through practical experience we know what works and what doesn't And, frankly, a lot of the features appearing on other new spreaders are simply some of the bugs we worked out of the Scavenger years ago.

Scavenger is designed to be versatile. It spreads the kinds of manure you handle today—liquid, semi-solid, pen pack—even frozen. In patterns perfect for you're cropping needs—from heavy springtime spreading to fine, even top dressing

There are many reasons why Scavenger is such a hard worker. Like the specially-designed, patented square auger to thoroughly break up manure as it moves through the tank Or the unique, Martin-designed Variflo Discharge to give you complete application control Or any of the other special features that separate Scavenger even farther from the crowd. Like heavy-duty, energy-efficient transmissions to reduce wear and tear on your tractor. Full-frame Unibody construction for extra durability And a distinctive tank design to eliminate leaks and improve spread capabilities

There's even a choice of models to meet your operation's individual needs So you buy the machine that's the right size, the right capacity—and most importantly, the right price—for you

For all the facts stop by your local Hedlund/Martin dealer for a demonstration See for yourself why Scavenger continues to be a leader in the spreader category it created

Veterinarian + Dairyman = Profits

Herd Health Programs Require Team Effort To Succeed

BETHLEHEM — "Is the veterinary profession going to help the dairy farmer stay in business, or is Coca-Cola going to manufacture a low-fat product made from soybeans?"

Turning a statement of policy into a question, Dr. Elwood Borger welcomed a large crowd of dairymen and veterinarians to the Dairy Herd Health Seminar held recently to educate veterinarians and dairymen to work together for greater profits.

The seminar was held at the Holiday Inn, Bethlehem, last week, and was sponsored by several ag-businesses and the Ackermanville Veterinary Hospital. Total herd health programs which the veterinarian could introduce and aid in implementing with his dairy farmer clients, and which the dairyman could then carry out on his farm were stressed throughout the day.

"We should all be working together for better profits," stated Dr. Charles Gardner, Ackermanville Veterinary Hospital, as he echoed the sentiments of his associate. "Dairy farmers will have to continue to change if they want to remain profitable, and the role of the veterinarian will have to change to," he continued.

Gardner maintained that there are six key areas of dairy management that a veterinarian must have a good working knowledge of to help his client. The knowledge of these key areas and the willingness of the dairyman to allow his veterinarian to treat sickness, prevent disease, and maximize herd performance add up to a total herd health program.

Basics of nutrition, mastitis control, reproduction, replacement animals, housing and records, were all addressed by Gardner. The records of a dairyman, whether DHIA, calf records, or supplemental records, brings all of these areas together for the veterinarian, according to Gardner. Also, the dairyman as well as the veterinarian must be motivated and must benefit from such a program to ensure its success.

Following this point, the featured speaker, Dr. James Jarrett, Rome, Ga., began his discussion on making a total herd health program work on the farm. A previous president of the Bovine Practitioners Association, and a contributor to Hoard's Dairyman, Jarrett explained his basics of good cow management in a practical, common sense approach.

"Too often we know what to do, we just don't get it executed," he began. "Good management depends on getting the little things done."

Jarrett began by discussing mastitis and stated that the control program begins in the environment of the cow.

"Water, except in the watering trough, is one of the worst enemies on a dairy farm," he stated.

Jarrett suggested: clipping udders for added cleanliness; pre-stripping before milking to reduce count in the bulk tank; pre-dipping to get pre-kill on bacteria; and completely drying off a cow before attaching the milking unit.

He also advised having the milking system checked often, checking equipment often and using a good teat dip. Iodine, with a broader spectrum of killing bacteria, and with glycerin added so that it stays on the teat longer is Jarrett's preference.

The replacement program on a dairy farm, "begins the day you turn the mother dry," according to Jarrett. "I like to see most of the vaccination program concentrated in that dry cow," he continued.

"Every dairy farm has three rations," Jarrett noted as he began his discussion on nutrition, one of his four areas of concern, "the one that's calculated, the one that's mixed, and the one that's fed," he stated. Nutrition, Jarrett continued, deals with quality forage and the art of storage, and "you try to get her to eat one more bite." He added that cows should be fed as much on body condition as on production.

Success in reproduction has much to do with dry cow management, according to Jarrett. Shock her to dry her off and then gently get her going uphill just before she calves, Jarrett advised.

"The best cow person on the farm should be responsible for heat detection," Jarrett explained. The person, the time of day, and the surface can all effect good heat detection.

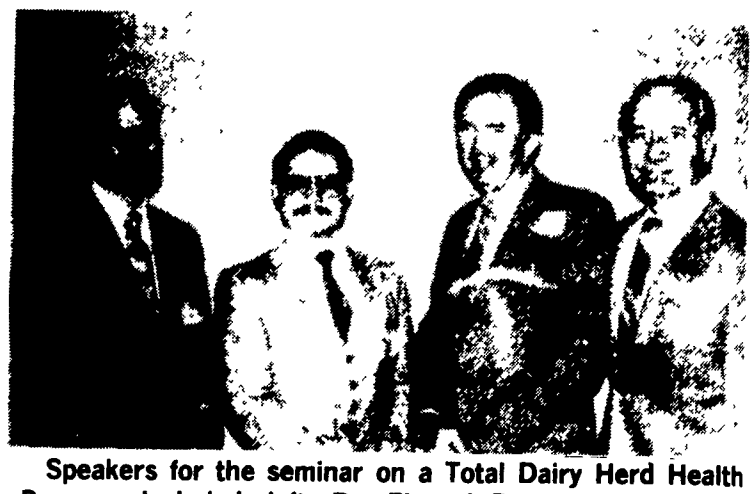
Concerning infectious diseases and vaccination programs involving reproduction, Jarrett said, "If you put her under enough stress, you can break any vaccination program."

"It all works together," he said as he concluded his presentation. "It's a matter of putting the total package together."

Also on the program was a review of computer programs developed for a total herd health program. Dr. Charles Rinehimer, Ackermanville Veterinary Hospital, presented the computer program. Stressed as an ideal program to monitor changes in the herd over each month, Rinehimer is currently working with several clients on this program.

Gardner summarized the curriculum of the seminar in one of the handouts he provided to all participants.

"A total herd health program can pay good dividends for the veterinarian administering it, and especially for the dairyman receiving it. It requires at the outset, that both the dairyman and the veterinarian want the veterinarian to be an integral part of the herd management team. Beyond that it simply requires the proper knowledge on the part of the veterinarian and the willingness to institute and follow sound management programs on the part of the farmer."



Speakers for the seminar on a Total Dairy Herd Health Program included, left, Dr. Elwood Borger, Dr. Charles Gardner, Dr. James Jarrett and Dr. Charles Rinehimer.

Mathews Offers New Grain Dryers

CRYSTAL LAKE, Ill. — Mathews Company announces its new 1987 field proven Expandable Grain Dryer models.

The new M-C dryers retain all the basic features of future expandability together with new enclosed wet grain hoppers. These hoppers contain all dust, bees wings and other airborne particulate resulting in a clean dryer environment.

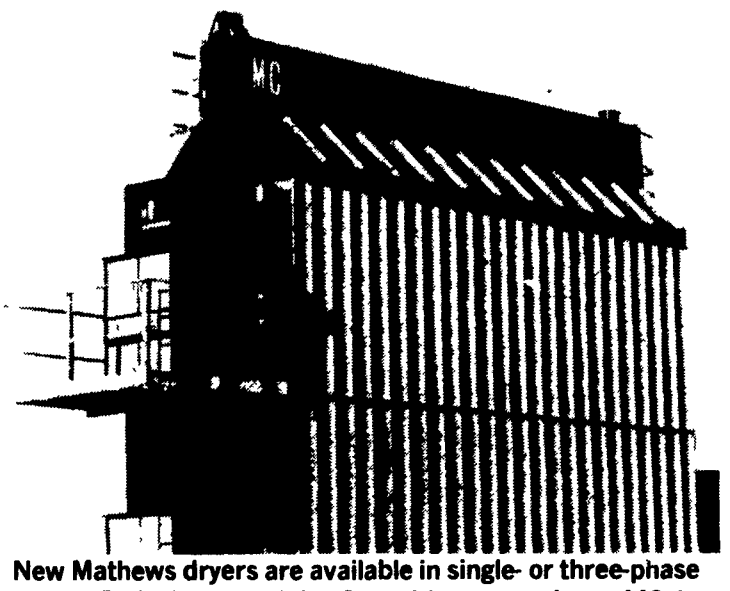
Internally, the new hopper design does not allow wet grain bridging or the accumulation of dirt and foreign material build up prior to entry in the drying columns.

The amount of grain in the 12-inch-wide grain columns has been increased, exposing more grain to the drying process.

A new SCR motor drive system controls the gentle discharge of grain from full length metering rolls located at the base of the drying columns. It is integrated with a new moisture sensor probe system in the grain column that together provide moisture accuracy of the discharged grain within two-tenths of a percentage point.

The operator can easily control the desired moisture content of the discharged grain by setting two dials located on the front of the control panel. Past mechanical adjustment systems that included belts and ratchets, have been eliminated.

A new wet grain hopper inspection walkway is standard on all modular models (optional on base models). Front service platforms are standard on modular models. Rear access ladders are standard on all models.



New Mathews dryers are available in single- or three-phase and two PTO drive models. Capacities range from 440 to 1,850 bu/hr.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative Honors Members

MOUNT JOY — The milk market remained strong last month with the base milk price 89 cents higher than one year ago, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative's general manager explained.

Dr. Paul Hand, speaking at the recent District 7 meeting at the Country Table Restaurant, noted the Class 1 milk price in January 1987 was 63 cents higher than the support price. Also, the base milk price improved by 89 cents in January 1987 as compared to January 1986.

"The past 12 months with the buyout program has resulted in a very favorable supply-demand situation," Hand said. However, last month the butter and cheese prices fell below the support level for those products, he added.

This decline will have a negative impact on the Minnesota-Wisconsin price. "I expect the Minnesota-Wisconsin price to fall perilously close to the support price," Hand said. The effect will be felt into the spring and June when seasonal increases in price will occur, he stated.

He cited two points which he feels will enable the dairy industry to stay strong in the future.

A substantial amount of milk will still be removed from the market due to the buyout program, Hand noted. With a large number of herds still slated to go out of production before the program ends in August, he added, production levels will be maintained below last year's level.

The second reason is continued strong dairy product sales, he continued. Class 1 and Class 2 milk posted increases in sales during the past year, he stated. Each year for the past three years, Hand continued, dairy product sales have eclipsed the previous year. At no other time, since such statistics have been kept, has this occurred, he added.

"There is a 50-50 chance that the government won't buy over 5 billion pounds of dairy product at the end of 1987," Hand said. USDA figures indicate the government will be purchasing about 400 million pounds over this mark, he explained.

"It's important that we keep an eye on production to see what we can do to influence the Secretary when he comes to make that decision," the general manager said. "It would be unfortunate if purchases were at 5.1 or 5.2 billion pounds and we had to take a 50 cent drop in the support price on Jan. 1, 1988," he added.

Hand explained that the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative board would work with members of the National Milk Producers Federation to attempt to prevent the support price cut.

On Oct. 1, 1987 the support price will be dropped 25 cents and the 25 cent assesment will be eliminated. There will be no net adjustment of the support price, he explained.

Since the merger on Feb. 1, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has operated with no major problems, Hand said. The checks went out on time with little interference from the Post Office, he added.

Hand echoed fieldman Andrew Marvin's earlier remarks concerning hauling cost savings. Through improved efficiency, farmers will experience long-term benefits, he said. "There won't be a 10 cent savings tomorrow," he cautioned.

The merger between Lehigh Valley Farmers and Inter-State Milk Producers on Feb. 1 resulted in Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, the largest dairy cooperative in the Northeast, Hand said. The new co-op markets 1 billion pounds of milk more than the second largest, he added.

"Even with our large size, we

Bear Biologist To Address Dauphin Co. Sportsmen

HARRISBURG – Gary Alt, nationally recognized for his research on the black bear, will be the featured speaker at the Dauphin County Federation of Sportsmens Clubs Annual Banquet. The banquet is scheduled for 7 p.m. on March 6 at the Circle G Inn, two miles north of Dauphin along Route 22/322. A social hour is scheduled for 6:00 p.m.

According to Norman Brady, president of the County Federation, the banquet is open to the general public. In addition to Alt's black bear presentation, outstanding conservationists will be named and door prizes will be awarded.

Alt began his research in 1974 and since then has tagged and equipped with radio equipment some 2,000 bruins. Mummert described Alt as an innovator in black bear research. Alt's work and subsequent findings are recognized a being some of the most significant of any research done with black bears.

Since banquet space will be limited, reservations will be taken on a first-come basis. Reservations may be made by sending a check payable to "DCFSC" for $10 per person to Irvin Peters, 7 Rutherford Road, Harrisburg, PA 17109.

For further information contact any of the following: Norman Brady- 692-2649; Buss Peters- 545-1625.

Northeastern Pa. Maple Producers Hold Annual Meeting

District Forester Anthony Santoli was the featured speaker at the annual meeting of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Maple Producers Association held recently at the Pleasant Valley Grange Hall.

Santoli provided the 90 maple producers attending the meeting with an overview of Pennsylvania's forestry program and spoke about acid rain and sugar maple dieback. He also provided information about state forests and hiking trails as well as other Bureau of Forestry programs.

Ed Curtis reported on the 1987 Pennsylvania Maple Council annual meeting held at the 1987 Farm Show and on the council's maple promotion booth. He also reported on the annual meeting and activities from the North American Maple Syrup Council meeting held in Vermont this fall.

Robert Hess of Montrose, Pennsylvania Maple Council treasurer, gave a financial report from the Pa. Maple Council's maple products sales booth. Sales from the booth were considered very good.

Area maple producers who exhibited maple syrup or maple syrup products at the recent Pennsylvania Farm Show were recognized for their participation.

Two maple movies, "Maple Spring" and "The Flavor of Vermont" were also showen.

A dinner of pancakes, homefries, eggs, sausage and 100 percent pure Wayne County maple syrup was served to all attending the meeting by members of the Pleasant Valley Grange Hall.

can't do much alone in the marketplace," Hand noted. There has been a consolidation of the buyers and a concentration of power confronts the co-op that dairymen are unaware of, he said.

To negotiate with milk buyers successfully, the co-op must be in a position to provide the needed service. If a confrontation takes place, the co-op needs an alternative buyer or a place to process members' milk, he explained.

Holly Milk fills this role for Atlantic Dairy, he commented. Holly Milk has the capacity to process 25 to 30 percent of Atlantic's milk.

In 1986, Holly Milk experienced the best year to date for its parent cooperative. Last year the processing plant generated slightly more than $1 million income from 605 million pounds of product marketed. The plant now has the capability to serve members the way the board of director planned, Hand explained.

The three locals in District 7 elected officers for the coming year.

In the Donegal local, Luke Brubaker won the office of president. Also elected were: Marvin Nissley, vice president; Galen Benner, secretary-treasurer; Jacob Conely and Stephen Hershey, delegates; Elvin Brenneman and Paul Sauder, alternate delegate; and Paul Garber, hauling committee.

D. David Martin won the election for president of the Lititz local. Lynn Royer received the nod for vice president. Other offices filler include: Gerald Martin, secretary-treasurer; Galen Crouse and Dale Hershey, delegates; Raymond Burkholder and Richard Kreider Jr., alternate delegates; and Ray Bollinger, hauling.

Results of the Lebanon County election are: Dale Kennedy, president; Arthur Brandt, vice president; J. Melvin Brandt, secretary-treasurer; Howard Kopp, delegate; J. Calvin Zimmerman, alternate delegate; and Jay Kopp, hauling.

Recognized for 25 years of membership in the cooperative were: Robert Kauffman, Elizabethtown; Elmer and Betty Gruber, Bainbridge; Balmer Brothers, Manheim; and Richard and Ruth Bruckhart, Mount Joy.

Noah W. Kreider and Sons were honored for 50 years of membership. The Manheim dairy was started by Noah and Mary Kreider. Presently, management of the farm lies with Richard and Pauline Kreider, Rick and Connie Kreider, Noah Jr. and Marian Kreider, Ronald and Hollee Kreider, and James Kreider.

Search Continues For Disease Resistant Soybeans On Delmarva

BY DORIS CROWLEY
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. – Farmers on the Delmarva peninsula who grow continuous soybeans often suffer significant yield losses in fields infested with the soybean cyst nematode (SCN). Research has shown these losses can be reduced or avoided by adopting certain cultural practices, including the use of nematode-resistant soybean varieties. The trick has been to identify the varieties that can stand up to this pest.

Since 1979 University of Delaware extension plant pathologist Bob Mulrooney has been conducting field trials to evaluate soybean varieties for cyst nematode resistance. Last summer he beefed up his efforts with 21 commercially available or soon-to-be-released soybean varieties in SCN infested soil on two cooperating farms, one near Dover and the other near Millsboro.

"I wanted to see how these varieties would do against Delaware namatode populations under Delaware growing conditions," Mulrooney says. "Sometimes varieties labeled resistant turn out to be very susceptible when we look at them on ground that's infested with our native race 3 nematode population."

His 1986 trials compared 21 varieties representing three maturity groups (III, IV and V) with susceptible checks from the same groups. Yields across all varieties at Dover ranged from 51 to 13 bushels an acre; those at Millsboro ranged from 322 to 6 bushels an acre. The soil at the Millsboro site was a loamy sand, that near Dover was a little heavier.

With increased recognition of the importance of cyst nematodes as a cause of yield loss, the specialist says soybean seed companies have been investing considerable effort in the development of resistant varieties over the past four or five years, with encouraging results.

Before then, most of the resistant genetic material was developed at public-supported research facilities – state agricultural experiment stations and U.S. Department of Agriculture regional centers.

"All the presently available group IV SCN-resistant varieties were developed under a regional USDA soybean breeding project in which Delaware is participating," the specialist says. "The varieties were developed at the USDA/ARS (Agricultural Research Service) regional soybean laboratory at the University of Illinois at Urbana. They were tested in Delaware, Virginia, Maryland, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, Kentucky and Iowa.

Delaware Extension became involved in that effort in 1984 because Mulrooney was looking for more potentially SCN-resistant soybean varieties to screen for possible local use. He has also cooperated in another USDA soybean breeding program in Mississippi for the same reason. That program is yielding some group V material which may have potential on Delmarva.

"When I first began screening soybeans for SCN resistance," the plant pathologist says, "only three commercially available varieties had true resistance – Forrest, Bedford and Franklin." Since then he has identified about 14 others "that I can categorically say perform acceptably well here in cyst infested fields."

Many of these resistant varieties have also performed well on non-infested soil in the University of Delaware's annual commercial soybean variety trials.

During Delaware crop tour last year, area growers compare performance of soybean varieties in SCN-resistance trials.

Mulrooney is convinced that resistant varieties are a must for producers trying to grow continuous soybeans anywhere near SCN infested fields on Delmarva. The plant pathologist chairs the disease loss estimate committee for the Southern Soybean Disease Workers – a working group composed of representatives of research, extension and industry. For the past four years, he has been responsible for analyzing survey results from member states in the region, which extends from Texas and Florida north to Delaware and Maryland. These figures show that during that four-year period the soybean cyst nematode has been the major cause of yield losses in Delaware and Maryland soybeans.

How much loss are we talking about? "Generally," says the plant pathologist, "farmers on Delmarva can expect at least a 33 percent yield reduction in SCN infested fields. In our 1986 field plots at Dover, the yield reduction in group III soybeans was 57 percent in the most susceptible varieties, with losses of 33 percent in group IV and 59 percent in group V beans." Losses in susceptible varieties were even higher at the Millsboro site.

"With last year's drought, you could spot nematode infested fields much sooner than usual," Mulrooney says. "If we have a lot of rain early in the season it masks SCN damage." The cyst nematode attacks the root systems of susceptible soybean plants, reducing their ability to take up water and nutrients from the soil. The result is stunted growth, early senescence and reduced yield.

"If you've been in continuous soybeans and SCN is in the area, the odds are very high that you've got cysts on your ground," the specialist says. Under these conditions, he strongly advises growers to plant resistant soybean varieties and, where possible, rotate to another crop.

Ag At The Crossroads: Not All Is Bleak In Farming's Future

by
RICHARD BARCZEWSKI
University of Delaware

Crisis! Crisis! I just reached 30! In all actuality reaching 30 years of age isn't any catastrophe. When I was 10 or 11 years old, 30 seemed an eternity away. My mother once told me that she didn't want to live to be thirty, that was at least until she reached 29.

To many of you, I realize that I'm still wet behind the ears, lacking experience that comes only with age. But reaching 30 is just one of those crossroads that we reach (with a little luck) in life.

Agriculture is at a crossroad, too. At the recent Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference in York, Earl Butz, former Secretary of Agriculture, addressed a group of farmers. Two key points of his speech were that over 40 percent of the farms in the nation have no debt. Yes, you read right, NO DEBT. And secondly, that the average debt to asset ratio for farms is 23 percent. That is, 23 percent of the asset value is debt. Many businesses would love to have that kind of ratio!

Dr. Butz made it clear that the media always harps on the bad news. Just think about it. How many stories have you read about a successful farm operation in a publication? How many times have you heard a success story on TV or radio? If you're like me, the answer is not many. For some strange reason all we want to talk about is failure. Not me, and just think, I just turned 30.

The media paints a very bleak picture for agriculture. In some ways, the picture is bleak. Some economists are predicting low corn prices for the next few years. But corn is only one crop that we're able to grow. There are others! Maybe we just need to push the pencil to find other alternatives.

In the hog business, low corn prices mean cheaper production costs. Cheaper costs of production at steady market prices means more profit. So while one segment of the farm economy is suffering, another is flourishing.

We in the East are in a very fortunate situation. We're close to our markets. Shipping produce from Florida or California is expensive. This means that there are key times of the year when we can be competitive against these sources.

With livestock freezer trade, the middleman is out of the picture, leaving both producer and consumer in a better position. Trees, shrubs, flowers and plants are all sought-after items in suburban areas and need to be produced by the agricultural sector. Maybe we need to take a hard look at what we're doing.

Not every enterprise mentioned above will be profitable for every farmer. All have advantages and disadvantages. There is only so much of a market and, as we've all learned, overproduction is a costly mistake.

Things aren't as bad as everyone in the non-farm media would have us think. I'm not saying that everything's good either!

They say that you can't teach an old dog new tricks. Agriculture is an old dog and it's learned new tricks over and over again. People involved in agriculture need to adapt to a changing world and local demands. Failure to do so will put you out of business.

Hog producers need to look down the road. Futures prices already indicate lower prices (down to the low 40s within the year). This shouldn't come as a surprise to anyone.

One thing I've always stressed is that hog producers know their cost of production. This one little number enables you to project how price differences and increased input costs (feed, medication and so on) will affect your profits.

We all know that there's a sad side to this story, too. Even though most of the farmers in the nation are not experiencing severe financial stress, some are. As Dr. Butz pointed out, some of these farmers will be going out of business. This is not a pleasant prospect, but it's a fact of life.

Reasons for individual business failure may include poor decision making, overextension of farm finances or just plain bad luck. Farmers need to be aware of the financial implications of everything they do in their business.

Let's not fool ourselves into thinking times are good for farm.. ng, because they're not. Just like me, agriculture is at a crossroads But people will always have to eat, and we in American agriculture must pull together to ensure a brighter future for the years ahead.

ABS Selects Pa. Bulls

DE FOREST, Wis. – Pen-Col Darryl-ET, bred by Pen-Col Farms, of Millville, Pa., has been selected by American Breeders Service to enter their Progeny Testing Program.

Pen-Col Darryl-ET is the result of the mating between S-W-D Valiant and Pen-Col Bell Dream. His dam has produced 32,041 pounds of milk, 3.8 percent fat and 1,212 pounds of fat as a junior 2 year old. She classified VG-85 and was sired by Carlin-M Ivanhoe Bell. She ranked 16th in the breed on the July 1986 CTPI list.

American Breeders Service has selected a young Holstein bull, Glee-Hi Matthew-ET, to enter their Progeny Testing Program. Bred by Glenn H. Freese, Oxford, Pa., he is the result of the mating between Air-Osa Oak Quick Shot and MD-Sunset-View Nugget Marie.

His dam's best record at 4-03 is 27,440 pounds of milk and 1,038 pounds of fat. Classified VG-86, she is sired by Cedar-Grove Golden Nugget.

Walnut-Dell Dominance will enter the ABS Progeny Testing Program. Bred by Albert and Elsie Mellinger, Strasburg, Pa., he is the result of the mating between Whittier-Farm Ned Boy, and Walnut-Dell Dolores Tradition, VG, who was sired by Sweet Haven Tradition.

The second dam is a VG Glendell daughter with records to 993 pounds of fat for a 4.5 percent test. The next dam is an Elevation daughter.

Fidelity Simpson-Red-ET, will enter the ABS Progeny Testing Program. Bred by Fidelity Holsteins, Martinsburg, Pa., he is the result of the mating between Misty-Maples Arlinda Magnet, and Brawnsteed Valiant Sunrise, a Very Good Valiant daughter.

By combining Misty-Maples, the highest PDM sire in the current AI list with Valiant, Steve Hoover at Fidelity Holsteins has produced a high pedigree indexed Red and White bull. ABS Manager of Dairy Sire Selection at ABS points out that the high repeatability sire lines in the pedigree offer a complete outcross to the Triple Threat, Cavalier and Enhancer bloodlines of most Red and White Holsteins.

Mark CJ Gillbrook Igenix-ET will join the ABS Progeny Testing Program. Bred by Intergen Limited Partnership I, Pittsburgh, Pa., he is the result of the mating between his Air-Osa Oak Quick Shot, and Welcome Valiant Gingersnap.

His dam's best record at 3-02 is 31,270 pounds of milk. with 4.3 percent test. The Valiant daughter's classification score as a 3-year old is VG-86. Gingersnap is from the same family that produced Gala Attraction.

The boots nobody else can make.

SuperSole Red Wings—They'll last longer and feel better than any other boots you can buy.

We make the uppers the way we make all our best boots. With a lot of skill. And with water-repellent leather so good it's worth more than the whole selling price of some boots. Then we stitch a welt all the way around. So they'll fit as well when they're old as when they're new. But what's special is the way we attach the sole. Instead of stitching or gluing it on, we mold it right onto the welt. So the upper and sole become one inseparable unit. And the process gives SuperSoles a skin that wears like iron—while the inside stays as soft as cushion-crepe. Some day, other boots may be made this way. But they still won't fit and feel like Red Wings! Get the feel of SuperSole Red Wings. They're at Red Wing dealers now.

The SuperSole Secret

is Red Wing's exclusive process that permanently molds the welted leather upper and the sole into a single, inseparable unit—and gives the sole its tough outer skin over a cushion-soft inside

Saving Soil Important To Chester County Dairyman

BY MARJORIE KEEN
Chester Co. Correspondent

Chester County's Conservation Farmer of the Year, Charles H. Gable of Elverson, found that he had two additional acres of pasture on Conebella Farm when he completed his soil conservation plan. By building a pond and installing 1150 feet of tile he drained low, wet ground and increased the pasture for his 130 head of Ayrshire cattle.

Gable said new marshland ecology legislation would prevent him from following the drainage plan in the same way today. However, he began the conservation measures in 1968 at the time 38 acres were added to the farm. Over the next 10 years Gable removed 2000 feet of fence rows and put in 8600 feet of terraces and 2500 feet of waterways to prevent erosion.

Recently Gable installed 250 feet of waterway in a rented field. "People said I was crazy," he smiled. He explained his philosophy of "leaving more wood on the pile" than he found.

Gable grows basically alfalfa and corn, with some wheat. His son Donald returned to work on the family farm after completing a degree at Penn State in 1985. Donald's wife Pam, has also been handling farm chores.

Gable was born on the farm purchased by his grandfather about 60 years ago. Conebella was named for two stations on the Reading branch of the Wilmington and Northern Railroad–Conestoga and Isabella. The railroad tracks cross a corner of the pasture.

In the 1930's Gable's father started the Ayrshire herd. Today 100 percent of the herd is homebred and the Gables are noted as breeders of registered Ayrshires. At the National Ayrshire Breeders Association meeting in New Hampshire in late April Gable expects to be elected a national director and also to receive the Constructive Breeder Award.

At one time Gable was president of the Pennsylvania Ayrshire Breeders Association. When the world conference of Ayrshire Breeders meets in Pennsylvania in the fall of 1988 Conebella Farm will be a stop on the tour for delegates. The Gable home proudly displays the red ribbon won by a Conebella Farm Ayrshire at the national show in 1980.

In addition to his interests in dairying and soil conservation, Gable is a director of the Chester County Water Resources Authority. He has also been active in the Chester-Delaware County Farmers Association.

The 1986 Soil Conservation Award was announced at the February Crops Day by Charles Harris, Chairman of the Chester County Conservation District, Elbert Wells, District Conservationist of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, said that determining factors in Gable's selection for the fourth annual award were (1) an innovative approach to protecting the resource base, (2) use of the newest methods and techniques and (3) the amount of work required to implement the farm plan. Approximately 3000 Chester County landowners have applied for plans to combat soil erosion.

With help from his son Donald and his wife Pam, Charles Gable (right) operates Conebella Farm, a 130-head Ayrshire operation. Gable was named Chester County Conservation Farmer of the Year.
